THE GREAT WAR.

DRAWING NEARER TO THE STRONGHOLD.

Japs Occupy Wolf Mountains, Ten Miles North of Port Arthur.

Chefoo Reports that the Attacking Forces Are Within Eight Miles of the Forts—Kouropatkin Decides to Withdraw to Haicheng—Vladivostok Squadron Shells Gensan and Four Men Are Wounded.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Japanese land forces are now within eight miles of Port Arthur, north of it, and have begun to bombard the Russians, replying vigorously. Two Russian officers tried to break through the Japanese lines and were captured.

BATTLE HAS TAKEN PLACE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A battle has taken place about ten miles north of Port Arthur. The Japanese occupied Wolf Mountains after desperate fighting. A Russian regiment was almost annihilated. The next line of defense is close to Port Arthur.

RUSSIAN ADVICES DIFFERENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30—Telegrams [illegible] relating the capture of forts forming a part of the [illegible] Port Arthur do not agree with information received at the War Office, nor with the reports of Gen. Stoessel, which indicate the siege operations are proceeding very slowly. Heavy guns have not yet been brought in range of the works at Port Arthur.

KOUROPATKIN TO WITHDRAW.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, July 1. The Ta Tche Kiao correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, in a dispatch dated June 30, 2:40 p. m., says he has had an interview with Gen. Kouropatkin regarding the military situation, and declares that the Russian general has decided to withdraw to Haicheng. Gen. Kouropatkin, the correspondent says, left the First Siberian Army Corps and the Thirty-fifth Division at Kaichou to protect his retreat. Headquarters are already established at Haicheng. The second and fourth Army Corps and the Thirty-first Division are south of Liao Yang, and the Fifth Division and Maj. Mistchenko's European Cossack brigades are detached. The Seventh Corps is expected to arrive soon at Liao Yang. Heavy rains delay the movements of the troops.

Gen. Mistchenko's forces have daily engagements with the Japanese. The Lokal Anzeiger editorially expresses doubt that the Seventeenth Army Corps will reach Liao Yang in the month of August.

THAT VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOKIO, June 30, 3:30 p.m.—The Russian Vladivostok squadron, accompanied by torpedo boats, appeared off Gensan, on the east coast of Korea today. Torpedo boats entered Gensan harbor at 5:30 o'clock in the morning, shelled the settlement, and sunk a small steamer and a small schooner. The torpedo boats left the harbor at 7:20 o'clock. A total of two hundred shots was fired into the settlement, but no serious damage resulted.

The Russian vessels which took part in the bombardment of Gensan were the cruisers Rossia, Gromboi and Rurik, and nine torpedo boats. Later reports show the vessels, when they left Gensan, steamed to the north. They were seen, however, to return from this direction. They were lost sight of at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

THE NEWS VIA SEOUL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SEOUL (Korea) June 30, Evening.—Reports received here of the appearance of the Russian Vladivostok squadron off Gensan, on the east coast of Korea, say the warships were first seen at 5:30 o'clock in the morning. Four torpedo boats entered the harbor and sank a small steamer and junk while the cruisers remained outside and shelled the Japanese barracks on shore. At the end of half an hour the Russians withdrew in the midst of a torrential downpour of rain, which prevented the lookouts from noting what direction they took. The damage inflicted by the Russian fire was slight, and no casualties have been reported. Further news, however, is expected when the telegraph wire between Seoul and Gensan, which was broken by the storm, is restored.

CONSUL REPORTS FOUR WOUNDED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, June 30, 6:29 p.m.—An official dispatch from Tokio says the Japanese consul at Gensan, Korea, reports as follows:

"Early this morning, June 30, six Russian torpedo boats entered the port, fired about two hundred shots upon the settlement, sank a steamship and sailing vessel, then rejoined their ships outside the harbor and disappeared. Two Koreans and two soldiers were slightly wounded. The damage to buildings is insignificant."

REPULSED TORPEDO-BOATS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30, 4:40 p.m.—An official dispatch received from Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, in command of the military forces at Port Arthur, says that the squadron of Rear-Admiral Withoeft re-entered that port after repulsing five torpedo-boat attacks. It contains no further details. It does not mention any damage to the Russian ships.

As no injury to the vessels of the Russian squadron was mentioned, the belief of the authorities is greatly strengthened that Admiral Togo's report was very much exaggerated. While offering no specific ground for this opinion, the Admiralty believes that a fight occurred Saturday. Gen. Stoessel's dispatch is addressed to Lieut.-Gen. Zellonsky, Gen. Kouropatkin's chief of staff, and is dated June 24.

JAPS CONCENTRATING.

All the latest advices of the War Office indicate that the Japanese are concentrating in Haicheng, Gen. Karoki being at Dalin with twenty-seven battalions. Only one division is at Motien Pass and another at Fen Shui Pass.

Rain is falling in torrents, which is greatly impeding the movements of the troops.

ADVANCE ON LIAO YANG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LIAO YANG, June 30.—[Delayed in transmission.] The Japanese column which forced the passage of Motien Pass is advancing on Liao Yang by the eastern road. A Russian force, commanded by Gen. Count Keller, is holding a fortified position commanding the road on this side of the pass.

The object of the Japanese is to cut the Russian communications northward of Liao Yang, while Gen. Kouropatkin is operating in the vicinity of Haicheng with practically the whole of the Russian forces.

NOT TIME FOR PEACE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 30.—The news from Washington that steps were believed to have been taken looking to mediation between Russia and Japan creates great surprise here. The British government not only has taken no part in such measures, but apparently is ignorant that they are in progress.

Official opinion here from Premier Balfour down is that the time is not yet ripe for any offer of mediation; but, to quote a person in Mr. Balfour's confidence, Great Britain has "kept the door open for such contingency." It is not likely that this government would be acceptable in the role of arbitrator, but it would at the right time use all its influence to urge the belligerents to accept the offer from a suitable mediator. There seems to be no reason for thinking that the government would not fill the role suitably, but Russian opinion is always a rather unknown factor.

"From the highest official sources here and from the Japanese legation comes the positive statement that nothing whatever has resulted from the interviews between King Edward and Emperor William at Kiel that was in any way connected with the Russo-Japanese War. There seems to be no doubt that responsible ministers warned King Edward that he must not initiate any steps in that direction with his imperial nephew.

The Japanese legation, it appears, made discreet inquiries as to whether or not this advice was carried out, and it was stated tonight that there was every reason to believe the war was not discussed at Kiel, except in the most informal and conversational way.

It was also pointed out at the Japanese legation, which was entirely ignorant of any news concerning a movement toward mediation, that the present moment would be the most inopportune, so far as Japan is concerned, for any such step. Japan, it was maintained at the legation, must first secure some such strategical point as Liao Yang before she is in a position to maintain such advantages as she has already won in Manchuria. Without a commanding strategical base, Japanese officials here believe their forces would be unable to either rest on their present laurels, or to push forward.

NO DECISIVE FIGHT.

OPINION OF RUSSKY INVALID.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June , 1:30 p.m.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Russky Invalid, the army organ, is the notable significant exception to the popular belief that a great battle is imminent. It gives no intimation that it is Gen. Kouropatkin's purpose to fall back and not try conclusions, but sees in the developments of June 26 and 27 evidence that the Japanese themselves do not contemplate a decisive engagement. The paper also expresses the opinion that the massing of armies in the direction of Haicheng and Si Yen is for the purpose of assuring the Japanese occupation of the whole of the Liao Tung Peninsula and control of the road for an advance on Liao Yang at the end of the rainy season, which, together with the siege of Port Arthur, it regards as the first stage of the Japanese campaign.

The Russky Invalid therefore considers that the movements from Feng Wang Cheng toward Liao Yang are against the Russian line of communication north of Liao Yang.

SOME TOPOGRAPHY.

The army organ attempts to clear up the discrepancies in the topography of the theater of operations, due to the apparent confusion of Chinese names and foreign maps, especially regarding the three passes mentioned in Gen. Kouropatkin's last official dispatch. Motien Pass, it says, is fifty miles from Liao Yang, and directly on the Feng Wang Cheng road. The Fen Shui Pass, it adds, is north of Motien Pass and fifty-four miles from Liao Yang, on the Feng Wang Cheng-Liao Yang high road. Dalin, which the organ explains the Japanese call Fen Shui Pass, is twenty-five miles from Hai Cheng. All three passes, it is further pointed out, cross the Fen Shui Ling range. The first two are only ten miles apart. Motien and Dalin passes are forty miles apart, through a very difficult country. Dalin is twenty-five miles from Chipplin Pass, one leading to Siu Yen and Haicheng, and the other to Ta Tche Kiao and Kia Chou.

POLITICAL.

GAME OF UNWASHED.

Tiger, Tiger—Who's Got the Tiger?

Tammany Unmasks for the 'Steenth Time and is Now for Grover.

Leader Murphy Throwing His Light Straight Out After Reflection.

Prohibition Party Takes One Swallow—Preparations at St. Louis.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Leader Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall came out flat for Grover Cleveland for President today. He said Mr. Cleveland is the strongest candidate in the Democratic party, and that New Jersey would in all probability be first at the convention to break the Parker line for Cleveland. He frankly avowed that the Tammany delegation was going to St. Louis to boom Cleveland from start to finish.

"In making this statement," said the Tammany leader, "I do so after a great deal of reflection. The whole field has been gone over very thoroughly, and investigated carefully, with the result that it is the opinion of a large number of prominent Democrats that Cleveland is sure to head the Democratic ticket and is the man who can win for the Democratic party this year."

"But is not Tammany instructed for Parker, in view of the action at the State convention?" was asked.

"I am instructed for Parker, but that does not mean every ballot will see Parker sentiment predominate," answered Murphy. "If New Jersey is first to break the line, I am quite certain other States will follow. There is sentiment in politics as well as practice, and when the name of Grover Cleveland goes before the convention there may be an entirely new story to tell."

"Can you name one State that is instructed for Cleveland?" was next asked.

"That is quite true," answered the Tammany leader, "but the fact remains, there are many States which are not instructed at all, and these are open to conviction.

"My position in this matter is wholly consistent. I have never receded from the position that Cleveland is the strongest possible candidate in the country. He is the man we can win with, and that is the candidate we want this year, above any other year.

"I have never criticised Judge Parker, but I did criticise the action of the convention in sending from this State an instructed delegation. The same objection would have applied had the effort been made to instruct for Cleveland, at the State convention. Judge Parker is a good man, a worthy man, but we cannot win with Judge Parker. That is my opinion."

NEW YORK, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The New York desires to go on record more as agreeing with Belmont, the Sugar Trust and other monopolistic interests. Judge Parker will be nominated the Democratic party next week, ably on the second ballot, if not first. He will be nominated by the trust powers, which are in complete control of the party of Jefferson have decreed his nomination.

There is one Democrat in the United States who might easily take the nomination from Judge Parker. Grover Cleveland. He might do because the Parker movement is, in fact, a proxy Cleveland movement. The trust element selected Judge Parker merely as a substitute for Cleveland. The same influences who are behind the one are behind the other, and can give the nomination to either. No doubt the trusts would Cleveland to Judge Parker, because this former President is stubbornly brave, while the Esopus sphinx is spineless.

Judge Parker would be a weak, obedient tool for the power which commands him, but from his very nature he could not be expected to show strong, defiant, contemptuous derision of his party when it protested against his subserviency to the trust power. He would obey orders, but he would be likely to apologize for obeying them. Probably he would whine over them.

Clevelandfi, on the other hand, would show his colors boldly. But Cleveland has no desire to go out before the election and be pounded into a shapeless mass by the Bryan voters of his party. He knows perfectly well, for he is of keen political judgment, that the Bryanites would as soon think of voting for John D. Rockefeller as for Cleveland. Parker does not realize this attitude of the Democratic voters. He is infatuated with the idea that August Belmont, the business agents of the Standard Oil Company and other representatives of trust interests have inculcated, that the people of the United States are burning for a chance to go to the polls and vote away their own management of the government, while voting in the management of gold syndicates, industrial monopolies and financial despotism.

Hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of Democrats who love their country and cherish its institutions, would like to vote with their party, if their consciences would permit. The Press says, and they have already made up their minds that they could never vote for Judge Parker any more than they could vote for John D. Rockefeller. And all of them who believe in self-government by and for the American people, as against government by and for the special classes, must maintain those principles by voting, and they will vote, no sane man may doubt, for Theodore Roosevelt.

ST. LOUIS ARRANGEMENTS.
WRESTLING WITH ROUTINE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the Democratic national convention less than a week off, virtually nothing is definitely known by anybody about arrangements. C. A. Walsh, secretary of the National Committee, has opened headquarters in the Jefferson Hotel, and is wrestling with routine details. A list is being prepared by States and Territories, of delegates who have been certified to the National Committee by various State and Territorial conventions, and who are recognized as prima-facie delegates.

In a day or two, each member of the National Committee will receive a list of his State representatives for verification, together with a blank for sending to the Secretary names for new national committeemen and members of the several committees of the convention. These last-mentioned lists are to be returned when the roll of States is called, at the time of the temporary organization of the convention. The verified lists of delegates are to be returned at once, and a roll will then be prepared of all the delegates.

This roll will be submitted to the National Committee at its session July 2. At the same time, the names of all contesting delegates will be reported to the committees, and after hearing the merits of the contests, another roll, which will be the official temporary roll of the convention, will be prepared. The Credentials Committee acts on whatever contests are brought up for hearing, and after its report is adopted, a third roll is made, and this becomes the permanent roll of delegates of the convention.

BITTER CONTESTS.

A score of bitter contests are impending, notably one in Illinois, where Bryan has been retained by the Hearst faction to do the fighting before the National Committee. Hearst has the delegates to date. They are pledged to him, many of them against their will, and all kinds of expedients are now being used to get better control of them.

United States Senator William J. Stone of Missouri, who has been elected as the head of Missouri's "big four," declared strongly for Parker today. Despite these and other statements favoring Parker, the boom of the New York man seems heavily weighted. This may be due to the fact that, as the convention draws near, the booms of "favorite sons" are attracting considerable local attention. One of these "favorite sons" is Senator F. M. Cockrell of Missouri, who has been unanimously endorsed by his State.

Talk of Gorman continues unabated, and also considerable mention is heard of Mayor McClellan. In spite of the statement of Judge Gray of Delaware, that he does not want the nomination, there is favorable sentiment here for him. Circuit Attorney Folk of this city is being kept in mind. His friends hope such a mix-up may occur that he will have a chance to slip in ahead of Parker.

It is the possibility of running away with the nomination in a free-for-all fight that is encouraging "favorite sons" to keep in the field.

PARKER ON ONE BALLOT.

So Says W. T. Manning, Who is Not Afraid of Tammany.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Judge Parker will be nominated on the first ballot at the Democratic convention July 6. To my mind it will be a big ratification meeting. On this roll call we will have 480 votes. Enough States will ask for a re-call of the roll to give us more than two-thirds. I hope Bryan will bolt the convention. That would help us greatly with the people."

So spoke W. T. Manning of New York, the personal representative of Judge Alton B. Parker, today. Mr. Manning was waiting for John McGillen at the Auditorium Annex, from which hostelry they departed for St. Louis.

"I have been up and down the country, East to West and North to South," he said. "The nomination is Judge Parker's. I have not talked before. I am willing to talk now. The task is finished; the nomination is assured. We can survey the situation without fear of results.

"We concede Hearst and Bryan 160. Massachusetts, Illinois, Ohio, Delaware will come to us. California and Nevada are really not for Hearst. Mr. Hearst is a nice young man, but too young. He will support Judge Parker's nomination. We are not a bit afraid of Tammany. It is the same situation as in 1892, when Whitney was for Cleveland and Croker was against him. Cleveland was nominated and elected. So will it be with Parker."

HEARST IS FOR GROVER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In an interview here tonight, W. R. Hearst, whom somebody decided into the notion that he might by some chance be nominated for President on the Democratic ticket, said he would support Grover Cleveland, if the party will nominate him at St. Louis next week. That means that Hearst is tripped, licked and otherwise dazzled.

Hearst has been out West. He was in Chicago last week, looking over things. His friends say he has come out of his "hope dream," and realizes that he has no more chance of being President of the United States than he has of running all of the newspapers in the United States. Incidentally, it may be noted that Hearst looks older and sadder. He looked as if something had happened to him.

GORMAN INVITES CONFERENCE.
MARYLANDERS' DELICATE LOT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE (Md.) June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Gorman has invited several Eastern leaders who are delegates to the Democratic national convention to meet him in Washington tomorrow for a conference. At this conference, it is expected some important affairs which have been in abeyance will be settled definitely, including the part the Maryland delegates are to play in the convention. It is conceded generally that the position of the Marylanders will be a delicate one, in view of the fact that Senator Gorman is not as yet an avowed candidate, and probably will not have his name presented to the convention at the time when it is expected the nominations will be made.

Another thing to be settled is the chairmanship of the committees and the question of a presiding officer. It is expected that Senator Gorman will be the candidate of the conservative element for the chairmanship of the Committee on Resolutions.

If his election to this position can be brought about, say many Democrats, it will mean that the platform to be presented to the convention will be a "safe and a sane" one, and practically will shame Bryanism and the silver issue, and will touch lightly on the labor question.

LET PEOPLE SELECT.
CLAREMONT ON DELEGATES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CLAREMONT, June 30.—Republican sentiment in Claremont turns strongly against the reported proposition of having the Seventh Congress District Republican Committee take the naming of the delegates to the Congressional Convention out of the hands of the voters, the committee to select the delegates. They feel such a proceeding would rob the people of their rights.

The following expressions of opinion came from leading Republicans:

George Jencks: I don't believe in it. The people ought to do it themselves. It would be taking their right from the people, for they should have the say in the primaries as to who should compose the convention. I am entirely opposed to it.

O. H. Small: Tell them we will choose our own delegates.

C. C. Johnson: The people ought to choose their own delegates. There's too much "politics" when the committee chooses.

Justice Tuttle: I don't believe in it at all. If you can't trust the people with it you can't trust anybody.

MINNESOTA CONTEST BITTER.
CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PAUL, June 30.—The Republican State Convention which met today was the culmination of the fiercest contest for the Gubernatorial nomination since 1888. Judge Loren W. Collins, who resigned a seat on the State Supreme bench in order to become a candidate, is recognized as the candidate of the present State administration. Robert C. Dunn, for eight years State Auditor, a newspaper man of great personal popularity, is the other leading candidate. Former Congressman Frank M. Eddy, is the third factor in the contest. Between the two principal contestants there has been a fight of bitter personality.

An attempt, though not a very successful one, has been made to inject the so-called merger question into the campaign, but both candidates have declared their intention to follow the precedent established by Gov. Van Sant, and see that the anti-consolidation laws of the State are carried out to the letter.

The convention was called to order by Judge Robert Jamison, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, who announced that no temporary organization of the convention. The verified lists of delegates are to be returned at once, and a roll will then be prepared of all the delegates.

THE VERY LATEST.

WAR NEWS AFTER MIDNIGHT.

LONDON, July 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says that in the engagement off Port Arthur, June 23, the Russian battleship Sevastopol was slightly damaged. The correspondent says that the coal supply in Port Arthur is sufficient to last for eight months. The battleships Retvisan and Czarevitch have been completely repaired, and their guns, which had been placed on the forts, have been replaced.

The Tokio correspondent of the Standard says that Japanese officers who were engaged in the last naval fight at Port Arthur assert that they saw women on board the Russian warships, and this confirms the suspicion that the Russians were attempting to escape to a neutral port, and had no intention of fighting.

The last mail from the front, the Standard's correspondent says, gives additional instances of the mutilation of Japanese wounded by the Russians.

The Tien-Tsin correspondent of the Standard says that Chinese bandits recently derailed a train south of Harbin, as a result of which thirty-three persons were killed and fifty-eight injured.

DID TORPEDOES STRIKE?

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, July 1.—The Tokio correspondent of The Times says: "There is considerable uncertainty here regarding the Russian losses in the recent sortie from Port Arthur. It is just possible that no ship was sunk. The Peresviet may have got into Port Arthur at night. The Japanese, on the other hand, feel certain that their torpedoes took effect on three ships."

RUSSIAN PRISONERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, July 1.—The correspondent of the Standard at Matsuyama, Japan, cabling under date of June 30, says:

"Today, I visited the Russian prisoners here. Five hundred and eight of them were admitted to the army hospital, practically all of whom suffered from wounds inflicted from small arms. Two hundred and nine have been discharged as completely cured. At present, there are twelve officers, 37 non-commissioned officers and 245 privates under treatment here, and all of them are likely to recover, with the exception of one who has been paralyzed.

"There are five temporary hospitals here, in which Japanese ladies, American women and missionaries and members of the Red Cross assist in the nursing.

"The unwounded prisoners consist of 21 officers, 54 non-commissioned officers and 585 privates. The officers have separate quarters and are allowed to employ a cook from the town and to purchase luxuries. Twenty-two wounded sailors have been received and they are frequently visited by the American missionaries. Matsuyama is a healthy city, and is charmingly situated."

JAPS' 180,000 MEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHEFOO, July 1, noon.—June 24, it is stated, the Japanese landed an independent division of 10,000 men at their naval base on the Elliott Islands. This division is to be used, it is said, to either assist Gen. Nogi at Port Arthur or Gen. Oku in clearing the railway.

From an authoritative source it is learned that the Japanese now have 180,000 men in the field, including Gen. Kuroki's army, on the road to Liao Yang; the independent division of 20,000 landed at Takushan to support Gen. Kuroki, Gen. Oku's army along the railway, Gen. Nogi's army at Port Arthur, and the 10,000 landed at Elliott Islands. None of the Fourth Army has yet been landed.

CONSULATE WAS HIT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEOUL (Korea) July 1, 10 a.m.—Additional reports from Gensan show that only two Koreans and two Japanese were slightly injured and two dwellings burned as a result of the Russian Vladivostok squadron. The Japanese consulate was hit by a shell, but the damage inflicted was small. At the first shot by the hostile visitors the citizens fled to the protection of the hills. It is not known in which direction the squadron departed, as rain obscured the atmosphere.

HOW THE JAPS TOOK THE FEN SHUI PASS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOKIO, June 30, 1 p.m.—[By Asiatic Cable.] Delayed reports of the capture of Fen Shui Pass, June 27, show that the Russians were driven from an exceedingly strong position dominating the Shi Mu Cheng road. In this engagement the Russian losses were again heavier than those of the Japanese. The Japanese outmaneuvered the Russians by working around the enemy's right flank and attacking him in the rear.

The Japanese advanced in three columns. One was assigned to deliver a frontal attack and the others to strike the enemy on the flanks. The column which advanced upon the Russian right flank fought a separate action. It encountered three battalions of infantry, six guns and two machine guns Sunday morning. This engagement lasted until sunset of Sunday. At this hour the Japanese bivouacked and renewed the assault at midnight, when they succeeded in defeating the Russians. Monday morning, the 27th, the Russians were reinforced with three battalions and sixteen guns. They assaulted the Japanese viciously and endeavored to retake the position they had lost. They were repulsed, and the Japanese flankers worked their way to the rear of the main Russian position at Fen Shui Pass. This attack occurred at 3 o'clock in the morning.

In the meantime the Japanese column, which had been assigned to make the frontal attack, met and routed 10,000 infantry and cavalry posted near Wenchapantsu. This happened Sunday, the 26th. At dawn Monday the Japanese renewed the attack. The fighting this day was opened with artillery. The Russians poured a deadly artillery fire upon the attackers, and the Japanese artillery secured a new position and delivered a heavy cross fire upon the Russian lines of defence. While this was proceeding the Japanese infantry and engineers cleared the obstructions from the Russian rear, and closed in on the enemy.

The Russians broke and fled at 11:30 Monday morning. The Japanese gained and retained possession of the heights. The Russians left ninety dead behind them on the heights. This number of dead does not include those found in the valleys. The Japanese lost 270 men, killed or wounded, in the flanking and the frontal attacks.

The Russian troops who defended Fen Shui Pass consisted of 11 battalions of infantry, 12 squadrons of cavalry and three batteries of artillery. The enemy had spent three months in fortifying Fen Shui pass. The barracks and other buildings captured by the Japanese had not been destroyed, but before retreating, the Russians burned their warehouses at Shantasu. The Russians retreated in disorder toward Shi Mu Cheng. The Japanese captured eighty-eight prisoners.

TOLD TO THE LEGATION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, June 30.—A dispatch to the Japanese legation from Tokio today gave a few details of the operations at Fen Shui Pass. It says the Russians left 90 dead on the main road, while the number left elsewhere is not yet estimated. Six Russian officers and 82 men were captured. The total casualties of the Japanese are estimated at 170.

The report which was sent by the commander of the Takushan army, says the Japanese army, in three columns, commenced operations June 26 for the occupation of Fen Shui Pass, where the Russians had concentrated semi-fortifications with forts, entrenchments, wire entanglements and abatis. The Russians stubbornly resisted, but after a fierce engagement, the Japanese succeeded in surrounding the Russians, and finally captured the pass June 27.

FROM KOUROPATKIN.
RUSSIANS SLOWLY WITHDREW.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The following dispatch from Gen. Kouropatkin to the Emperor, dated June 29, was received today:

"Towards 8 o'clock in the morning of June 27, our troops, having dislodged the enemy's advance guard, composed of cavalry and infantry, occupied the station at Senuchen, but at 9 o'clock it was discovered that a brigade of the enemy's infantry was advancing in front, while other columns were turning our left flank. The town of Senuchen, which is surrounded by walls, was also occupied by the Japanese. Consequently, at 11 o'clock, our troops slowly withdrew. As regards losses, we only know that one officer and ten men were wounded.

"A reconnoissance carried out on the road from Sia Kho Tung to Eritatan and Khanza, revealed the presence of six companies of the enemy's infantry and two squadrons of cavalry, and at Mayaratsa, three miles southeast of Sia Kho Tung. In this reconnoissance Capt. Vasselieff, Lieut. Makaroff and five Cossacks were wounded. Makaroff succumbed.

"There was some skirmishing June 25, between the enemy and our outposts at Samiarikau and Wang Tsi Afang Ching, five miles west of Samiarikau."

DENIES SPY STORY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—The Novoe Vremya denies reports from Narva that two Japanese spies were arrested there Tuesday, while masquerading as organ grinders.

[Dispatches from Narva, a Russian fortress and seaport, 100 miles west of St. Petersburg, were to the effect that two spies had been caught, together with a hand organ, in which maps of the Baltic coast line and surveying instruments were found. One of the men was said to be a colonel of the Japanese General Staff and the other an orderly.—Associated Press.]

WITSOEFT GIVES BATTLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—It is rumored here that the Russian torpedo-boat destroyer Lieut. Burukoff, which arrived at Newchwang from Port Arthur Wednesday evening, brought news that Rear-Admiral Witsoeft again, June 24, gave battle to the Japanese fleet.

BRAVE WOMEN SAVE SAILORS.

Exhausted Germans Rescued by Three Nurses.

Deal for California City Coaling Station Closed.

Mexican Stage Held up and Its Driver Murdered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An act of conspicuous bravery was performed by three women of the village of Chemanius, on Vancouver Island, when, Tuesday evening last, they saved the lives of four exhausted sailors. The men belonged to the German ship Schurbeck, which is loading lumber at the Chemainus mills, and they had gone out for a sail.

A gale sprung up, and, accustomed as they were to the sea, they could not prevent the boat from capsizing. They hung onto the bottom for an hour, when their cries for aid were heard by the nurses and matron at the hospital, and, no men being about, they went bravely to the rescue. They rowed out in a small boat in the teeth of the gale and had just got the last man into the boat when the tug Daisy came along and gave them a tow into port.

The incident has aroused considerable comment and those who recognize the bravery of these latest Grace Darlings have begun proceedings to secure for them notice from the Royal Humane Society.

ADMIRAL M'CALLA'S CHECK.

FOR COALING STATION LAND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VALLEJO, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Navy Department, through Admiral B. H. McCalla, closed a big deal today. The admiral proceeded to San Francisco this morning and presented to Lynd & Hough a check for $30,000 for papers which invest the United States government with title to sixty acres, more or less, of land located on the bay shore about midway between El Campo and California City. It is there that the Navy Department will establish a coaling station at a cost of $100,000, which will store 100,000 tons of coal.

This afternoon a marine guard was sent from Mare Island to the newly-acquired territory. They will raise the American flag and assume authority in the name of the United States.

NO OUTSIDE BUSINESS.

ORDER TO BANK EMPLOYEES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) June 30.—A Pendleton special to the Telegram says:

"The employés of six banks in Washington and Oregon, of which United States Senator Ankeny is president, must not engage in outside business. The order is said to be due to C. B. Wade becoming involved for half a million dollars on account of an unfortunate investment in mining stocks last year."

C. B. Wade was cashier of Senator Ankeny's bank at Pendleton, and failed last year for half a million dollars. His failures made him penniless. He is said to be in Honolulu.

JUDGMENT AGAINST CAPT. HARTS

FAILED TO DECLARE GOODS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Judge De Haven handed down a decision today in the United States District Court in the case of the United States against William R. Harts. The defendant, who is a captain in the Engineer Corps of the United States Army, failed to declare goods worth $657 on his arrival here on board the transport Thomas, July 10, 1903.

The court finds that the goods not declared were worth $552, and gives judgment against Capt. Harts for three times that amount.

EPPINGER CASE.

METHODS OF BOOK-KEEPING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—In the Eppinger case today, W. W. Topping, formerly book-keeper for the defunct grain merchants, testified regarding his methods of book-keeping. Attorney Campbell made an effort to have Topping admit that he added 12,100,000 pounds when beginning a new grain ledger on July 1, the day before the failure. This ledger is not in court, and the witness claimed that he could not recollect the figures.

The session was cut short to permit the attorneys to take up another phase of the case before the referee in bankruptcy, Milton J. Green. This hearing is on the citation issued to prevent the introduction of the books of Eppinger & Co. in the Superior Court, which failed of its purpose.

FORFEITED TO GOVERNMENT.

WOMAN SMUGGLES SILK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—In the United States Circuit Court today Judge De Haven decided that Mrs. Fannie A. Boettcher of Denver must forfeit sixteen bolts of silk, one fur rug and other goods which were confiscated by the Federal authorities on the ground that she was attempting to smuggle them into this country from the Orient. The judge declared that the fact that the duty was paid under protest after the goods were seized, did not affect the case.

In another decision, Judge De Haven declared that six pieces of silk embroidery and other articles brought into the United States by Nettie B. Haley of Denver should be forfeited to the government.

JACK LONDON GETS HOME.

THINKS RUSSIA WILL WIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Jack London, the author returned today from the Orient, whither he had gone as a newspaper correspondent. Speaking of the situation in the Far East as he sees it, London said:

"Every soldier that Japan is now sending to the front is lessening the country's power of creative industry. Every soldier takes a man from the manufacturing and agricultural pursuits to which the nation looks to obtain its gross revenues. The Japanese soldier is kept in the field as cheaply as any man can be sent to war, but there is a limit to resources.

"There may come a time, then, when there will be no shoes to send to the soldiers and no powder to burn, and that will be the time when Japan will look for intervention. I believe that Russia will ultimately win out."

SAYS HE'S ILLEGALLY HELD.

PRISONER PROPOUNDS PUZZLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—James B. Clifton, who was sentenced to two five-year terms at Folsom from Los Angeles, nearly seven years ago, claims that the prison authorities are holding him illegally, and has appealed to the Supreme Court for redress.

The law provides that a prisoner may earn three years and six months in credits on a ten-year term, and one year and five months on a five-year term. Clifton has served two months more than necessary, according to his view that his two sentences constitute one ten-year term. He has served six months less than is his due, according to the prison officials, who hold that he is serving two five-year terms.

The Supreme Court has undertaken to solve the puzzle, and a hearing has been set for July 11.

NO LONGER NEEDED.

ESPEE WORKMEN DROPPED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—General Manager Markham of the Southern Pacific said today that the dismissal of 1000 men in his division was due to the fact that the workmen were no longer needed. He said that the company's equipment had reached such a condition that a large force of men was not required, and the discharge of so many surplus employés was along the line of retrenchment.

Five hundred were dismissed at Sacramento, and the remaining 500 were dropped from the pay rolls at the various smaller shops in the coast division.

NO MORE SILVER DOLLARS.

COINAGE IN THIS COUNTRY ENDS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) June 30.—"There will never be another silver dollar coined in this country," said George E. Roberts, director of the United States Mint, in an interview this evening. Mr. Roberts is en route to Alaska, and made this statement in answer to a question put to him by a representative of the Oregonian.

"No," he said, "there will be no more new silver dollars turned out by the government mint plants unless by some chance a 16-to-1 Congress should be elected, for the supply of silver bullion purchased under the Sherman act is exhausted."

Libel Against Centennial Dismissed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The libel brought against the steamship Centennial by passengers to recover $500 each for alleged neglect of their comfort in the steerage has been dismissed by United States District Judge De Haven.

LIGE DOWIE GETS BACK TO HIS OWN.

ZION CITY TURNS OUT TO WELCOME THE "DOCTOR" HOME.

Children Scatter Roses Over the Fake Prophet, Riding in State in a Victoria and Everything Was Just Grand Except Threatened Bankruptcy Proceedings.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, June 30.—After a trip which covered the earth, John Alexander Dowie arrived in Chicago today. He had sent word ahead that he would not soil his feet with the dust of Chicago. He remained in his private car while it was switched to the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad and attached to a train scheduled to leave for the Dowie settlement at Zion City, Ill.

Dowie has not yet been discharged from the Federal courts, being still known on the records as an "alleged bankrupt." Just before Dowie left Chicago for Australia Attorney Frank H. Scott, representing Marshall Field & Co., went into the bankruptcy court and petitioned Judge Kohlsaat to order Dowie to appear for examination. Judge Kohlsaat said at that time he would not be justified in interfering with Dowie's trip, and that the examination could hold over until after his return.

Attorney Scott today declined to say whether he would now insist upon the examination of Dowie. Attorney Samuel Ettelson, who represents the petitioning creditors in the case, said today that unless Dowie failed to live up to his agreements with the creditors it was not probable there would be any clash in the case.

Residents of Zion City were busy all night making the finishing touches in the preparations for the arrival of Dowie. Aside from a triumphal arch, the tabernacle was the chief object of decoration. Here Zion flags, blue and gold, with a cross in the center, flourished in the breeze in large numbers. Higher up was the Union Jack of England, and surmounting all was a huge American flag.

"The arch of triumps," situated near Elijah avenue, was made in imitation blocks of stone. Each block bore the name of a city that Dowie had visited in his travels. Black letters denoted the cities where Dowie had been received, while the names of the cities that had spurned him showed in glowing red. The red-lettered cities were San Francisco, Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide and London.

At the sound of a whistle the entire population spent two minutes in silent devotion, and were then given six minutes in which to assemble for a procession that was to greet Dowie. Ten companies of Zion City Guards, 70 men each, formed in line, while the so-called "Restoration Host," 2500 strong, lined up at the tabernacle. At the arch the guards met the Doweite senior and junior choirs, robed in surplices. The march to the depot was taken up, the other residents falling in behind.

Upon the arrival of the train at Zion City, Dowie's carriage, a victoria, trimmed with carnations, ferns and smilax, conveyed the "doctor" and his chief "overseer," at the head of the procession to the arch, the Zion City brass band furnishing the music. At the arch ten little girls stepped forward, robed in white, with blue badges across their breasts, bearing in gold letters the names of ten of the principal countries which Dowie had visited. The children carried large bunches of roses, which they threw over Dowie and his party, and then unlocked the gates of the arch, handing over to Dowie the key, which on his departure he had given to the chief overseer.

Addresses were then made by Dowie, his wife, and Gladstone Dowie. The white-robed choir sang an anthem, and Dowie went into retirement to receive reports from his lieutenants

WASHINGTON.

UNCLE SAM HAS MONEY.

Republican Administration a Safe Proposition.

Fiscal Year Just Closed Good for Exports.

New Wireless Telegraphy Experiments.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At the close of business today, which is the close of business for this fiscal year, the United States finds itself with the satisfactory available cash balance of $166,965,872 in the treasury and with a surplus for the year, counting only the ordinary and regular expenses and receipts of the government, of $13,247,674.

The showing as to the available cash balance is according to the treasury books, as they stand at the close of business today, including all expenditures, as well as all receipts of the government for the last twelve months, but the showing as to the surplus for the year is exclusive of the $50,000,000 paid out of the treasury on account of the Panama canal, and also exclusive of the $4,600,000 loaned by the government to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. By adding these extraordinary expenditures to the regular expenditures of running the government, a deficit something in excess of $4,000,000 would be produced. However, as the $4,600,000 paid out as a loan to the St. Louis Fair will come back into the treasury, and as it is the apparent intention of the government, not to provide for the entire construction of the Panama canal by the issue of bonds, it has not been deemed necessary to include these two items at the end of the year statement of the treasury, as the conditions which produced this deficit will remedy themselves in the regular business of the government at the proper time.

The total receipts of the government for the year ending today amounted to $561,186,745. Of this amount, customs receipts amounted to $261,063,483; internal revenue receipts $234,435,695; miscellaneous receipts $65,682,565. The total expenditures of the government amounted to $527,939,071. These were divided as follows: Civil and miscellaneous $132,913,913; War Department $115,337,786; Navy Department $102,757,037; Indians $10,437,196; pensions $142,558,-[illegible] interest $24,610,766.

The treasury officials express themselves as satisfied with the showing made, considering that there has been an appreciable let-up in the volume of business in the country in a year, and that this let-up has had a direct effect on the receipts of the treasury as well as the receipts of a private firm. On the other hand, at this time, on account of the large appropriations previously made by Congress, it is impossible to curtail in any way the expenditure of government. It is hoped that with the more modest appropriations which will be made of the last session of Congress, which will become available to-[illegible]-row, and the expected resumption of business, it is considered entirely probable that within a year from to-[illegible] the old problem of getting money into the treasury for circulation for Parker[illegible] purposes will not again confront the government. At present, there is not the slightest danger in the situation.

PORTS OF MANUFACTURES.

BEST YEAR IN HISTORY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The exports of manufactures in the fiscal year which ends today will be the largest in the history of our foreign commerce. A statement just issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor, through the Bureau of Statistics, shows the exports of manufactures for eleven months ending with May, 1904, were $436,458, and as this sum is $100,000 in excess of the figures for the corresponding months of 1900, when the manufacturers made their high-water mark in exportations, it seems perfectly safe to estimate the total for the year to be the largest in the history of foreign commerce.

In comparing the exportations of manufactures for the eleven months for which figures are now available with those of corresponding months in other years it may be said the exports of manufactures in the months ending with May, 1904, are practically twice as great as for the corresponding months of 1896; two and one-half times as great as in 1892; practically three times as great as in 1890, and more than three times as great as in 1885. In the eleven months ending with May, 1888, the total value of exported manufactures was $121,000,000; in 1894, $138,000,000; in 1896, $206,000,000; in 1898, the year of largest exportation of manufactures prior to the present ending, $393,089,774, and in 1903, $410,536,478. This increase in the exportation of manufactures occurred in nearly all classes of manufactures.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

TWO PROPOSITIONS MADE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Admiral Manney, chief of the Bureau of Equipment of the navy, now has before him two propositions on wireless telegraphy, one from Marconi and the other from the Forest Company. Both will be referred to the board on wireless telegraphy appointed by the President last Saturday. The Marconi people have offered to install the apparatus on vessels of the navy selected by the government, or to submit to the operation and testing of the board officers or other experts their system now conducted upon Atlantic ships.

If their offer is accepted, they propose to demonstrate three principal points as follows: Communication with vessels from either shore throughout the entire voyage across the Atlantic; continuous communication both ways, between ship and shore station, within a radius of 200 miles or more, and simultaneous communication from several stations or ships without interference.

The De Forest proposition is to make a contract with the Navy Department for a series of experiments to be made under the observation of a naval commission at various stations to be established at points on the Southern Coast, beginning at Pensacola on the North, running to Culebra Island on the East, and thence south to Panama. The De Forest Company will bear all the expense of the experiments except the cost of transportation of material.

There is no doubt that the government will accept both of these propositions, as the experiments will be virtually without expense to it in either case, save such as may attend the presence of its officials.

PAY TAX OR QUIT.

Opinion Handed Down by Hawaiian Attorney-General Interests Insurance Companies.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HONOLULU, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Insurance circles in all parts of the world will be interested in the opinion which was handed down yesterday by the Attorney-General of Hawaii as to the liability of marine risks to the tax on insurance, provided for by the act passed during the session of the last Legislature.

Hitherto some of the agents for the large sugar plantations have been in the habit of effecting their insurance by means of open policies with the companies' head offices in New York, San Francisco and elsewhere. As the values of ships and cargoes are invariably very large, the premiums are correspondingly important.

The underwriters have held that the risks were not "risks within the Territory of Hawaii," under the meaning of the act. The Attorney-General has given an adverse opinion and insists that the companies which have written such insurance shall pay the tax or lose their licenses to do business in Hawaii.

Great Britain Sucessfully Brings Pressure Upon the Porte for Relief of Armenians.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, June 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Great Britain has successfully brought pressure to bear on the Porte for the relief of the persecuted Armenians, according to statements in a letter written by Foreign Secretary Lansdowne to the Anglo-Armenian Association.

The latter says that Sir Nicholas O'Connor, the British Ambassador at Constantinople, in a long interview with the Grand Vizier, June 14, pointed out to that official the responsibility of the Porte should reports of Kurdish outrages prove true.

The Ambassador called the attention of the Grand Vizier to the design which had been accredited to the Turkish authorities of driving the Armenians from their mountain homes to the plains, and urged that orders should be sent to the Vali of Bittis that refugees be allowed to return to their homes and be given protection from the Kurds.

The Grand Vizier acquiesced in the wishes of Sir Nicholas and telegraphed orders to that effect in the presence of the Ambassador. The British Vice-Consul at Bittis was notified of the Grand Vizier's action and instructed to report its effect.

Lord Lansdowne said that the Porte had also granted permission for a British officer to accompany any troops engaged in expeditions against the insurgents.

ARID-LAND GRAZING.

Commission Appointed by the President to Look Into Matter to Meet at Denver.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER, June 30.—The special land commission consisting of W. A. Richards, Gifford Pinchot and F. H. Newell, appointed by President Roosevelt last December, at the request of the National Live Stock Association, has notified the officers of this association that it will meet at its headquarters in Denver August 3, 4 and 5, for the purpose of discussing the question of grazing upon arid lands and forest reserves, with a view to making a report to the President, which will be the basis for the drafting of a bill to be presented to Congress, which will settle these questions to the entire satisfaction of all parties concerned.

Secretary Hitchcock of the Department of the Interior, and Secretary James Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, have indicated their intention of being present, provided their affairs at Washington at this time will permit. The officers of the association have notified the stockmen in Western States who are interested in this matter to meet the committee at this time.

EAST BOUND GRAIN RATES.

NEW YORK, June 30.—A reduction in east-bound grain rates has been agreed on by the Atlantic Coast trunk-line railroads. It will take effect tomorrow and is made to equalize the rates prevailing on the Canadian lines. The export interests of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore will be thereby put in a position to compete with the Canadian dealers.

Under the new tariff all grain from Buffalo is placed upon a 2-cent basis. This is a reduction of 1 cent per bushel on wheat and flax, ¾ of a cent per bushel on corn and ½ of a cent per bushel on barley. No reduction is made on oats, because the export movement is limited.

A 2-cent rate on wheat means that grain can be brought from Chicago and placed alongside ship for 4½ cents, and, counting floating elevator charges of ⅛ of a cent per bushel, net, can be placed on board ship for 5⅛ cents.

TAKE A SWALLOW AND THEN ADJOURN.

Prohibitionists Adopt Platform and Put up Pennsylvania Pure Water Man for President—Gen. Miles Says Nay, Nay to Nomination.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

INDIANAPOLIS, June 30.—Silas C. Swallow of Harrisburg, Pa., was this afternoon nominated for President on the Prohibition ticket by acclamation. George W. Carroll of Texas was nominated for Vice-President.

John G. Woolley announced that he was in receipt of a telegram from Gen. Miles asking that his name be not presented to the convention for the nomination. Woolley said he would not present Gen. Miles's name, though he did not know what others would do.

The telegram from Gen. Miles was dated from New York and read:

"Appreciating the good will of yourself and friends, I must earnestly request that my name be not used in the convention, and that my letter of June 20 be considered as final."

[Signed] NELSON A. MILES."

Under the rules, fifteen minutes was allowed for nomination speeches. Arkansas yielded to Samuel Dickie of Michigan, who announced that conditions had suddenly changed, and he would wait until Michigan was called.

California yielded too Pennsylvania, and A. A. Stevens took the platform amid cheers, to announce that W. W. Hague of Ridloute would place in nomination Silas C. Swallow of Harrisburg, Pa.

A prolonged demonstration followed the mention of Swallow's name. Hague read a letter from Swallow deploring the fact that his wife's illness prevented his attenting the convention. Hague said:

"You put your finger on Silas Swallow, and you know where he is. In his letter, Swallow says the Democratic party has no issue except in antithesis to the Republican position, and the Republican party has no issue except subterfuges to maintain itself in power."

Thomas G. Orwig of Des Moines seconded the nomination. Colorado yielded to Illinois, and E. W. Chafin seconded the nomination of Swallow. He expressed the hope that no other names would be presented. This was greeted with cheers.

The receipt of a telegram from Gen. Miles asking that his name be not presented was generally known before the call of States began, and it was regarded as final.

Chairman Kerr of the Kansas delegation also seconded Swallow. Other seconding speeches were made by O. D. Ellett of Iowa, W. B. Patmore of Missouri, L. O. Jones of Nebraska and a dozen others.

Oliver W. Stewart, national chairman, opened the convention with prayer. It was announced that at an early morning caucus the opposition to Gen. Miles's nomination had combined on National Chairman Stewart for the Presidential nomination, and on National Chairman Dickie of Albion, Mich., was selected to make the nominating speech. Stewart addressed the convention on behalf of the National Committee.

Following Stewart's address, an hour was devoted to raising money by subscriptions among the delegates for campaign purposes. Twenty thousand one hundred and fifty dollars was raised.

Chairman Wolfenbarger called for the report of the Resolutions Committee. Chairman Tracy, of the committee, announced that there was a majority and a minority report ready. An adjournment of the convention was taken until afternoon that the committee might make another effort to agree.

THE PLATFORM.

The Resolutions Committee reported the following platform:

The Prohibition party, in national convention assembled, recognizing that the chief end of all government is the establishment of righteousness and justice, and believing in the perpetuation of the high ideals of government of the people, by the people and for the people, established by our fathers, makes the following declaration of principles and purposes:

1. The widely-prevailing system of the licensed and legalized sale of alcoholic beverages is so ruinous to individual interests, so inimical to public welfare, so destructive to national weal and so subversive to the rights of the great masses of our citizenship that the destruction of the traffic is and for years has been the most important question in American politics.

2. We denounce the lack of statesmanship exhibited by the leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties in their refusal to recognize the paramount importance of this question, and the cowardice with which the leaders of those parties have courted the favor of those whose selfish interests are advanced by the continuation and augumentation of the traffic, until today the influence of the liquor traffic practically dominates national, State and local government throughout the nation.

3. We declare the truth, demonstrated by the experience of half a century, that all methods of dealing with the liquor traffic which recognize its right to exist, in any form, under any system of license or tax or regulation, have proved powerless to remove its evils and useless as checks upon its growth, while the insignificant public revenues which have accrued therefrom have seared the public conscience against a recognition of its iniquity.

Fourth—We call public attention to the fact, proved by the experience of more than fifty years, that to secure the enactment and enforcement of prohibitory legislation, in which alone lies hope of the protection of the people from the liquor traffic, it is necessary that the legislative, executive and judicial branches of the government should be in the hands of a political party in harmony with the prohibition principle and pledged to its embodiment in law and to the execution of those laws.

Fifth—We pledge the Prohibition party, whenever given power by the suffrage of the people, to enactment and enforcement of laws prohibiting and abolishing the manufacture, importation, transportation and sale of alcoholic beverages.

Sixth—We declare that there is not only no other issue of equal importance before the American people today, but that the so-called issues upon which the Democratic and Republican parties seek to divide the electorate of the country are in large part subterfuges under the cover of which they range for the spoils of office.

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES.

Seventh—Recognizing that the intelligent voters of the country may properly ask our attiture upon other questions of public concern, we declare ourselves in favor of:

The impartial enforcement of all laws.

The safeguarding of the people's rights by a rigid application of the principles of justice to all combinations and organizations of capital and labor.

A more intimate relation between the people and government by a wise adaptation of the principle of initiative and referendum.

The safeguarding to every citizen in every place under the government of the people of the United States of all the rights guaranteed by the laws and Constitution.

International arbitration, and declare that our nation should contribute in every manner consistent with national dignity to the permanent establishment of those principles of peace between all nations.

The reform of our divorce laws, legal extirpation of polygamy and the total overthrow of the present shameful system of illegal sanction of the social evil, with its unspeakable traffic in girls by the municipal authorities of almost all of our cities.

We declare ourselves in favor of the recognition of the fact that the right of suffrage should depend upon the mental and moral qualifications of the citizens.

We declare ourselves in favor of such changes in our laws as will place tariff schedules in the hands of a non-partisan commission.

We declare ourselves in favor of the application of uniform laws for all our country and dependencies.

We declare ourselves in favor of the extension and honest administration of the civil service laws.

We declare ourselves in favor of the election of United States Senators by vote of the people.

Wisconsin withdrew Parker. The total vote was: Carroll, 626; Amos, 132; Parker, 15. The California delegation divided its vote.

The convention at 5:40 p.m. adjourned.

introduced Senator Moses E. Clapp as temporary presiding officer. Senator Clapp was received with an outburst of applause, and was frequently cheered. His reference to President Roosevelt brought forth an especially marked outburst of enthusiasm. Recess was then taken.

A conference of the leaders resulted in an agreement to adjourn until tomorrow morning, after the committees have been appointed.

LITTLE-FRICTION PLAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PAUL, June 30.—The State Republican Convention held a short session today, and adjourned until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The leaders had been in conference since last evening trying to devise a plan whereby the numerous contests might be settled with as little friction as possible, and it was finally determined to allow Chairman Clapp to appoint a credentials committee of fifteen, seven members to represent the Dunn interests, seven the Collins adherents, and one the Eddy candidacy, and to adjourn the convention until this committee has acted. The committee will report tomorrow.

MICHIGAN CONVENTION.

WARNER FOR GOVERNOR SURE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DETROIT, June 30.—With the nomination of Secretary of State Fred M. Warner for Governor conceded on every hand, the main issue was primary reform, when the Republican State Convention met here today. Congressman Edward L. Hamilton was elected temporary chairman. Congressman Hamilton, in the course of his address, said:

"It is a well-known lexal maxim, 'If you have no case, abuse the plaintiff's attorney.' Translated into politics, this means, 'if you have no principles, abuse the opposing candidate.' Some days ago the Governor of Mississippi is reported to have said: 'The issue this year is Roosevelt.' That suits us. We are ready to maintain the affirmative of that issue.

"In the three years since Theodore Roosevelt went into the White House to the sound of bells tolling for the death of McKinley, he has lived in a light compared with which the light which beats upon a throne is only a candle-light, and he has disclosed no weakness, and has given to this republic an administration of incorruptible integrity, sleepless vigilance and undaunted courage.

"During the Civil War some people went to Mr. Lincoln and asked him to remove Gen. Grant and he said: 'I can't spare Grant—he fights.' We can't spare Theodore Roosevelt; he fights, but he fights fair and he fights for the right."

THE TICKET.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DETROIT (Mich.) June 30.—The Republican State Convention today nominated the following ticket: Governor, Fred M. Warner of Farmington; Lieutenant-Governor, Alexander Maitland; State Treasurer, Frank P. Glazier; Secretary of State, George A. Prescott; Auditor-General, Dr. J. B. Bradley; Attorney-General, Charles A. Blair; Superintendent of Public Instruction, F. H. Kelly; member of State Board of Education, L. L. Wright; Land Commissioner, W. H. Ross.

The platform, which was very short, indorsed the platform adopted by the national convention at Chicago; indorses Roosevelt and Fairbanks, and expresses confidence in a memorable victory for the State ticket and "our fearless leader and typical Republican, Theodore Roosevelt."

The amendment to the resolutions prepared by Congressman William Alden Smith and Senator Simons, pledging the party to the nomination of Governor by direct vote, was defeated by a vote of 774 to 354.

AFTER YOU, DEAR DEMOCRATS.

POPULISTS PLAY WAITING GAME

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) June 30.—The State Populist Convention to select delegates to the national convention at Springfield, Ill., July 4, convened here today. Twenty-one delegates and twenty-one alternates were named, with instructions to vote for ex-Congressman Weller for Vice-President at the national convention. No State ticket was named.

Chairman Norman said: "Most of our people are waiting to see what the Democrats are going to do at St. Louis. If Bryan and Hearst are kicked out and the Tammany ring wins out, there will be a large following come into the Populist party. The action of the Democrats at St. Louis will influence, to a considerable extent, the action of the National Populist Convention at Springfield."

NOTICES OF CONTESTS.

WALSH RECEIVES REPORTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—Notices of contests among delegates to the Democratic National Convention are beginning to reach Charles A. Walsh, secretary of the National Committee, at headquarters in this city. Up to today, contests in fourteen districts had been reported to him. The districts are the First to Sixth in Pennsylvania, the Twelfth and Fourteenth in Ohio, the three in the District of Columbia, the Tenth in Indiana, Second in Maine and Twenty-third in Illinois.

Rumors have reached the headquarters that the entire Illinois delegation is to be contested, but the only notice received so far is from the Twenty-third District.

KANSAS POPS FAVOR ALLEN.

DELEGATION TO SPRINGFIELD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOPEKA, June 30.—Secretary John Curran says 150 Kansas Populists will leave Kansas City Saturday evening over the Rock Island road for the national convention at Springfield, Ill. July 4, via St. Louis. The Kansas crowd favor a recess until after the Democrats take action at St. Louis. Kansas had 89 delegates, the largest number of any State. Curran has received word from Lincoln, Neb., that the Nebraska Populists favor W. V. Allen of that State for President and Thomas Watson of Georgia for Vice-President.

GROVER? NOT ON YOUR LIFE.

SENATOR DUBOIS SAYS PARKER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—Some Western delegates to the Democratic National Convention arrived today but aside from their individual opinions they had no knowledge of what was going to be done next week. Everything seems to await the arrival of the leaders.

Senator Dubois of Idaho came in tonight, and when asked what he thought of the Presidential outlook said he saw nothing but Parker.

"Whom will they nominate after they have beaten Parker?" he asked.

"Would it be Cleveland?" he continued. "Why, there is more than a third of the convention which will stay here until election before allowing the nomination of Cleveland. An attempt to nominate Cleveland would throw the convention into the hands of Bryan. The convention will nominate Parker because they have no other man to nominate."

Senator Dubois declared that he will get an anti-polygamy plank in the national platform. That will be his principal work while in St. Louis. He says would lose Utah, Idaho and Wyoming if that the Republicans feared they they declared against polygamy, but he claims that a strong declaration of that kind in the Democratic platform will carry these States for the Democratic party.

Former Senator George Turner of Washington came today with a small but earnest Vice-Presidential boom. The States of Idaho and Washington are instructed to vote for Mr. Turner for this position and the few delegates from that region are making a little stir about a Pacific Coast man for second place, pending the time when all interest in the convention will be swallowed up in the talk of the nominee for President and the platform.

Former Senator Frank J. Cannon of Utah says he will not bolt this convention. "Eight years ago I bolted the Republican convention in this very town and I have grown gray since that time trying to find proper political terminal facilities. Let them put anything they please in the platform and even nominate Grover Cleveland and I will watch the other fellows walk out if they want to, but none of it for me. I have had all I want."

Beside Cannon, there will be Senator Teller of Colorado and Senator DuBois of Idaho, former Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota and Charles A. Towne and Representative Lind of Minnesota as delegates to the coming convention, who bolted the National Republican convention held at St. Louis eight years ago.

Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will arrive in St. Louis tomorrow.

AS JONES SEES IT.

BRYAN WILL ACCEPT PARKER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PITTSBURGH, June 30.—"William J. Bryan will not bolt his party ticket if Judge Parker is nominated for President, I am confident." Declared Ex-Senator J. K. Jones, national Democratic chairman, in this city tonight, while en route to the St. Louis convention.

"As to what Mr. Bryan might do if Mr. Cleveland is nominated, I could not say, but I regard the nomination of Cleveland as little short of an impossible contingency.

"Outside of Judge Parker, Mr. Hearst will have the greatest number of instructed delegates. I regard Mr. Gorman as one of the strongest possibilities."

Jones does not think a bi-metallism plank will be inserted in the platform.

BESIEGE THE BANK.

Several Hundred People Draw Their Money from Illinois Institution Put in Hole by Cashier.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

AURORA (Ill.) June 30.—Several hundred people today besieged the doors of the German National Bank, the cashier of which, by his own confession, is short $90,000 in his accounts.

For an hour there was no diminution of the crowd. Most of those clamoring for their money were women. Some carried babes in their arms, as they lined up for their turn at the paying teller's window. Huge stacks of gold, silver and currency were piled on the counters. A number of prominent citizens entered the bank during the rush and made large deposits. In three hours the run was apparently over. The directors said that $32,744, had been withdrawn.

The defaulter is a physical wreck. For three years he has borne the ceaseless strain of trying to hide the hole in the bank's reserve fund, while the hole had been growing deeper and broader. In his confession of the shortage, Cashier Payne attributes his downfall to "unfortunate speculation."

WARRANT FOR BUTLER.

St. Louis Politican in Court as Result of Confession of Grafter Butler to Folk.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—Col. Edward Butler, a prominent local politician, came into court this afternoon in answer to a bench warrent charging him with bribing a witness. He was released on a bond of $10,000, with John J. O'Brien as surety.

The warrant was issued this afternoon by Judge Taylor at the request of Circuit Attorney Folk, as the result, it is believed, of recent disclosures made to the grand jury by Charles F. Kelly and Charles Gutke, formed members of the House of Delegates, convicted of bribery.

The grand jury had returned an indictment against Butler early in the day, but it was not turned into court until some time later, when the bench warrant was issued.

The witness whom Butler is suposed to have bribed is Charles F. Kelly, former speaker of the House of Delegates, who, Charles Gutke told Circuit Attorney Folk, in his confession, was paid $50,000 to go to Europe at a critical time in the boodle developments here, when his testimony would have involved men "higher up."

Butler, who was on the bonds of Gutke and Kelly, has surrendered them and announced that he will also withdraw from the bonds of the other former delegates already convicted or awaiting trial on the charge of bribery.

The new indictment against Butler is brought under a section of the revised statutes of Missouri which provide that any person who may directly or indirectly induce a person to absent himself, avoid any legal process or to withhold his evidence in any case wherein there is a prosecution for felony, shall be guilty of a felony.

Edward Butler was recently acquitted on a charge of bribery by a jury at Fulton, Mo., where the case was tried on a change of venue. He was convicted on a similar charge at a former trial at Columbia, Mo., but a decision by the Supreme Court, to which the case had been appealed, freed him.

MASONIC OATH NO BARRIER.

Courts Have the Power to Compel Testimony Despite Secret Society Vows.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GLENS FALLS (N. Y.) June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That the Masonic oath is no bar to revealing information desired in court proceedings was today decided by the Appellate division of the Supreme Court, Third Department, on appeal from the order of Surrogate Jenkins, in this county, imposing a fine of $100 and imprisonment on President Eugene L. Ashley of the Hudson River Power Company until he had purged himself of contempt in refusing to disclose the information which he testified he possessed concerning the William Van Rensselaer estate, in which the William Moore estate is interested.

The proceedings were brought by H. P. King, executor of the Moore estate. Ashley was at one time Moore's attorney, and refused to answer, on the ground that he had secured the desired information from the confidential relations of his client, and in addition, he had taken the Masonic oath not to reveal them.

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—W. P. Maxwell, Superintendent of Instruction of New York City, was today elected president of the National Educational Association for next year. The other officers elected include H. H. Swayen, Montana, and H. A. Mathews, Arizona, vice-presidents, and A. W. Crabtree, Nebraska, treasurer.

The recommendation was unanimously adopted that Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands be granted representation in the association, and directors were elected.

The report of Treasurer Rhodes of Kentucky, which shows total receipts during the past year of $81,000 and total disbursements of $77,000, was approved, as was also the annual report of the board of trustees. The convention then adjourned. The selection of a place for holding the next convention was left to the new board of directors.

The question of supporting a movement for the general adoption of phonetic spelling will not come up before next year's convention of the National Educational Association. The matter was to have been considered by the association in convention here, but has been laid over another year.

At today's session Samuel L. Lindsay, Commissioner of Education, San Juan, Porto Rico, talked on "Education in Porto Rico," and told of the advancement of educational methods in that island in accordance with American standards, notwithstanding many obstacles. J. J. Sheppard of New York and Rear-Admiral Carper delivered addresses. The next speech on the programme was by Booker T. Washington. President Cook introduced Mr. Washington, who was greeted with resounding applause.

NO REBATE OF DUTY ON COKE.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Upon an old protest filed by a firm doing business in Los Angeles, Cal., the Board of General Appraisers has ruled as to whether coke should have the benefit of rebate of duty the same as coal under the emergency act of January 15, 1903. The opinion is in the negative, and concludes that coal and coke are distinctive commodities and that Congress did not provide for rebate of duties on coke in the emergency act. The question arose over a protest against the assessment of duty, under the Dingley tariff, at the rate of 20 per cent. on a cargo of coke. The importers claimed full rebate of duties, under the provision of the act.

Senator W. A. Clark of Montana and A. J. de Oliviera Sampaio, naval attaché of Brazil at Tokio, who is en route to his post, were passengers on the steamship Teutonic, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool. Senator Clark went abroad in April for his health, which, he says, has been greatly benefited.

GOSPEL LASSIE BETWEEN 'EM.

NEARLY A FIST FIGHT IN A RELIGIOUS MEETING.

Long, Lean, Solemn Man and Dirty Individual Weeping Foam Misunderstand Each Other. "Damn Fools Advice" Finally Goes a Long Way With the Hobo.

A fist fight in a gospel meeting with a gospel lassie holding one man's hat, nearly took place at a Volunteer's meeting on First street last night.

Muscular Christianity and a "damn fool's advice" was applied to a per'fec' gentleman.

He was a hobo so filthy he was impressive. He bjected to the meeting because there was no one there, he said, who was his social equal; it hurt his feelings. It may be mentioned, incidentally, that he was so full of beer he wept foam.

He got along pretty well until he attempted, out of the kindness of his heart, to explain to a long, lean, "unshaven individual how it could be proven that he (the long, lean man) wasn't a gentleman.

The exhorting was going at top speed at the time, and the dirty man was standing in the rear of the hall. On one side was a boy who held his mouth gaping wide open, and once in a while came to with a start and chewed an imaginary cud. On the other was the long, lean solemn individual.

The dirty man punched him in the ribs by way of introduction; the light of eloquence dilated his eye.

"Now," he says, "I'll show you how 'tis you ain't a genleman like me."

"You take a damn fool's advice and close your face," said the long man, sourly, and in a voice low enough not to disturb the singing.

But the dirty man was aglow with his fascinating subject.

He threw his hat dramatically on the floor. "Now," he said, you might do that, too, but that wouldn't make you no gentleman.

"Now, I'll tell you why. First, you can't take somethin' out of nothing, is that right?

"Second, throw three nothings in the air, and what comes down?

"And, now——"

"You give me any moreof your lip and I'll beat your block off," said the man he was laboring with.

A gospel lassie hurried down from the platform. She was frightened, but stepped between them.

The lean man accomplished a long, overhead reach over her head, to keep a grip on the hobo, saying, grimly, "Jus' step out of the way, lady."

"Don't fight in the house of God," pleaded the lassie.

"We're goin' outside," said the long man significantly.

The hobo looked unhappy, but if he had to get his face broken, he determined to make an impressive exit.

He leaned over and picked up his sloppy old hat, carefully brushing it off with his coat sleeve, and handing it sadly to the girl. "Lady," he said, "jus' kindly hold my hat."

The long man dragged him out on the sidewalk and scuffling and shuffling along First street, with a crowd bursting out of the meeting and accumulating from the gutters to see the execution.

At the corner of the building the dirty man drew himself up with dignity. "I insis' on getting my hat," he said.

"Where's your hat?" inquired his captor.

He said it was back in the meeting, so he was allowed to sneak back, while the long man waited for him grimly.

Inside, the gospel lassie reproached him and the dirty man got very dignified and gave back the gospel sheet which he took from her for the purpose, and bade farewell, formally, to Christianity.

His cue was to leave—an outcast forever—but the idea of the man outside made him uneasy, so he kept on saying farewell and peeking out of the crack of the door, until the man of wrath outside finally got tired waiting and went away.

Then he ventured out and told the crowd how he had never been appreciated all his life. It was so sad that it made him weep copiously.

STAGE KISS GREAT ECHO.

Senior A's of High School do "Lady Elizabeth."

Amateur Talent Dramatic in Wondrous Display.

Young America Doesn't Take Play Seriously.

The play was the thing yesterday afternoon at Mason Operahouse, when the Senior A's of the Los Angeles High School celebrated their class day.

With the audacity of youth they had selected a beautiful, but tragic drama, which actually held the interest of the audience for nearly four solid hours, much of this interest attaching to the star performance of "Lady Elizabeth," the title role, in which Miss Edna Barnes displayed indications of real dramatic power.

Plummer H. Montgomery, Who Took the Part of Bishop of Winchester in the High School Play.

The scene in the tower where the chamber seems to her overwrought imagination to be peopled with its former victims, Lady Jane Gray, and her own ill-starred moltier, Ann Boiyn, was a severe test for an amateur actress, especially with a jolly, rollicking audience of boys and girls ready to ring the change from the sublime to ridiculous in an instant.

Many such changes were rung during the progress of the play, and a most affecting scene was punctuated by the popping of a balloon in mid air, said balloon being one of a number sent up by the ubiquitous Senior B's, who were seated in front and who did not suffer things to lag for a single moment. The love scenes especially were their dear delight, and the joy of a stage kiss was echoed in mocking chuckles, throughout the house.

Miss Mamie Hutton, as Queen Mary, was also a drawing card, and invested the part with a real royal presence from the first scene, where she holds her court to the miserable death that she dies.

Isabel Markham, the coquettish beauty and friend of Elizabeth, was given with happy spontaneity by Miss Hazel A. Newsom, and her lover, the ridiculous Sir John Harrington, was a touch of comedy presented by Ben Norton.

Melrowe Martin, in the character of Sir Edward Courtenay, lived up to his role of lover and gentle knight, and the selection of Plummer H. Montgomery to sustain the part of Gardnier, Bishop of Winchester and High Lord Chancelor of the realm, was a happy one, as his clear cut features and sober mein lent themselves rarely to the priestly habiliments.

Harold Menardi was the Spanish envoy, so frequently in evidence; Miss J. Marie Preston, the imperious Duchess of Norfolk, and Miss Agnes G. Barnwell was the jolly little daughter of the warden of the tower, who played the go-between for the imprisoned lovers.

The other characters were Earl of Sussex (Lord High Chamberlain,) which was given with spirit by Will R. Henderson; Sir John Bridges (lieutenent of the tower,) by Neil Christopher; Sir Thomas Wyatt, by Stuart Ingram; Parry, (Cofferer to Lady Elizabeth,) by Levin S. Deats, and Rutter (a tower warden,) by Authur Spring.

Besides these there were maids of honor, queen's women, ladies of the court, nobles, citizens, yeoman of the guard, retainers, warders, etc., all part of the pretty pageant of the play, and it will be many moons ere the Mason Operahouse will see such another crowd of bright-faced young people for an audience, with quips and jokes and echoes of class songs sung at every interval, with colors and pennants in evidence and with the spirit of holiday fun possessing them.

The music was furnished by the High School orchestra and the play was prefaced by a brief address by the senior A class, President Kelso R. Glover, Miss Lucy Howell was the accompanist for the senior A class songs, which were given with a swing by the class in the costumes of the play.

The play was managed by Miss Marian G. Hards, and much of its success was due to the hard work of Neil Christopher, and the other young men of the Property Committee, and to the local houses, Niles-Pease and others who furnished stage properties.

The commencement exercises, which includes the awarding of diplomas to the class of "winter '04" and "summer '04," will be given this evening at Hazard's Pavilion. The following programme will be rendered:

Music, Los Angeles High School Orchestra; address, David Starr Jordan, president Stanford University; cornet solo, (J. Hartmann,) Harold Menardi, summer '04; oration, "The Panama Canal and Its Influence on the Future of the United States," Lynn Darrow, winter '04; vocal solo, recitative and air from opera "Irene," (Gounod) August J. Martz, winter '04, accompanist, Agnes Barnwell; essay, "The Glad Joy of Living and Working the While," Edith Walters, summer '04; presentation of class, W. H. Housh, principal Los Angeles High School; conferring of diplomas, J. B. Monlux, deputy superintendent; distribution of flowers, winter class, '05.

PUPILS ENTERTAIN.

Promotion exercises of the A eighth class of the Cambria-street school were held Wednesday afternoon. Among the items of the programme were a piano duet by Henry and Ernest Rivers, a piano solo by Ruth Hutchinson, a violin solo by Ruth Morris, a piano solo by Ella Rutherford, a guitar and mandolin duet by Leon Spinks and Weston Wilson, a piano solo by Flora Coonemiller, a piano duet by Sheda Lowman and Verna Marshall, and the presentation of a flag to the school by Ruth Morris. The class presented its teacher with a fine brooch.

FIRST GRADUATES OFF THE HILL.

COMMENCEMENT OF COMMERCIAL HIGH LAST NIGHT.

Well-programmed Exercises at Simpson Auditorium Largely Attended — Double Graduation for One Girl—Various Features of the School's Closing Ceremonies.

Commercial High School commencement, at Simpson Auditorium last evening, attracted an audience of no less size than all the better seating capacity of the building. You couldn't get a seat at all on the lower floor, and in the balcony the best ones were all taken.

Upon the platform were banked the rows of white-gowned girls and black-coated young men, with the front of the rostrum heavy with flowers. The exercises covered a modest length of time, and the orations and addresses had the great merit of shortness, and a "boiled-down" effect of terseness and pithy subject matter.

The Commercial High School chorus opened the evening's programme, singing Schnecker's "June," under the direction of Mrs. Gertrude Parsons. The singers were heartily applauded.

Miss Inez Jones of the winter class of 1904, followed with an oration on the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Miss oJnes treated this timely subject with discretion and meritorious comment upon history and current events, as they bear upon the great fair.

Manfred Meyberg of the summer class then delivered a well-written oration upon "The Responsibilities of Citizenship." Maynard Parker played as violin solos an andante from Vieuxtemps Second Concerto and Sarasate's "Spanish Dance."

One of the best of the evening's addresses was that offered by Miss Grace Sutherland, who chose as her subject the eminently practical one of civil service in municipalities. Miss Sutherland dilated upon aldermanic honesty, and showed in concise manner the actual money value of an effective working system of civil service to any municipality.

The valedictory was given by Mendel Silberberg. Silberberg, with due patriotism, chose to dilate upon the resources of California, showed her wonderful growth through the past half century, and painted a glowing picture of days that are to come.

Miss Frances Burrows was especially distinguished, as this was her second graduation ceremony in two days. Night before last Miss Burrows was honored as the only graduating pupil of the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music, and last evening she received her diploma from the Commercial High School. Her musical offering was the same on both occasions—Liszt's sixth rhapsody.

L. C. Gates followed Miss Burrows's solo with a terse address upon the value of education, and especially the side which tends to the practical. He was warmly applauded, and after the presentation of the class by vice-principal B. H. Donnell, diplomas were given by M. C. Bettinger, assistant superintendent of schools.

The evening was concluded with the chorus singing of Gilchrist's "Norse Lullaby," and the distribution of the many flowers, done by the senior B girls.

The members of the winter class are Cora Adams, Pauline Brodrero, Leland Bowers, C. C. Buffett, Carl Buratti, Frances Burrows, Julia Fanta, Frank Harlow, Hazel Jones, Inez Jones, Georgia Lake, Melrowe Martin, Charles H. Richards, Mendel Silberberg, Rose Schweitzer, Hattie White and Henry Wacker.

The summer class consists of Justin Brocksieper, Rosalea Boden, Joe Bronson, Clara Clark, Helen Dunlap, Ernestine Fleur, Charles Groshong, John Goodwin, Mamie Henck, James Hollerran, Irene Herskovits, Ella Johnson, Rollin Kerns, Myra Knoch, John M. Lang, Manfred Meyberg, Ethel Packard, Claudie Reed, Alice Russell, Clara Rossner, Lucille Schwartz, Ada Stombs, Irene Sanderson, Grace Sutherland and Orma Weaver.

CASKET OF SILVER FOR THE COMMODORE.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon all Postal Telegraph business was temporarily stopped, and every employé of the company in this city was to be found in the downstairs office at No. 238 South Spring street. Commodore R. R. Haines, pioneer telegraph man in the West, has just resigned the local managership, and officials of the Pacific division, together with fellow-workers from Vancouver to Albuquerque, united in surprising him and presenting him a handsome chest of silver. The presentation speech was made by Superintendent Charles L. Lewis, and the commodore, though rather upset by his kind remembrance, responded with deep feeling and also appropriate wit.

Commodore Haines has built telegraph lines up and down the Pacific Coast, across the great rivers of the north, through the forests of Oregon and Washington, and over the mountains and valleys of California, Arizona and New Mexico.

COMMODORE R. R. HAINES.

He has seen much active service in various fields of life. He was born in Hallowell, Me., in 1826, and comes from an old Welsh family. Commodore Haines is a lineal descendant of Deacon Samuel Haines, who landed in New Hampshire in 1635, less than fifteen years after the Pilgrims. The retiring Postal Telegraph manager began his career in a printing office, but soon gave up this work to become a sailor. As cabin boy of the old brig, Mary Ann, he earned the subriquet of Commodore, which has since followed him all over the world.

He entered the telegraph service at Bath, Me., in the fall of 1848, and was made manager of that office in 1850. For more than half a century he has been holding very responsible positions in the telegraphic world. He sailed for California via the Isthmus of Panama in 1857, and was made manager of the old Alta California Telegraph Company's office at Diamond Springs. Mining and other diversions took up some of his time, but he steadily progressed in his chosen work, and in 1864 was elected assistant superintendent of the consolidated California State Telegraph Company, with headquarters at San Francisco.

Commodore Laine's constructive career began there. From 1864 to 1868 he was busily engaged in building new lines in Oregon and Washington, completing the connecting line between Portland and San Francisco in July of the first-named year.

At this time there was a plan on foot to reach Europe with an overland line across Alaska and Siberia. The "Western Union Russian Extension Company" was organized for this purpose, and in the fundamental work Commodore Haines completed a line as far as New Westminster, B. C. In 1868 he built a line from Portland to The Dalles, and in the fall of the same year met John W. Mackay, the "Honanza King," and between the two was cemented a friendship which lasted until Mackay's death.

He first entered Los Angeles in 1871, as division superintendent for the Western Union company, and two years later built for the government 600 miles of line connecting San Diego, Maricopa and Yuma. Commodore Haines was made manager of the Western Union Los Angeles office in 1882, and here he remained until 1887, when he resigned. He entered the Postal Telegraph service in 1889.

The new manager, named yesterday, is Frank B. Cox, a young man who has been assistant manager eighteen months. Mr. Cox was chief operator of the Postal Telegraph Stock Exchange office in New York before coming here.

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

An evening or two ago, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fisher of No. 945 South Bonnie Brae street, gave a dinner in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Percival Gerson and as a farewell to their guest, Rev. John O. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fisher, Dr. and Mrs. T. Percival Gerson, Miss Powers and Miss Plimpton of Los Angeles, Rev. John O. Foster of Chicago, Miss Helen Plimpton of Riverside, Mrs. C. E. Mason of Spokane, the Misses Clara and Myrtle Timmons of Santa Ana, and Miss Martin of Minneapolis.

AFTER reigning as queen of the contest for just one day, Lula Briant has abdicated in favor of Harry Leftwich of Inglewood. Miss Briant was the recipient of many congratulations yesterday for having gotten her name at the head of the list so early in the contest. One enthusiastic admirer presented her a box of candy for getting ahead of the Pasadena hustler, Halsey Thompson, and there was general rejoicing among her friends that she was in the lead. But while Miss Briant was receiving the glad hand and the felicitations of a heroine, generally the friends of the first native son of Inglewood were giving him a boost that put him ahead of the reigning belle and made him king of the contest. His royal highness has a margin of only sixty-four points to the good, however, and if the deposed queen's friends get to work today they can easily restore her to the scholarship throne. Provided, of course, that Leftwich's friends do not get too busy themselves. Miss Briant is the daughter of a popular Woodman of the World, and it is rumored that some heavy log-rolling is going to be done in her favor.

But how about Pasadena's tall son of Anak? Does any one believe that he will be content to remain in third place after having started at the head of the list? Well, hardly. He has the prestige of the Crown City, which never does things by halves, behind him, and it will be strange if he does not recover his lost ground.

Elsie Bamesberger remains in fourth place and is only a few hundred votes shy of having

D. D. Black, representative of the Agency, has attended to the selling of 2500 cars of oranges since the season opened, the largest quantity ever handled by one man in the same length of time. The total sales, including Independents' receipts, to date, are about 3500 cars. It is estimated that 500 cars more may be sold before September 1, the close of the season.

SOUND BANKING. Group eight of the State Bankers' Association of Iowa at a recent meeting adopted a resolution which, after calling attention to the fact that nearly all of the bank failures in that State have been due wholly to speculation in its various forms, declares that it will use its influence to place banking in Iowa upon a foundation so secure as to render a bank failure practically impossible. To that end, it discourages the use of the funds of a bank for any purpose not contemplated by the banking laws, and will assist to create a feling of distrust by depositors against all banks or bankers known to be connected with gambling institutions of whatsoever description.

That is a good, healthy, sound resolution. Something like that might well be adopted by every association of bankers throughout the country. Perhaps it might be a little more specific in its terms by calling attention to the dangers of investing funds of a bank in securities of a more or less speculative character, and tying up its resources in investments which cannot be speedily convertible into cash.

There is no doubt that the banking situation throughout the country, as a whole, is sound, but there have been some notable departures from conservatism. Banks, organized primarily for the purpose of facilitating commerce, have gone into many other things, and are now in many instances acting as brokers, investors, and sometimes as speculators in bonds and stocks, taking part in underwritings and promotions, and assuming large risks in real estate operations. Some of the officials, there is reason to believe, have been tempted by the vision of possible large gains in stock and grain speculation, and have had their attention diverted and their judgment perverted as trustees of other people's money by these personal outside speculations. In season, and out of season, should the note of warning sounded in this resolution of the Iowa bankers be repeated. There is no better way of disarming criticism of the banks, of overcoming the prejudice of centuries against money lenders, and of preparing the way for an extension of the powers of the banks in the matter of the issue of credit notes, than by thus waging war on speculative tendencies, and leading the way back into the paths of conservative and legitimate banking.—[Wall Street Journal.

COMMERCIAL.

CANNED CORN. While it is a little early as yet to predict accurately the outcome of the corn crop, letters received from packers in Maine, New York and Iowa all state that under the most favorable circumstances the pack can only be a light one, owing to the farmers turning their attention to other cereals, those that better withstand the inclemency of the weather and which insure better crop prospects. The last three years' experience with corn has made growers reluctant about taking another chance on failure of a corn crop.

CANNED ASPARAGUS. The ravages of asparagus rust and the inundation of the islands in the Sacramento River are responsible for a shortage of fully 50 per cent. of the pack of this wholesome vegetable. Even the patches not affected by rust or floods suffered on account of the peculiar weather conditions. Late rains left so much moisture in the ground as to stunt the growth, and in consequence the pack of the smaller sizes and off grades is in excess of the mammoth, large and medium grades.

TRYING TO SELL RICE. The Texas rice growers are agitating for a reduction of the retail prices of their product, just as the prune and raisin-growers have done, in order to increase the consumption. Another good way to lower prices would be to remove the import duties on those articles, but this they probably would not approve of.—[Grocer and Country Merchant.

CITRUS MOVEMENT. Thirty-seven carloads of oranges and fourteen carloads of lemons were forwarded on Wednesday, making the total to date 25,542 carloads.

COFFEE MARKET. In our local market Central American, standard and superior unwashed Salvador have developed increased strength, being now quoted at 9 cents, and 9¼ to 9½ cents, respectively; and as all descriptions under 9 cents are purely nominal, owing to a total absence of supplies and of opportunity to test values, an advance of that grade to 10 cents during the next few months is regarded as extremely probable, the deficiency in supplies all round being more and more confirmed. The City of Panama passed San Blas June 19 with 4300 bags for this port.

Hawaiian are in adequate supply here for the time being, and further shipments are withheld, in order to allow the stocks to improve in quality by keeping, and in view also of the possible imposition later of an import duty on foreign coffees, in the interest of the Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico and the Philippines. To raise a revenue from the import of foreign coffees appears the less unreasonable in view of the fact that in introducing these coffees do not hesitate to charge them with export duties, which it is intended that the consuming countries shall pay.—[San Francisco Grocer and Country Merchant.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Simpson & Hack Fruit Company will have an old-time watermelon feast on July 6 in their store, to which the Produce Exchange will be invited, as well as the employés of the house and the members of the press who usually get into close touch with the produce houses.

Onions and potatoes are both firmer. Yellow danvers onions are something new on the market. They are quoted at $1.65 per hundred.

Coachella grapes will come to this market at the rate of a carload every week day from now until the close of the melon season. The price asked in jobbing lots is $1.40 to $1.75 per crate. The stock is very fine. These melons are going East in carload quantities every day and are winning great favor in the East.

The cherry season will close very soon. The receipts were much lighter yesterday and the prices are inclined to be more firm. Apricots are also getting very scarce from the north, although the local supply is ample to care for the demand. A carload of peaches will arrive today and will care for the demand for this class of fruit until the next one will come on Tuesday of next week. The jobbing price is 75 cents a box.

Fish and poultry are only ordinary and there is scarcely any use of mentioning these articles.

Currants have ceased to come to market. Peaches, watermelons and cantaloupes are the only fruits moving in large quantities.

NEW YORK MARKETS.
SHARES AND MONEY.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—There was a slight stirring in the sluggish pool of speculation this morning, but the day's total trading is so small, compared with any period of living interest in the stock market, as to make comparisons from day to day quite meaningless. The general surface of the market was hard and unyielding, and gave the impression of an unserious of confidence, even though attempts to put prices up proved futile. Attempts were not determined or important, and the characteristic of the market continued to be total neglect. Canadian Pacific was still absorbed, especially for London account. Some benefit was caused to values by an unofficial estimate on grain conditions of a much more hopeful tenor than a like estimate published yesterday with suggestions of a crop scare. The money market was entirely unruffled by any preparation for the July settlements, although a payment on account of the Japanese loan subscriptions, estimated to call for over $12,000,000, was made today in addition to the routine disbursements called for at the turn of the half month. The subtreasury made a payment of $1,000,000 on account of Philippine revenue operations, and of $549,000 on account of Klondike gold deposited at Seattle. A transfer from San Francisco also figures in the subtreasury operations, and that institution will begin the payment of government interest tomorrow. Loan expansion by the Bank of England of $57,475,000, and by the Bank of France of $32,867,000 showed the demand for credits at these centers for the turn of the fiscal year. Sterling advanced at Paris, and the foreign markets are already anticipating the stimulating effect of disbursements for which these borrowings are made. The bond market was dull and steady. Total sales, par value, $1,130,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Police Court Collections.

The fines and costs collected in Judge Austin's Police court in June amounted to $1737 and in Judge Chambers' court to $1764.

Merchants' Trust.

The Merchants' Trust Company held its annual meeting yesterday and re-elected its board of directors. The board will at its next meeting re-elect the present officers.

Killed by Boulder.

Frank Maran, a laborer employed in the Chatsworth Park stone quarry was killed yesterday afternoon by a large boulder falling upon him. The Coroner will hold an inquest this morning.

Small Burglaries.

A sneak thief entered the new engine-house at Court and Hope streets Wednesday night, and stole carpenters' tools. The shop of W. Jeane at No. 606½ West Fourth street was burglarized of a number of tools.

Catholic Band.

At a meeting held at No. 401 East Pico street last night the preliminaries were arranged for the organization of a brass band composed of members of the Catholic Order of Foresters. Twenty-four names were enrolled.

Philippine Society.

The California Society of the Army of the Philippines will have a meeting tonight in the suite at No. 313 Grant Building. A programme of unusual interest has been in preparation, with late topics of discussion.

Army's Free Excursion.

A company of those who seldom have an opportunity to visit the seaside will go to the beach this morning on a Salvation Army excursion on the Salt Lake road. Good things to eat and to drink and a breath of real salt air will be provided for the excursionists.

Involuntary Petition.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed with the clerk of the United States District Court against L. E. Leeman, a Riverside merchant. The petitioners are M. Levy & Co., F. W. Braun Co., and Klauber & Wangenheim.

Federal Indictments.

Bruce H. Morris and Solomon Espinosa have been indicted by the Federal grand jury on the charge of selling liquor to Indians on the Saboba Reservation. Frank Bruschi has been apprehended pursuant to an indictment against him for smuggling horses in from Mexico.

Gift for Patrolman.

That Patrolman B. R. Randolph's services are appreciated by the merchants on his beat was demonstrated yesterday afternoon, when he was called into the private office of the Chief of Police and presented with a handsome gold watch, chain and locket. The gift was from business men in the vicinity of the Arcade depot.

Assistant Police Surgeon.

Police Surgeon Smith has announced the appointment of Dr. Charles Bonynge as assistant. Dr. Bonynge has been connected with the medical staff of the County Hospital a year, but resigned and will take up his new duties today. The appointment was occasioned by the resignation of Dr. Charles Freedman, who will leave today for Yuma, Ariz.

Lineman Injured.

While making repairs on a pole near the County Hospital yesterday, Andrew Haskins, a lineman of the Pacific Electric, came in contact with a live wire, and fell twenty feet. The wire carried a heavy voltage, but it is not thought that Haskins received the full force, as he would undoubtedly have been instantly killed. His back and right arm were severely burned, and he was injured by the fall. He was taken to the Sisters' Hospital, and will likely recover.

Woodmen's Excursion.

Hon. A. R. Talbot, state Senator of Nebraska and Head Consul of the Modern Woodmen of the World, will be the guest today of the local Woodmen in a trolly ride to adjacent points of interest. In company with high officers of the order and invited guests to the number of forty, a visit will be made to Long Beach this morning, starting at 9:30 o'clock in the private car Poppy. After lunch at Long Beach, the party will visit the ostrich farm in Pasadena, Rubio Cañon and Mt. Lowe. Dinner will be served at Alpine Tavern and the trip down the mountain made after dark. The party will return to the city at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

May Not be Short.

J. E. Webster, a former collector for the Collier Publishing Company, who has been held in the Police Court on the charge of misdemeanor embezzlement, to which he pleaded guilty, changed his plea to "not guilty" yesterday pending a further investigation of the case. This action was taken on the advice of the deputy district attorney. It is possible there may not be a shortage in Webster's accounts after all. It appears some of the Collier collectors have been in the habit during certain dull months of taking part of their collections and crediting the money to unpaid accounts so as to make a showing on all accounts. It is claimed this plan was followed by Webster, and that where an apparent shortage exists there is really none.

BREVITIES.

Pacific Coast Kilfyre Co., 321 West 2d st., City.—Gentlemen: We wish to add our testimonial to the many received by you, as to the efficiency of your Kilfyre. Some two or three weeks ago at our Motor, Machine & Auto Department, No. 526 S. Los Angeles st., through the carelessness of one of our employés, a lighted match was thrown into a can containing about two gallons of gasoline. This exploded, severely burning the man holding it, and making a blaze about ten or fifteen feet high, which we momentarily expected would ignite the cloth ceiling of this building. Men tried blankets, and water, and finally one whose head was where it belonged, thought of the fire extinguisher. This was thrown on and in less time than it takes to tell, it saved our building and contents. We had at that time two tubes in our building. We used part of one to extinguish the fire, and reordered six more. Hoping this will assist you in your sales department, we remain, Yours truly, Woodill & Hulse Electric Co., by W. W. Woodill.

The plan will be explained fully to anyone calling at The Times' Graphophone Department.

Low excursion rates via either the Santa Fé or the Southern Pacific, and Redlands.

Radium—Wade & Wade, assayers, 318 E. First street, for the next thirty days only, will test for radium—charges $1.00, usual charges $10. They find a large demand for the ore.

The Times' Home 'phone number has been changed from Exchange 2 to "The Times." Simply ask the operator for "The Times," no prefix or number being necessary.

The San Francisco office of The Times is located in room 10, Chronicle Building. Telephone Red 5293.

WHY NOT A STEINWAY?

The Steinway is the standard of value in the piano industry. Its price never fluctuates. Its value is ever the same. There is for every user of a Steinway the satisfaction of knowing that the instrument will respond to the player's mood at every touch.

No better compliment can be paid to any piano than to say it possesses something of the Steinway quality. But Steinway perfection at its fullest is found in the Steinway alone.

SHE TOUCHES GOOD THINGS.

Woman With a Subscription Paper for Herself.

Begs Here Two Months to "Get Her Baggage."

Proud Mrs. Estel Says She is Humiliated.

Problem: If a woman whose baggage is held by a hard-hearted landlord for payment of rent has all the money required, but $4, and starts out with a subscription paper among the "good thing" people of Los Angeles to raise the balance; if she works this racket from May 15, until the present week, getting response from many liberal people, how long will it take her to get the baggage?

MRS. F. H. ESTEL OR MRS. J. M. MORRIS.

This is the very latest game to come to the surface, and the promoter is an old-fashioned appearing, grandmotherly body, who acts as though she really had been imposed upon. She it is who is working the subscription business in order to get her baggage, and the canvasser admitted last night that she made enough out of it to pay her expenses at Hotel Wilson and her board, and, well, perhaps a trifle more.

Mrs. F. H. Estel—or is it Mrs. J. M. Morris?, is the woman whose baggage is not in the room she now occupies. Ten months ago Mrs. Estel came from Atlanta, Ga., and took quarters at the Natick House. The Hart Bros., say she represented to them that she was the owner of a large hotel in Abby Villa, a suburb of Atlanta, and showed them a picture of the building, which loomed up something like the Hotel Green of Pasadena.

Then Mrs. Estel settled down to a winter of comfort in this balmy climate. But finally, when quite a bill had run up and she was asked to settle, Mrs. Estel showed telegrams from her "hotel manager," Bell by name, and memoranda and letters from Atlanta, showing there was due her $3000 or more for rent. This did not pay bills, however, and finally the proprietors of the Natick instituted an investigation as to the standing of Mrs. Estel in Atlanta.

It was learned that there was no such hotel as she claimed and that no one in Atlanta knew "Manager Bell." Then there was an interview with Mrs. Estel, and finally the woman was locked out of her Natick room, and her baggage held for the long bill.

Mrs. Estel moved to the Hotel Wilson, in the same block, and took stock of her financial prospects. She framed up a touching appeal to the public and set out to raise money by popular subscription for the release of that baggage.

It is said she has represented that she had secured all but $4 of the amount required, and that if she could only get this all would be lovely. This plea usually worked, and if the victim of the eloquent Mrs. Estel didn't happen to have the full $4 to spare he usually gave her what he could and then referred her to a friend ,who would make up the balance.

From May 15, until the other day Mrs. Estel has been "doing the best she could;" but finally the Natick proprietors got tired of the misrepresentations the woman was making and determined to warn the public.

They say they believe her real name is Mrs. J. M. Morris, as letters found in her room were addressed to that name, and a photograph of the woman bears it on the back. They also believe she has been playing the beggar trick in various other cities, as in the room occupied by her were found long lists of names, and various signatures of "cash," which had evidently been attached to some sort of subscription papers, some of the names are of New Orleans concerns. The heading to the subscription, and the amounts subscribed had been carefully clipped off. Several sets of these papers were found.

A Times reporter called at Hotel Wilson yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Estel sent out word that she was undressed and in bed, and could not be seen. Last evening she was found seated in the parlor.

"I came to California about ten months ago and went to visit my sister in San Francisco, as I had not seen her for many years," she said. "I couldn't stand that miserable climate and so the doctor advised me to come to Los Angeles. I did so and went at once to the Natick House.

"After I got here I was taken so ill that my business plans which I had in mind, could not be carried out. I am a hotel woman, and have been in that business for many years. I have run large hotels in Atlanta, and intended to go into the business here. Yes, they did lock me out of my room, and they have my baggage.

"I come of a proud family, and this is very humiliating to me; but what am I to do? Yes, I have been soliciting for subscriptions to get my baggage, but this is a poor town for that sort of thing. I didn't get much, it has just kept me going, room rent and something to eat, and other expenses, maybe a little more, you know.

"I never told anybody that I only lacked $4 of having what I needed. My gracious, what will come next? Isn't my name really Morris? No, my name is Estel, and I've only been married once. My husband died about seven years ago.

"I don't suppose I have taken in more than $40 on these subscriptions. Several men would give me money and refer me to their friends and I got some help from them. I got one business man to give me an indorsement to take to the Merchants' and Manufactures' Association. So many of these places have the cards up about not subscribing unless you get that association's indorsement. But I haven't got it yet.

"Now, I have quit this sort of thing. I won't go out any more with the subscription paper. I will go and borrow what money I need, that's what I'll do; this is too humiliating," and there was pathos in the tones of the woman who has been asking donations for the past two months.

Mrs. Estel says she will remain in Los Angeles.

HILL HAULED UP HIGH HILL.

Then Dumped in Great Hole to Make Good Lots.

Queerest Realty Transfer About Completed.

Immense Bluff Cut Level With Streets.

Fattening one hill with another is an odd proces that has been going on within a block or two of the heart of Los Angeles for a long time; a tedious process, yet without parallel in the real estate transactions of this marvelous city.

This is a real estate transfer, in fact, where the real estate is transferred bodily from one location to another by means of a sort of a Mt.-Lowe-dirt-wagon-cable-incline arrangement.

Los Angeles soil—just plain "dirt," in the vernacular—is becoming too valuable to be hauled away and dumped into a bog because perchance it stood perpendicularly on top of a horizontal lot that an owner wanted to get at to build a modern flat on. Now it has come to the point where perpendicular lots are moved from where nature tumbled them wrong side up without care, and are set up elsewhere as they should be.

For months the peculiar and picturesque sight has been the daily privilege of residents of two blocks on West First street of seeing one hill hauled up another hill and piled into a breach in the landscape that, formerly merely good atmosphere, is being made valuable property.

A monster job was tackled by Contractor James A. Hill when he began to haul the towering promontory on the southwest corner of First and Hill streets up the higher hill back of it. He rigged up a running cable for his wagons, so that every "empty" coming down helped a "load" up; and thus he feeds a lower hill to a higher one.

You can see the double-action cableway in operation any day by just stepping up to First and Hill streets. The soil from the hill that is being cut down at that point is being used to build up a site for a building on Grand avenue, just back of the apartments on the northeast corner of the avenue and First street. At the crossing of these two ways, at the crown of the hill, a stout stake driven into the ground holds a wheel such as are seen over wells of the old oaken-bucket style, laid flat. Through this runs a cable, capable of doubling the distance of two blocks, down to Hill street. As soon as a wagon loads at the bottom, the lower end of the cable is attached to the wagon tongue; and as soon as a wagon unloads at the top, it makes connections with the other end of the cable. Then the driver at the bottom and the driver at the top give each other the high sign—and the wondrous scheme begins to unfold. The team of the wagon above, pulling steadily but easily down hill, makes the load light for the ascending team.

Before the filling-in process was begun up on Grand avenue, hollow wooden structures, like lengthy ventilators or perpendicular drains, were sunk to the level below at intervals over the space that was to be made into elevated property; and these are to be filled with concrete, to form the pillars, as a matter of safety in such lofty made ground, on which a large apartment house will be built.

When the leveling of the immense bank is completed, which will in about two weeks more, according to the contractor, 25,000 cubic yards of earth will have been removed via the crude cable incline route. Both sites involved are the property of Lawrence Holmes, owner of the Hotel Cecil, adjacent to the excavation.

RAZOR GIRLS WAGING WAR.

Hair Flying Lively in the Storm Center.

Six Barbers Leave a Shop and Ten Go in.

So Many Watchers Police Disperse Them.

War, continuous and prolonged, is waged by the woman barbers of East Second street. War to the knife, or to be literal, to the razors, has broken out, and while the female shears manipulators have gone no further than to call each other "horrid things," the atmosphere of Second street is full of rumors, and dire threats of vengeance are registered, for insults real and fancied.

L. Kleinman, propriteor of "The Daisy," a shop where women only are employed, is the man around whom the war has centered, and his place of business at No. 122 East Second street is the target for whole batteries of female epithets.

Until about two weeks ago all went well at "The Daisy," and the proprietor was beginning to realize handsomely on his investment. But though Kleinman has a good head for business, the proposition of adjusting harmoniously the troubles of six woman barbers, proved too perplexing a problem, and after a series of repeated failures, the queen of the lather cup, Mrs. Grace E. Smith, with her five attendants, marched majestically out of "The Daisy" to return again, no never!

Directly across the street from "The Daisy" a man named "Doc" Gilman runs a barber college, where both men and women are taught. Straight into Gilman's shop marched the six irate woman barbers, and told their alleged troubles into willing ears.

Gilman also has an eye for business, that looks beyond the possibilities of a barber college. Visions of a shop of his own flitted fantastically through his brain, and "Doc" immediately proceeded to have a pipe dream, in the midst of which six female hair-removers played the leading roles.

As a result of the pipe-dream of Gilman, the struggling students were peremptorily fired and the woman barbers were employed on the spot. Then a brilliant idea suggested itself to the fertile mind of "Doc." A large cloth sign was stretched across the sidewalk, announcing the advent of the woman barbers, but the first signal victory of the enemy was almost spoiled by the strong arm of the law, which wrenched unceremoniously from its standard the offensive banner.

Not to be thus easily outwitted "Doc" put up another sign, this time over the front of his rechristened barber college, which read: "The six lady barbers from across the street can be found here." This manifesto in letters bold and bright faced the enemy all day yesterday.

While matters progressed at the remodeled barber college, Kleinman over at "The Daisy" was getting busy. A trip to another city secured new material in the way of woman barbers, and on a brand new awning, the Jewish triumph was announced yesterday afternoon. Across the front of the awning was the almost-completed sign "ten lady barbers in attendance." Kleinman had gone Gilman four better, and "Doc" said he would pass, as the raise was too strong.

Kleinman said yesterday: "The girls in my shop were making on an average between $18 and $20 a week, but they ask of me too much, and I cannot stand for it, then they walk out on me, and I have to get some more."

Friends of Kleinman say the women formed a union against him, with the expectation of running his shop on union lines. They declare a yellow morning newspaper promised sympathy and support to the union, which was to be run on San Francisco methods of coercion.

The customers of the two shops have taken up the fight and gather in groups on sidewalks in front of the rival institutions. The police have been obliged to break up these knots of excited participants, much to the disgust of a tall, sallow youth, who aspires to the leadership of either side willing to listen to his harangues.

Yesterday afternoon at "The Daisy" Kleinman offered as evidence of his good faith and sense of justice regarding the wage question, the bunch of returned checks, representing the weekly stipend of the six women barbers. For the last week in which they held the fort at No. 122, the sum total in wages was a little better than $117 or an average of $19.50 each, besides tips, which later item is taken into consideration by the proprietors of woman barber shops, as a source of legitimate revenue.

The troubles of the women barbers at No. 125 are by no means ended, and for the forelady, Mrs. Grace E. Smith, they are multiplying to an uncomfortable degree. Kleinman declares his forelady is offering inducements to her assistants in the shape of bright new golden eagles, which it is said she shakes in their faces at every opportunity. A guarantee of $20 a week is promised to the woman who will break the "solid six," and Mrs. Smith is fearful the temptation may prove too strong.

Meanwhile many are shaved on both sides of the street; business is rushing as never before, and the loungers and idlers that throng this particular block are kept busy watching the progress of developments at the seat of war.

CHASES PARTNER DOWN

Bricklayer Goes to Sleep Waiting for Train and is Robbed by "Friend."

After chasing his former partner from Tucson to this city and following his trail closely for nine days, D. I. McFarland, a bricklayer, finally located Harry Faust, a fellow-craftsman, and secured his arrest on a charge of robbery.

McFarland and Faust had been knocking around the country together several months, and decided to come to Los Angeles. McFarland says that were waiting for a train in the depot at Tucson, when he fell asleep and his partner robbed him of $50 and departed on the train, leaving him alone in the land of dreams. When he discovered his loss, McFarland started to Los Angeles on another train, and ever since his arrival he has kept a sharp look out for his ex-partner.

PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The City Council yesterday ordered that all work and proposed work on the Cudahy, Maier and Hauser packing plants be stopped, until it can determine upon a line of action relating to the protests filed against the maintenance of these establishments.

A petition will be received by the City Council Monday asking that resolutions of intention to plant shade trees along certain streets be passed.

The City Treasurer expects today will be the busiest in the history of that office.

Street contractors are worried over Judge York's decision in regard to the validity of the city's old specifications for street improvements.

"Bull" White, now on trial, is said to have been converted, and though suspicion fills the minds of those close to him, he is receiving benevolent attention from the women interested.

Mrs. Richie Gray told a thrilling story yesterday before Judge Conrey and got her divorce on the strength of it.

AT THE CITY HALL.

PACKING-HOUSES IN ABEYANCE.

CITY COUNCIL UNDECIDED ON A LINE OF ACTION.

Improvements Made Pending Disposition of Protests Will be at Owners' Risk, is Notice Sent the Proprietors—Petition for Shade Trees—Pay Day for City.

At a special meeting of the Council yesterday afternoon the City Clerk was instructed to officially notify the proprietors of the Cudahy packing-house and the proposed Hauser and Maier packing establishments that any improvements they make pending further action by the Council will be at their own risk.

This action of the Council was due to protests which residents of the neighborhoods in which these plants are to be located filed with the Council some weeks ago.

At the solicitation of a large number of these protestants the Council recently made a tour of inspection of the slaughter-houses and viewed the sites upon which the new plants are to be located.

The Hauser plant, which is proposed to be located on East Ninth street near Santa Fé avenue, was the center of attack yesterday. The lobby was well filled with those who were opposed to the establishment of a slaughter-house in the vicinity of their homes. Both Hauser and the protestants against the building of his plant on the present site were represented by attorneys.

I. B. Dockweiler appeared for Hauser and made a strong talk against the Council's taking any action until Hauser would visit the property owners in the vicinity of the proposed plant. He thought some satisfactory arrangement could be arrived at between the residents and the packing company.

Dockweiler pointed out that the place where he wished to build the plant is a part of the slaughter-house district, set apart by ordinance. He said Mr. Hauser purchased the land with the understanding that there would be no objection to the establishment of a packing-house there. He declared that since the controversy has arisen no slaughtering has been done on the premises, and promised that if the Council would let the matter rest for a little time no animals would be slaughtered there, and no further steps taken toward the building of a plant until such time as the controversy could be satisfactorily adjusted.

E. E. Galbreth spoke for the protestants. He said the ordinance was passed and published the same day, and that therefore the people living in the vicinity of the proposed additional district, knew nothing of the project to set apart a district in their midst to be used for a slaughter-house. He asked that the Council take action at once. He admitted that technically a packing company has a right there, but declared the place would be a nuisance and detrimental to the growth and best interests of that section.

On motion of Mr. Skilling the City Clerk was ordered to notify the Hauser Company to discontinue operations on its Ninth-street site until further instructions from the Council.

Mr. Todd moved to amend the instructions by including the Cudahy and other plants.

The entire question, on the recommendation of Nofziger, was laid over until two weeks from next Monday when all interested parties will be heard.

FOR CITY BEAUTIFUL.

PETITION FOR SHADE TREES.

A petition is to be presented to the Council Monday which, if it receives favorable consideration, will mean much for the future beauty of the city. It is a petition asking the Council to pass resolutions of intention to plant trees along the lines of certain streets. The proceeding is in line with an act of the State Legislature passed in 1893.

The scheme by which a city may achieve this best and most-striking mark of beauty—ample shade trees, is as follows:

Upon the presentation to the Council of a petition by a majority of the property owners fronting on a street in a certain block or district, the Council shall pass resolutions of intention to improve the portion of the street or streets mentioned in the petition. Notices stating the number of trees and the distance they are to be set apart as well as the kind of trees to be planted must be posted along the line of improvement.

Then if a majority of the property owners do not protest against the proposed improvement. The Council will advertise for bids for setting out the trees. The party to whom the contract is awarded will be compelled to furnish bonds as a guarantee that he will faithfully perfom the terms set forth in his contract with the city.

The improvement is paid for by the property owners fronting on the street upon which the planting takes place.

The contractor receives one-half of the money when the work is finished. One-half of the balance is paid in eighteen months after the completion of the work, and the remainder is due at the expiration of three years from the time the planting of the trees is accepted by the Street Superintendent.

The scheme is new in Los Angeles, but city officials in discussing the matter yesterday expressed belief that the project was a good one, and would doubtless be the means of awakening interest in tree planting in the city.

BUSIEST DAY.

CITY SALARIES TODAY.

The City Treasurer and his deputies are planning for the busiest day today in the history of the office.

Mr. Workman said last night that he expects to pay out over $120,000 in salaries alone. The Street Department and all of its various branches of sprinkling, sweeping etc., will receive their money today, instead of the 15th inst., as is usually the case. The School Department, which likewise is paid in the middle of the month, will receive its pay today. The City Engineer's force, which is generally paid on the eighth or ninth of the month will also receive its quota of the city's gold. It is the first time all of the branches of the municipality have received their pay on the same day.

The Glorious Fourth is responsible for it all.

Departments which were in the habit of getting their pay later in the month made an appeal to City Auditor Schwabe for an earlier payment than usual to allow them to properly celebrate the Fourth, and on his recommendation, the Council at the special meeting yesterday passed the demands of the various departments interested.

In addition to the large amount which the Treasurer's office will pay out in salary demands about $40,000 will be paid out on matured coupons on municipal improvement bonds.

Mr. Workman must collect the semi-annual interest on the Vrooman Act Street Improvement bonds. Nearly 5000 bonds will be due today, but they are mostly small amounts averaging about $2 each.

A peculiarity of the bonding system is that the city receives no return for the labor involved in handling these bonds.

Two deputies are employed constantly on this work, and their duties are among the most difficult and arduous of any of the deputies in the employ of the city. The work is especially heavy during the months of June, July, December and January, at which times the semi-annual interest is computed and collected. All of the money received is at once turned over to the street contractor who did the work. In addition to the labor furnished by the city, the cost of engraving the bonds, which is a large item, is also borne by the municipality.

CONTRACTORS UNEASY.

DIFFICULTY OVER WORDING.

Uneasy rests the head of the street contractors these days, for Judge York has just handed down an opinion along the same line as the famous San Diego decision which created consternation among city contractors when published in The Times last summer.

Several other cases are now pending before Judge Conrey, and the contractors are awaiting the outcome of his findings with anxiety.

Contractors declare they will take the cases to the Supreme Court on an appeal. If the decision of the Superior judges should be sustained by the higher tribunal the contractors will lose their money.

The difficulty arose, as has been fully explained, over the wording of the specifications under which the street work was done. These specifications stipulated that the contractor was to be held responsible for any damages arising from the nature of the work to be done. As this clause made the price which the contractors demanded for their work very much higher than it would otherwise have been, Judge York, following the San Diego decision, declared that the assessment was not legal.

As soon as the error in the specifications was found out City Engineer Stafford at once drew up new specifications and the former ones were abandoned.

At the time the error was found there were amounts aggregating nearly $250,000 due and unpaid to the various street contractors of the city. Nearly all of this has been collected so that the money now outstanding is comparatively small.

All of the recent street work has been done under the revised specifications which it is thought are drawn in a legal manner, and would stand the most rigid test.

LIBRARY BONDS.

PROPOSITION TO VOTERS.

The library trustees have decided to ask the Council to submit a proposition to the voters of the city for a $350,000 bond issue for the purpose of acquiring a site and erecting a building suitable to the growing needs of the library. The library has long been overcrowded, and the great weight of the books is recognized as a menace to the safety of the building. A contract has just been let to strengthen the weakened floors of the City Hall.

The elevator service is entirely inadequate to handle the large number of visitors who are continually coming and going.

The library board seems determined to secure larger quarters, if possible, and will probably bring whatever influence it can to bear upon the Council in the hope that the City Fathers will recommend the proposition to bond the city for $350,000 for a new library building.

NEW THIRD STREET.

WILL BE REPAVED.

The ordinance authorizing property owners to improve Third street from Main street to Hill street, which is published today in The Times, is the result of personal enterprise on part of Street Superintendent E. R. Werdin.

For some time Third street has been in bad shape—probably no street in the business section was in a worse condition.

Werdin wrote several letters to the Traction company, calling attention to the deplorable condition of the street along its tracks, and asking the officials to see that the part of the street occupied by their tracks be repaired or repaved.

Receiving no reply, Werdin made a visit to the offices of the railway officials, and secured from them a promise to repave the street.

Then he went to the property owners along the street and persuaded them to agree to improve under private contract.

Thus it is that the city will get a newly-paved street without any expense. The improvement will make Third street one of the best cross-section business thoroughfares in the city.

City Hall Notes.

The Fire Commission yesterday adopted the report of the special committee, consisting of Owen McAleer, Frank Rademacher and H. H. Gorter, which was appointed to test the three new Nott fire engines recently received. The board voted to request the Council to pass demands for $14,750, the purchase price of the three engines. The demand passed the Council at the afternoon session.

The fire Chief reports that he is greatly troubled by petty thievery. Wednesday some miscreant stole a set of dies and taps from the Court and Hill-street engine houses and previously carpenter tools and other small articles have been taken. The Chief has reported the thefts to the police department.

The ordinance prohibiting minors from visiting gambling houses, public billiard or pool rooms, houses of ill-fame or retail liquor establishments, has been signed by the Mayor. It changes the age at which it is a misdemeanor to visit such places to 21 instead of 18 years, as in the former ordinance regulating the visiting of these establishments.

Today at 10:30 a.m. the City Tax Collector will formally sell to the city all property upon which the taxes for the year 1903-1904 have not been paid. The sales are considerably larger than a year ago.

Frank Le Moyne, through his attorneys, Camp & Lissner, has given notice to the city and to M. S. Cummings, contractor, that he is the owner of certain property situated on the westerly side of Yale street near Ord street, and will be damaged by grading of Yale street as provided for in the contract the city has with M. S. Cummings, to an extent of more than $1000. He says if the contract is carried out he will demand damages.

A communication was yesterday received by the City Clerk, from the Washington-street school child-study circle commending the Council and especially President Bowen for securing sanitary grounds and buildings and making the school property more attractive.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

THROWN INTO SNAKES' DEN.

DIVORCE APPLICANT TELLS A HARROWING TALE.

She Was a Repeater—in Marriages—and Couldn't Get Support from a Man Making $160 a Day, but is All Right Now With Music and Art.

"Why did I marry him?"

Mrs. Richie Gray uttered the query in a crescendo voice with a rasping note in it. Then in softer tone she continued: "I married him because—well, I loved the man."

And this was the only reason Mrs. Gray could give for marrying the same man twice. Her first venture was nine years ago, and, after about six years with William A. Gray, she had enough; they parted and cried quits. Then three years ago they again came together, and the story of the later parting was quite interesting.

Mrs. Gray is a woman of bulk, and appeared upon the witness stand in Judge Conrey's court yesterday with a high straw sombrero topping her head. She gave her evidence in stentorian voice, and the reason for that might or might not be inferred from what followed.

"All the time," said Mrs. Gray, "that I was married to William Gray you may say I was a wife in name only. He was a showman and made $160 a day—yes, $160 a day, and never less than $20.

Then the wife pining for her freedom gave her shoulders a shrug and said that she never got any of that $160 per diem.

"I've supported myself all these years," she said, "and I'm doing it now."

Attorney Heater tried to sidetrack his client to the matter in hand and asked if her husband had not been cruel to her. That set Mrs. Gray off at a canter again.

"Cruel? Yes, sir. The first time was at San Diego, when he struck me because I objected to his going sporting, and—"

"What did you mean by 'sporting?' Going with other women?"

"That's it," answered the witness shuffling around as the witness chair began to creak under the heavy weight. "Then the next time"—and here Mrs. Gray spread out her hands and spoke in a shivery voice—"he grabbed me and shoved me into a den of rattlesnakes," and, as she stated the awful fact everybody felt a chill strike down to their Trilbies.

"Yes, sir," resumed the applicant for divorce, "and if it hadn't been that the weather was cold and the snakes were sleeping they'd have bitten me, sure."

Mrs. Gray went on to tell how her William traveled around with his circus, and how at times there was a circus within a circus when he took it into his head to dally with her. He had never given her any money or contributed to her support, but she had made her own way.

"I am teaching music now," she said, "and I can teach embroidery and art work, and I'm supporting myself in that way."

Then Mrs. Gray made way for the corroborating witness who told how she had heard Mr. Gray say he would kill his wife, and how when she remonstrated with him he had accentuated his belief that killing her would be about the best thing to do. The witness and Mrs. Gray had gone out together as solicitors for a book-house or something of that kind, and that formed an interesting little narration. That experience was the prelude to the music and art work.

Altogether, Mrs. Gray's was a real hard luck story, and Judge Conrey granted her a decree and, over her protests that she couldn't ever collect a cent, granted her $25 a month alimony.

"BULL'S" CONVERSION.

OLD CHUMS RALLY.

Not for about two years has there been such an aggregation of talent seen in Judge Smith's department, as appeared yesterday. It was really the opening day of "Bull" White's second trial for a cold blooded and savage assault upon old Mrs. K. Dripps, and all the thugs, macs, and plug-uglies on his visiting list were there to see him through. They crowded the court-room, and slopped over into the corridor where they smoked cigarettes and spat out their venom against those engaged in prosecuting the case.

In strong contrast with this assemblage were the few ladies of the W.C.T.U., who occupied seats within the rail, and in close proximity to the sisters of the defendant. They were there presumably to give moral support to "Bull" in his hour of trial, for as "a brand plucked from the burning," he has been converted and two weeks ago asked for a Bible.

He got it, and Mrs. Boyd, to whom "Bill's" conversion is in part credited, was in court watching the progress of the case. Last time she was a favorable witness to the defendant and most probably she will again testify in this case.

Pressure was brought to bear upon Mrs. Dripps to refrain from further prosecution of the case, but, though she is a Christian woman and active in good works, she said all that she could do would be to tell the truth and allow the law to take its course. Society in general was involved as well as herself, she said, and she did not feel justified in making any active propaganda in behalf of the man accused of having almost murdered her.

But all the same there is rejoicing because "Bull" White has experienced religion, though the particular brand would puzzle even the ladies of the W.C.T.U., if they were far enough behind the scenes to know just how he acts and appears to feel. That he has been reading the Bible that Mrs. Boyd gave him, is said to be quite true, for some of his compound cuss-words have indicated that fact clearly enough. Against the officer who arrested him he bears an especial spite, and a few days ago he saw him pass through the jail. The Bible reading was suspended.

"You blankety, blankety, blank, blank, when I get out of here I'll dix you good and plenty," and the Bull's face was illumined with a smile of peaceful sanctimoniousness as he saw someone coming along that didn't belong to the jail.

Mrs. Dripps was upon the witness stand the better part of yesterday, and most of the time was under cross-examination. At the last trial an attempt was made to shake her testimony on the point of identification, and upon this trial the attempt was repeated. But the old lady was just as positive that White made the assault upon her as she was at the last trial, nor was she shaken in her testimony.

DIVORCES PLENTY.

QUARTETTE OF DESERTIONS.

Mrs. B. Allen was granted a decree by Judge Smith yesterday divorcing her from J. R. Allen, on the ground of desertion. The husband was shown to have packed his belongings and skipped without saying good-by or giving any reason for his action. The present suit has been pending for two years, and only now has been brought to an issue.

In Judge York's court Mrs. Jennie Stokes was granted a divorce from William Stokes, also on the ground of desertion. The parties are colored people. The wife stated that her husband told her that he didn't want to support her any longer. With that ultimatum the wife had to be content, for William left home three years ago, and has never come near his wife since.

In Judge Allen's department Leonardo Petro was granted a divorce from Margaret Petro, and Alice E. Broadwell was granted a divorce from William B. Broadwell, both on the ground of desertion.

Flora E. Sherman was granted a decree by Judge Conrey, divorcing her from John E. Sherman. The husband was one of the prominent business men of Leadville, Colo., but drink got the better of him, and from being an honorable and respected citizen, he sank almost to the gutter. The custody of the fourteen-year-old girl was given to the wife.

PLAYED HER HUSBAND.

THEN MRS. IDLOR SKIPPED.

W. A. Idlor was before Judge Conrey yesterday seeking a release from his matrimonial entanglement. He is an inside wireman with the Home Telephone Company, but, at the time that his wife and he were living together, he was a good deal away from town.

One day Idlor returned to the city and discovered that his wife had left him and gone to San Francisco. After a lively time about the bay she wrote to her husband saying that she was ready to return. He sent her money to get back on, and then she changed her mind. She wanted just one more spin in San Francisco, and she had it. Five times the husband was long-suffering and sent her money. Some people would call his long suffering by another name.

Then one day Idlor suddenly met his wife right here in Los Angeles. She was so glad to see him, and so glad, too, that he was so forgiving and kind, and was willing to let by-gones by by-gones. Husband and wife made up and it was arranged that they should go at once to housekeeping, and, with that end in view, the husband handed money to his spouse to make all the necessary preparations. He hasn't seen her since. He has a suspicion that she is again having a giddy whirl in San Francisco, and isn't aching for her to come back again any more.

The decree was granted.

KEATING ESTATE.

HOMESTEAD APPORTIONED.

The estate of the late Andrew J. W. Keating, who with his two sons, Arthur, Harry and Julius Agustus, lost his life in the wreck of the "Islander" off Douglas Island on August 15, 1901, was before Judge Wilbur yesterday.

The home place known as "Bonita Meadows," lying to the west of the city was set aside as a homestead for the widow, and Attorney George H. Hutton, was appointed as guardian of the three minor children, with a $10,000 bond for each child. This was done by consent of all the members of the family.

The late Mr. Keating was a resident of Koksilah, B. C., at the time of his death, and there his family was established with the exception of a son by the first marriage, who is settled in Chile, and another son in Los Angeles. But Mr. Keating had very heavy interests here, and passed much of his time in this city with his family. The will was first probated in British Columbia, and under its terms the deceased, in consideration of large advances made to his son, William, in Chile, left to him only such real property as he owned in the southern republic. Of the estate in this country the widow gets one-third and the remaining two-thirds are to be divided share and share alike between Alfred V. Henry, Edward, Helena and Elvira, children by Mrs. Isabel Keating.

The personal property here was appraised at $21,122.79, the real property in this county at $134,926; and in Orange county at $7000, making a total of $185,048.79. Then there are extensive properties in British Columbia, and even the figures given above do not indicate the actual value of the local holdings. It is stated that the estate in its entirety will be worth easily $500,000, and probably more than that. Much of it, however, is property the value of which cannot be easily measured. The deceased was a prominent mining man and had many ventures on hand. He owned, too, large holdings of land stretching away from Santa Monica and bordering right down to the ocean.

The estate was left in trust to the wife, and two sons until the youngest son, Edward, now about 14 years of age, should attain his majority.

FLYNN LOSES.

REMANDED TO SHERIFF.

P. J. Flynn has made nothing by his habeas-corpus proceeding, and as foretold by The Times, he was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff by Judge Smith yesterday.

Flynn was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and serve twenty-five days in the County Jail for having violated the law by having sold liquor within the prohibited distance from the Soldiers' Home. Then Attorney Hupp raised the point that the plea of guilty had been entered by his attorney and not by the defendant himself, but Justice Young ignored that point, whereupon the habeas-corpus writ was procured.

But even now Flynn is not content, and is going to appeal his case to the Superior Court. His bond was set by the Justice's Court at $500. This amount was reduced by Judge Smith to $250, and for a short time the defendant will remain at liberty. He hates to have to serve a term in jail, and if the fine had been multiplied several times, it would not have mattered, but to avoid the jail sentence he is putting off the evil day as long as he can.

B. E. VICKERY SKIPPED.

Kate E. Vickery was deserted by her husband, and she doesn't know why. They lived together happily, they loved each other, but suddenly he dropped out of her life, and that's all there was to it.

So the story ran as told yesterday in Judge Wilbur's court, when the wife was applying for divorce. But the faintest showing of something behind indicated that there was a reason for Vickery disappearing. The parties were married in 1893, and in August, 1899, B. E. Vickery left Los Angeles without saying good-by to his wife or child, or even venturing to make an excuse for leaving home. He wrote several letters to his wife, but she said they were of a commonplace kind, and in them he neither said he intended to return or she received was in 1901, since then—silence.

One witness told how he had been up in the mountains of Washington, and returning to civilization in Seattle he stepped into a cigar store to buy a cigar and met Vickery standing behind the counter. How were the mighty falling! In this city Vickery had been practicing law, and had been occupying a good position socially. Inasmuch as the witness and Vickery had had business dealings together in this city, there was an interchange of ideas right there. Vickery said that he would be glad to get back to the old city—meaning Los Angeles—but said that he guessed that he couldn't get back.

"He appeared to speak in a rather sorrowful way," said the witness, yesterday, "and he spoke briefly of not being able to ever return here. I may say, however, that the reasons had nothing whatever to do with Mrs. Vickery or his married life. He also told me not to mention the fact that I had seen him."

The nine-year-old girl is with the mother here. The facts as set forth were corroborated by other testimony.

Judge Wilbur said that he would grant the decree when proof of service had been made.

Looloos Win in the Ninth. On the Race Track.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW LONDON, (Ct.) June 30.—The thousands who journeyed to the Thames today for the annual Yale-Harvard boat races, saw one of the best freshmen races that has ever been rowed on any course, and then for eight hours the crowd sat in the rain and waited in vain for the 'varsity four-oared race, and the big 'varsity eight-oared race. Finally, early in the evening, both the 'varsity and the four-oared races were put over until tomorrow. The eight-oared race will be rowed up stream at 10:30 o'clock a.m., after which the fours will be sent away.

Yale won the freshman race by half a second, or a quarter of a boat's length. For two miles of this race the two shells zig-zagged, and neither crew ever had a lead of more than a length. It was one of the most remarkable boat races in the history of intercollegiate racing.

After the freshman eights reached the starting flag, and that was long after the time set, Harvard dragged her stakeboat and for a quarter of an hour the referee labored with the shells to get them lined up. The day was very trying for the crews. Finally, at the sound of the pistol, both eights dashed away in splendid style. Yale showed in better form than Harvard at the start, and for the first eighth of a mile had a trifle the better of it. Then Harvard settled down, and reached the half-mile flag a third of a length in the lead. Harvard finished the mile in 5:09; Yale, 5:10.

Over the mile, the struggle was superb. Each crew raised the stroke one point. At the mile-and-a-half flag the two boats were exactly even. Just as the last half-mile flag was passed, Yale began the spurt that won the race. She jumped her stroke up to 36, and began to pull ahead inch by inch. Harvard did not make her effort until an eighth of a mile from the finish. Then her stroke went to 38, but it was too late. Yale was leading by the length of her canvas bow as the flags dipped at the finish.

The two flags went down almost simultaneously, and it was several minutes before the crews knew who had won. Finally the referee shouted out the name of the winner, and the Yale youngsters sat up in their shell and gave a Yale cheer with "Harvard" on the end of it. Yale had won by just half a second. The time was: Yale, 10:20; Harvard, 10:20½.

The crews had a fair wind, but practicaly no tide, and considering this fact the time was very fast.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW LONDON, June 30.—For the twenty-sixth time since 1875, the oarsmen of Harvard and Yale universities are contesting today on the Thames River course in the annual regatta. During all these years, the crews of the two institutions have met regularly on this course, except in 1896 and 1897. In 1896 the famous athletic imbroglio kept the colleges apart in all branches of sports. In 1897 the two crews met at Poughkeepsie in a triangular race, with Cornell, and both went down to defeat. In 1898 the old rivals again met on the Thames with the Ithacans again a contestant, and again the two New England colleges went down to defeat before Courtney's men. In the twenty-five races rowed between Harvard and Yale on this course, victory has gone to Yale in seventeen contests, and the Yale crew of 1885 holds the course record of 20m. 10s.

Accordingly, today's battle found Harvard men determined to break down Yale's long line of successes, and the New Haven collegians stubborn in a purpose to prevent this. The night was one of some wildness in the way of undergraduate enthusiasm, but, all told, it proved to be somewhat more quiet than in certain former years. The great crowds which arrived in New London yesterday and last night were augmented upon the arrival of the earliest morning trains, to be still further increased when excursion trains from Boston and New Haven and other points arrived.

Daybreak brought with it weather conditions of a character disheartening to those unfamiliar with the antics of New London weather. All night long there hung over the river a dense fog, and at 7 o'clock it had not lifted appreciably. To render the enthusiastics more apprehensive, 7 o'clock brought with it a generous downpour of rain. Half an hour later, however, the fog lifted, the rain ceased and the sun began to give signs of life.

At that hour it looked as if the day would prove clear and hot. At the mouth of the harbor the wind was out of the southeast. Eight miles up the river, off the quarters of the crews, there was a little westing in the southerly breeze, and things looked auspicious. The water was beautifully smooth, and there seemed to be every prospect of fine racing conditions. Long before 8 o'clock there was a procession of yachts up the harbor to the finish line. The hotels were thronged with early risers. There was almost no betting. The odds on the big race remained at 2 to 1, with Yale the favorite. William Teikelham of New York is the referee.

The contesting oarsmen were astir early, and although the Harvard-Yale 'varsity rowing races during the last four years have ended in victory for Yale, the two old-time athletic rivals prepared for today's three events with the same confidence and determination that has characterized their attitude ever since college racing was inaugurated. Neither of the 'varsity crews was overconfident this morning, but the sentiment at the Yale quarters certainly had more of expectancy of success than that at Harvard.

In the freshman race, the first event scheduled, which was to be rowed from the New London drawbridge to the navy yard, Harvard selected the east course having won the toss. A downpour of rain struck Gale's Ferry in the vicinity of the Harvard and Yale quarters about 10:35, driving everybody under shelter. Although the breeze had freshened somewhat, the river did not grow appreciably rougher.

At 11:08 o'clock both freshman eights were under the bridge below the starting line, ready for the two-mile race. The water was perfectly calm, with scarcely a breath of wind. The race was started at 11:30 o'clock, and both crews took the water at the same time, making a remarkably pretty start. They pulled the same stroke for the first eighth of a mile, when Harvard seemed to gain a slight advantage.

At the quarter-mile both crews apparently slowed their stroke a trifle, but their blade work was beautiful. At the half mile, the crews were on even terms. The boats passed the mile mark on even terms. Approaching the mile-and-a-half mark, Yale seemed to have a slight lead. Yale was pulling 34 strokes to the minute, Harvard 36, with Harvard's crew splashing. The crews pased the mile-and-a-half mark in 7m. 55s., Yale leading by a length.

Official time freshman race: Yale, 10m. 20m.; Harvard, 10m. 20⅘s.

OTHER RACES POSTPONED.

At 11:50 o'clock both four-oared crews were at the starting point for their race of two miles. The wind was blowing eight or ten miles an hour, straight up stream, and rain was falling heavily.

At 7:30 o'clock p.m., after a long wait, the referee announced that the Harvard-Yale 'varsity eight and four-oared race had been postponed until tomorrow morning.

The steward at Yale's quarters has ordered another day's supplies, and all arrangements have been made for the crews to spend another night on the river. At 3:45 a.m. the weather conditions had not improved.

WALTHOUR BREAKS BONES.

THROWN AGAINST A RAILING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ATLANTA (Ga.) June 30.—In the three-cornered, twenty-mile, motor-paced race between Bobby Walthour of Atlanta, Benny Munro of Memphis and De Guichard of Paris at the Stadium here tonight, Walthour was "pocketed" by the other two riders in the fourth mile, and while going at a terrific speed was thrown against the railing. His body struck two supporting posts with such force that they were snapped in the center, and the champion was left hanging insensible on the railing, his feet dangling over the track.

Walthour was carried to his home in an unconscious condition. Two ribs, one arm and the collarbone are broken. It is thought he is internally injured. His pacemaker, Gussie Lawson, also fell, but was not injured.

BIG LIST OF TENNIS CRACKS.

OCEAN PARK TOURNEY WILL BE A NOTABLE ONE.

With Few Exceptions All Best Players in Southern California to Play — Notable Absentees Are May Sutton and Freeman—Juniors to Start the Ball.

The third annual tennis tournament to be given Saturday and Monday at Ocean Park under the auspices of the Country Club of that town, will be the most successful of any ever held on those courts, for the entry list is the biggest ever received for any tournament there.

The entry list closed yesterday, and A. C. Way of this city, who has been one of those to receive entries, is highly pleased at the prospect for a successful tournament, and states that almost as many players have entered as ever did in any Santa Monica tournament. It can be stated that all of the events are more than full, and an exciting time is promised the contestants. In one way Ocean Park will make a better showing than Santa Monica, for the class of players is better than has ever been seen before, and that good tennis will result is a foregone conclusion.

The list of entries as given out by Mr. Way yesterday is as follows:

Open singles—S. B. Cooke, Dr. Wallace, R. C. Noble, Claude Wayne, S. M. Sinsabaugh, Eugene Overton, J. S. Cravens, A. C. Way, Rex Barnwell, Harlan Frink, E. M. Taylor, Harry Rising, Tom Bundy, Gavin Craig, A. E. Bell, Harold Braly, P. H. Davenport, T. W. Hendricks, H. F. Elliott, Hal Gorham, John Donnell, S. B. Moe, J. Newkirk and H. F. Fuller.

Open doubles—Overton and Cravens, Sinsabaugh and Way, Barnwell and Frink, Bundy and Rising, Brown and Ainsworth, Davenport and partner, Huse and Craig, Barry and Babcock, Hendrick and Donnell, Gorham and Rowan, Bell and Braly, Taylor and Newkirk, Cook and Elliott, Harris and Golusha, Fuller and McGillivray, Nebeker and Townsend and Wallace and partner.

Mixed doubles—Sinsabaugh and Violet Sutton, Frink and Miss Early, Barnwell and partner, Donnell and F. Sutton, Way and Mrs. Hendricks, Bundy and Miss Peralta, Gorham and Georgiana Jones, Young and Alice Ryan, Noble and partner and Mrs. Bruce (nee Sutton) and partner.

Junior singles—Rex Barnwell, Harlow Frink, Arthur Ainsworth, Tim Brown, Claude Huse, A. Cawston, Thomas Henry, George Townsend, Charles Nebeker, Gerald Young, Paul Radir and W. Barkley.

Ladies' doubles—Violet Sutton, Florence Sutton, Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. Hendricks, Miss Ray, Miss A. Ryan, Miss Peralta, Miss E. Ryan and Georgiana Jones.

Play will start off tomorrow morning with the junior singles.

POLO.

At a meeting of the Southern California Polo Association held yesterday at Santa Monica it was decided to have a polo match in that city on Monday between the Santa Monica and the Los Angeles teams, as announced in The Times recently. This announcement is made because a postponement of the match was talked of some days ago.

In addition to the polo there will be a programme of races on the flat for polo ponies and running horses, the original programme being changed yesterday, so as to include another open race for horses and one for "Santa Monica" horses. This will be for horses owned in Santa Monica, Ballona, The Palms, Ocean Park, Playa del Rey and Santa Monica Cañon. The race track is being fenced and improved in various ways, and will be in fine shape for the events on Monday.

BILLIARDS.

THREE-CUSHION TOURNEY.

The three-cushion billiard tournament will be resumed again at Morley's rooms on South Main street this evening, when Milsap and Sallada will play a thirty-five-point match to decide the ownership of first money. If Sallada wins he will be tied with Milsap for first money, but if the latter wins the prize will be his. Play will begin at 8:30 o'clock, and admission will be free, all lovers of the three-ball game being invited.

Merrill and Miller are tied for third money, and Amson, Chappelle and Appel for fifth and sixth moneys, and it is expected they will play off the deciding games next week.

KNOCKED OUT BY CUPID.

MUNROE MEETS HIS MATCH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Chronicle says that Jack Munroe, the Butte miner, who is to fight Jeffries for the heavyweight championship of the world in August, has been knocked out by Cupid. The big boxer is to become a benedict as soon as the coming fight is over. The young woman to whose charms he has succumbed is Miss Jessie Downing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Downing of Watsonville. Downing formerly conducted Camp Goodall, and it was while Munroe was training at the camp for the contest with Hank Griffin, a few years ago, that the engagement was made.

The wedding was to have occurred after the miner got through with Sharkey, but it was thought better to wait until the affair with Jeffries was settled, when Munroe expects to be better fixed financially.

CRUISE FOR CLUB YACHTS.

South Coast Boats to Sail to Catalina.

Pleasure Trip is to Close With Fireworks.

Mischief Wire Cutter Still Undetected.

BY STINSON JARVIS.

The fleets of the South Coast Yacht Club will hie away to the island of Catalina early tomorrow morning, and the members will engage in a pyrotechnic display, which is to be enjoyed by the dwellers on the coasts of Avalon. The cruise will be started in squadron formation, but it will not be compulsory to sail all the way in the rear of the flagship. The send-off will be signaled "at eight bells in the forenoon watch." Commodore Jenkins produced printed authority to prove that this was the correct nautical expression, which is otherwise known as 12 o'clock, noon.

There will be a large gathering of yachts at the starting point on the Pacific side moorings off the clubhouse. The new yawl, Minerva, owned by Joseph Fellows, will be in the ruck, and is expected to create some new opinions by her speed. This new craft has been showing a fine gait in the strong breezes in recent sailing, and from the way she lost the Edna the other day it is pretty certain that the alleged cruiser will soon be showing some of the alleged racers how to get to Catalina in steamboat time.

Among those which will start will be found the flagship, the schooner Nautilus, which will be sailed by one of her owners, Dr. W. A. Smith. The other owner, Commodore J. J. Jenkins, will not be on board, as he will cross on the same morning with Mrs. Jenkins on the steamer Hermosa.

In view of the difficulties sometimes experienced by the cruising yachts in getting into the harbor of Avalon, owing to the calms that are prevalent on the leeward side of the island, Commodore Jenkins will arrange to have launches sent out from Avalon to pick up those craft which get winded in the shades of the great mountains. In this case it will, therefore, not be necessary to make the long detour to the southern end of the island in order to catch the light airs which usually bring in the yachts from that locality.

William Bayley's auxiliary ketch, Evian, will join the fleets at Catalina, she having already left for that rendezvous with a party of guests. The victor of last Sunday, the spry Venus, will be sailed by her owner, Herbert Pease, and the staunch cruiser Edna will be sailed by George Rice and Fritz Whitney, assisted by some friends. A. Lester Best will go on the Marie, with the owner of this swift craft, C. H. Wedgewood.

The Mischief will not be ready to start before Sunday, owing to the damage sustained at the beginning of the race last Sunday. One of the owners tells me that the racer will probably arrive at Catalina on Sunday afternoon, and the work of repair is being hurried at the yards of Fellows & Pugh.

Carlisle Thorpe will have some friends with him on the Katrina, and the sloop Myth, owned by Clement Hebler, will be sailed across by Joseph Pugh. Edward C. Hyans, whose work on the Regatta Committee proved so satisfactory last Sunday, will sail the schooner Happy, and Rear-Commodore Eugene Overton will sail the sloop Portola. The schooners Lurline, Ramona and Sweetheart, being now on private cruise, will not be in the procession, but the Seabird, H. A. Berrens, will certainly be on the wing.

Other yachts expected to leave are the sloop Zarapico, C. B. Nordhoff; the sloop El Pescador, C. J. Keyes and Leo Longley; the sloop Shark, E. O. Wilkinson; the sloop Zephyr, owned by J. H. Ashbridge; the sloop Esperanza, owned by H. W. Whitmarsh and E. V. Griffes; W. S. More's sloop, the Frolic, and the Eagle, owned by S. Bartholomew and John McCollum.

The new high-speed power yacht Presto, owned by Mrs. E. L. Doran, will join the other yachts of the club at Catalina.

Several of the members will engage in the water sports to be held at Avalon, and the cruise is to extend from Saturday morning to the evening of Monday, the Fourth.

MISCHIEF CASE SETTLED.

There has been much talk in the club about the malicious damage that was done to the Mischief prior to her race last Sunday. One of the owners has shown me a drawing of the break in the bobstay which parted as soon as the yacht got under sailing pressure. He stated that the cut made in this wire rope was inside the serving of splice at the lower end of the bobstay. It is explained that the distardly act was accomplished with peculiar cunning, as the work of the cutters was underneath the marlin, and thus could not be seen. This method also prevented the cut ends of the wire rope from fraying out, as would be expected. The wire rope, although very small for the strains it was intended to bear, is of Tobin bronze and guaranteed to withstand greater strain than it experienced on the Mischief. The owners discovered that while the outside wires of the stay had been severed, the inside strands remained untouched. The latter broke irregularly when the strains came prior to the race, while the wires that had been severed by the hand cutters were all of the same length, thus proving beyond any doubt that the boat had been tampered with. Another fact which proved this was that the wires which were severed all showed the pinch of the cutters at their ends, while the internal part of the rope, which was intended to hold the bowsprit in place till the yacht began to pitch, showed the irregular breaking of undue strain.

The matter was also discussed with Herbert Pease, the owner of the victorious Venus. He said: "The only explanation that club members think of is that some one had been betting heavily against the Mischief, and settled beforehand that either my boat or the Marie should win. But perhaps the true explanation may be looked for in the jealousy of local rivals. Joe Fellows built the Mischief for first-class honors and necessarily and naturally a large amount of advertising came to his yards by reason of this which did not come to others."

This seems to be the most probable solution, namely that a concealed attempt was made to show that Fellows put bad work into his yachts.

Following the suggestion made by this writer some time ago, the owners of the Mischief will not put bowsprit shrouds on the horn. This will make the work of those who attend light sails forward, easier, and will also give the bowsprit greater support for lateral strains. One of the owners says that his boat ought to be measured over again, as he was told to leave everything in the boat when she was measured for her present racing, while the Venus and others were stripped to the bull. This certainly would make considerable difference, as the Mischief carried a good deal of internal weight in the way of cushions and other accessories of comfort.

FOR AUTO OWNERS.

THINGS TO REMEMBER.

In answer to an inquiry it is stated that the best way to go to Santa Barbara from this city by automobile is to go to Hollywood by way of the new boulevard. On leaving there turn north at the hotel and go through the Cahuenga Pass, and follow the main traveled road bearing to the left, to the Encino ranch. From there follow the main road bearing to the left, which will lead to Calabasas. Continue on in the same general direction through Canejo Pass to Camarillo and thence to Newberry Park, Montalvo and Ventura. It is easy from there on north to Santa Barbara over the Big and Little Casitas grades. The distance is supposed to be about 105 miles, but it is all of these, and some will think a few more.

POMONA ROAD.

Auto drivers going from Los Angeles to Pomona, Riverside or Redlands, should follow the lower road through Puente and then keep along the Southern Pacific railroad track into Pomona. The northern or upper road via Pasadena should be avoided for some time on account of the long stretch of freshly-oiled road leading into Pomona. This is given on the authority of an auto driver who has just been over that northern road.

NEW AUTO RECORD.

Lally and Party Go to Santa Barbara in Five Hours Twenty-one Minutes.

A message from Santa Barbara last night stated that a new record for an automobile touring car between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara was established by the arrival there of H. G. Lally.

Mr. Lally is an automobile enthusiast of San Francisco, who has been touring the southern end of the State, and has been a guest at the Van Nuys for several days. Shortly after noon yesterday he left the hotel in his Winton touring car, accompanied by his sister, Miss Lacy of Santa Barbara, and a chauffeur, with the avowed intention of making a record run to the mission town, 110 miles up the coast. The telephone message reporting his arrival said that he registered at the Potter Hotel, Santa Barbara, five hours and twenty-one minutes after his departure from the Van Nuys, lowering all records for a similar vehicle and load, it is said, for this run.

BROOKS IS HELD FOR REMOVAL.

HOTEL PROPRIETOR MAY APPEAL TO HIGHEST COURT.

District Judge Issues Order for Transfer to St. Louis, but Writ of Habeas Corpus is Obtained, Returnable Next Thursday—Thinks He's Persecuted.

C. H. Brooks, proprietor of the Van Nuys Broadway, formerly of St. Louis, was held for removal to that city yesterday by United States Commissioner Van Dyke. In an indictment found in St. Louis, Brooks is charged with having been prominently connected with the National Securities Company, an alleged get-rich-quick concern, that operated on a large scale. Brooks claims he can prove that he was not connected with the concern at the time in question.

Following the decision of the commissioner, Brooks was remanded to the custody of the marshal, and was nominally in charge of Deputy Traeger until a late hour in the afternoon.

When Dist.-Atty. Valentine went before District Judge Wellborn, as the result of the hearing, to obtain an order of removal of the hotel man to St. Louis, Frank P. Flint, the latter's attorney, argued against its issuance, but the order was made by the court. Attorney Flint then made haste to get out a writ of habeas corpus and get it before Circuit Judge Ross for signature. The writ was made returnable July 7. Then it will be decided whether Brooks goes back to St. Louis or not. It is probable that if the proceedings before Judge Ross result unfavorably for him, he will appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, which will be his privilege.

Meantime Proprietor Brooks, who says he has been placed in a most unfortunate position by enemies in the East who miss no chance to harass and persecute him, is under $5000 bond, furnished by H. W. Hellman and Cashier Holliday of the Merchants' National Bank.

PORT ITEMS.

ALONG THE WATER FRONT.

WEATHER: Clear at 5 p.m.; wind velocity 17 miles.

The steamer Bee has arrived at Redondo from Eureka. She will discharge a portion of her cargo to this port.

The steamer Lakme cleared yesterday for Eureka with a full cargo of lumber consigned to wholesalers at this port.

The schooner Oliver J. Olsen finished loading at Port Madison and sailed yesterday with 500,000 feet of lumber consigned to the San Pedro Lumber Company.

The little schooner Coquille finished discharging her lumber cargo and sailed in ballast for Prosper, Or., where she will reload.

The schooner Forrester has arrived at Everett from Kobe, Japan. The schooner was only thirty-one days before sighting Cape Flattery. She is loading with lumber and will go for San Pedro.

The British bark Hawthornbank, which recently discharged a cargo of steel rails at this port, has arrived at Vancouver, B.C.

The long-overdue schooner Maid of Orleans, out 45 days from San Pedro, for Seattle, has been reported off Cape Flattery.

The Dollar Steamship Company's steamer Harold Dollar, which is being built at Eureka, will be completed in about three days. She will be the same size as the Robert Dollar and will be coal burners. Robert Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Company, has let the contract for building a new 1000-ton vessel to a shipbuilding concern on the Clyde in England. The new steamer, when completed, will carry lumber from Puget Sound to Asia, and her return trip will be to San Francisco with oriental merchandise. She will be the largest vessel of the Dollar fleet.

The tug Sea Rover has sailed from San Francisco for Redondo to take the oil-burning steamer George Loomis to San Francisco. The George Loomis had a mishap to her machinery and will have to be repaired.

Capt. John Olsen has succeeded K. Frickson as master of the steamer Whitesboro. A. P. Anderson has been enrolled as master of the schooner Challenge.

The schooner Mildred finished discharging her lumber cargo and sailed today in ballast for Port Townsend for orders.

The schooner Jennie Stella finished discharging her lumber cargo and sailed in ballast for San Diego, where she will go on the dock for cleaning and repairs.

The steamer San Pedro finished discharging her lumber cargo and cleared for San Francisco with freight and passengers.

The schooner Mabel Gale arrived today from Ballard with 700,000 feet of lumber consigned to the Inman-Poulsen Lumber Company. The 140,000 feet for the California Construction Company.

The steamer Iaqua arrived this afternoon from Eureka with a cargo of lumber consigned to the L. W. Blinn and Southern California Lumber companies.

She steamer Samoa, Capt. Madsen, finished discharging her lumber cargo and cleared for San Francisco with freight and passengers. Thence to Caspar to reload.

The tug Dauntless has been ordered to San Francisco to tow the disabled bark Hollywood to that port.

The French ship Asia, Capt. Frailiard, with 150 days from Antwerp, for this port, arrived May 31 at Hobart Town, Tasmania. It will take the Asia sixty or seventy days to reach this port, giving her an unusually long passage. It is thought that with good luck the German bark Bertha, Capt. Oister, which sailed out ninety-five days from Antwerp, will be the first to reach port.

At Newton, Kan., Judge Will yesterday refused to continue the straining order issued six weeks ago against the striking Santa Fe machinists.

BUSINESS.

Sentiment in the Chicago wheat pit was bearish. There were enough buying orders to occasion a good rally, and September closed at 81¼@81⅜. The general surface of the New York stock market, dispatches say, was hard and unyielding, and gave the impression of an undertone of confidence, even though attempts to put up prices proved futile.

BOODLING IN ST. LOUIS.

The recent confessions of Charles Gutke, former member of the House of Delegates of St. Louis, reveal even more astounding depths of infamy among the councilmanic boodlers of that city than had been suspected. The crookedness which was brought to light before Gutke's confessions was supposed to have about touched the limit. But he has added a new chapter, which shows the operations of the grafters to have been more extensive and to have extended over a longer period of time, without exposure, than had seemed possible. Gutke has been convicted on a charge of receiving a bribe, and is awaiting trial on another similar charge, with the probability of a second conviction. He professes to be penitent, and has expressed a determination to do all he can to atone for his sins against the public. Just how far he is actuated by genuine contrition may be a debatable question. But at all events he has taken the course most likely to secure some measure of clemency if the revelations which he makes are found, upon investigation, to be true, and to have been made in good faith.

"The people of St. Louis even now," says Gutke, "do not realize how they have been persistently plundered for years and years by the men they elected to make laws for the city." His statement is evidently true, for no public realization of the iniquity can hardly precede the complete exposure of its extent. But the indications are that the public will yet be made acquainted with the more important details of the boodling operations that have been carried on, for Circuit Attorney Folk seems to be determined to go to the bottom of the conspiracy, if such a thing be possible. Gutke says that immediately after he entered the House of Delegates as a member, in 1897, he became a member of the "combine," which was an organization of nineteen members of the body, for the purpose of selling legislation. On the first bill that came up after he became a member of the combine, the latter received $30,000 in bribe money. On other measures, which he specifies, the combine received amounts ranging from $10,000 to $75,000, and aggregating something over a quarter of a million. Besides these larger bribes which this self-confessed boodler specifies, he says there were innumerable others, ranging from $10,000 to a few hundred dollars for some minor privileges. "The latter prices," he declares, "were fixed at meetings of the combine, the procedure being for some member to get up and move that a certain price be fixed on a certain bill. Other members would give their opinions, a vote would be taken, and the price receiving the highest number of votes would be adopted. Then we would select an agent of the combine by ballot to negotiate for and receive the money. This agent would distribute the money among us."

In the supplemented this description of the cold-blooded business methods of the combine with the statement that "there is hardly a corporation in the city of St. Louis of $100,000 or over that has not been held for bribe money in the House of Delegates," and that these corrupt practices have been going on for the last quarter of a century. He mentioned the name of a prominent local politician who, he said, "had been at the head of nearly all the combines in the House of Delegates during the past twenty-five years," and he volunteered the information that the boodle gang had laid plans to capture the office of Circuit Attorney at the next election.

Such disclosures of official corruption almost shake one's faith in democratic institutions. They would do so quite, no doubt, but for the reflection that corruption is possible under all forms of government, and that the people have practically no means of self-protection excepting those which are afforded them under the forms of popular government. Where the people govern themselves they hold within their hands the means of self-protection if they choose to use them. When the people become indifferent and allow political ringsters to manipulate caucuses, conventions and elections, they must expect to be betrayed.

Municipal misgovernment is one of the most serious of the many grave problems which confront the people. So many instances of "grafting" have come to light within the past few years that thoughtful men, who have the public welfare at heart, may well feel alarm. Philadelphia, Minneapolis, St. Louis and other cities have furnished object lessons which may not safely be ignored. These examples of corruption demonstrate the need for municipal leagues and other civic organizations to exercise a restraining and directing influence upon the course of municipal government. They also point the citizen to some plain duties which he has been too ready to neglect.

"Put none but honest men on guard," is a maxim which must be heeded in the conduct of municipal affairs before we can expect to achieve clean and efficient municipal government. The pot-house politician must be relegated to the rear. Men of affairs, men of honesty, men of character, must take more interest and exert more influence in municipal government if the boodler is to be prevented from boodling and the grafter from grafting.

NO CESSATION OF VIOLENCE.

With the horror of the Independence, Colo., assassination still fresh in the public mind—a wholesale murder which by common consent is placed at the door of the Western Federation of Miners—it seemed that unionism the country over would cease its murderous assaults at least until the grass began to grow on the graves of the men whom unionism killed in Colorado.

But with characteristic disregard of decency, law and human life, unionist thugs in Chicago recently attempted to murder Attorney Alexander C. Allen, who has been prominent in the prosecution of cases in court against Chicago unionism, and particularly in actions against the infamous Franklin Union, which is so notoriously lawless. While Attorney Allen's back was turned the assassins struck him a terrible blow on the head with an iron bar, as he was leaving his office. He is believed to have been the victim of murderers hired by labor unions.

If has been generally supposed, also, that unionism everywhere would become more conservative and cautious, at least until the public had, in a measure, forgotten the recent Colorado murders. It was believed that, for its own sake and in the interests of its own cause, if for no other reason, unionism throughout the country would refrain from publicly and unqualifiedly indorsing the acts of the Western Federation of Miners. But in this, also, public opinion has erred. The American Federation of Labor has openly put the stamp of its approval upon the actions of the Western Federation of Miners in its murderous campaign in Colorado, by voting to give that organization both moral and financial support, and to that end has issued an appeal for financial assistance to organized labor throughout America. This is in line with the action of various other unions, and is of much significance.

It demonstrates that unionism proposes to "stand together," notwithstanding the Colorado assassinations and its own responsibility for them. It clearly and unmistakably shows that unionism does not intend to change its infamous practices, does not intend to allow the conservative element to control its affairs, and does not intend to establish itself upon a law-and-order basis and take its case before the American people on that basis. In other words, there is to be no reconstruction of "organized labor," no reorganization upon sane and lawful lines. The well-known practices involving lawlessness, violence and disregard of established rights, are to be continued as opportunity offers and occasion demands.

This means that thousands of law-abiding "organized" workingmen will forsake unionism as now constituted. It also means that employers and law-abiding citizens generally must band themselves together for mutual protection and to uphold the hands of civil and military officers and courts in their efforts to keep inviolate the laws of the land. It also means that the vital issue cannot be avoided, and that the great body of the American people, upon whom the country relies for maintenance of law and order and the support of the constitution and established government, must unite to stamp out forever, and wherever it may be found, the germ of present-day unionism. The example set by Colorado must be followed everywhere. Let us hope Colorado's drastic measures will not be necessary to accomplish the end sought; but whatever means may be necessary, it is obvious, from the attitude of the agitators and "leaders" of unionism, that they propose to bring the issue squarely before the nation and either rule or be ruined.

Colorado has shown what an aroused public sentiment can and will accomplish. In time, unless there is a radical change in unionism's present attitude, the nation will furnish another example of the same kind. If unionism will not reconstruct itself, will not call a halt and reorganize upon right lines and if it persists in its lawlessness, then the people of the country at large must and will take matters into their own hands. There can be but one result: Unionism in its lawless form will be crushed, and upon its corpse there may, perhaps, arise a new "organized labor," which will be founded upon the solid rock of sound principle, reason and justice, and not upon the shifting sands of lawlessness, industrial despotism and disregard of inalienable individual rights.

A romantic Iowa young man insisted upon marrying the girl he thought he loved, in spite of the fact that she had murdered a man, and the wedding ceremony had to be performed in the shadow of prison gates. The girl was finally pardoned, and now the precipitous young man has secured a divorce because his criminal wife skipped out, taking everything she could lay hands on, including her husband's property. The young man will receive little sympathy. It has always been and always will be a difficult matter for the leopard to make any radical change in his spots.

It appears to be a case of "out of the frying pan into the fire" with President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners. The charge against him of complicity in the Vindicator mine explosion has been withdrawn and another charge, of conspiracy in the horrible Victor rioting and assassination of June 6, has been filed against him. There are still two other charges against the man, one of aiding and abetting insurrection and the other of desecrating the nation's flag.

Col. Bryan is pictured in the dispatches as walking thoughtfully over his Nebraska farm, preparing his St. Louis speech, which will be, it is claimed, the greatest effort of his life. Wonder if the colonel would take kindly to a suggestion that he merely print the speech in the Commoner? That would give the delegates, and the country at large, the option.

The Postoffice Department has declared war on fraudulent matrimonial agencies, which have been operating through the mails. Uncle Sam proposes to make Cupid be fair, or as near fair as it is possible for Cupid to be. He has always been, and probably always will be, more or less of a faker.

If prospective Democratic candidates, who are just now worrying for fear they will not be nominated at St. Louis, will carefully consider the Chicago platform and the candidates recently nominated in that city, they may conclude that private life is more desirable, after all.

If Mr. Bryan will hold his ear close to the ground for a few moments, and cease talking temporarily, he may be able to detect the rumbling of that stampede which Senator Gorman has magnanimously started for his old-time friend, Mr. Cleveland.

It becomes our pleasant duty to again record the Los Angeles monthly building permits, which for June numbered 665, of a total value of $1,075,540. If there's "anything the matter with" Los Angeles, it is not visible to the naked eye.

Unc' 'Lige Dowie has reached Chicago and is safe behind the gates of Zion City. Now if some public benefactor will kindly lock the gate and throw the key into Lake Michigan, he will receive the earnest thanks of the nation.

With the war in the Far East, the Democratic convention at St. Louis, that La Follette insurrection in Wisconsin, an impending revolt in Colombia, and Unc' 'Lige Dowie at home, this promises to be a fairly lively year.

If the Ventura people continue to furnish banquets and seashore outings for chain-gang members, that distinguished company will be the envy of every other department of the municipal government.

Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria, Ill., has purchased 1800 Angora goats to clear the brush from some of its endowment lands. This seems to be adopting rather strong measures.

Col. Watterson is in New York and will, it is said, remain there through the summer. Can it be possible that the Democrats have quietly decided not to hold a convention in St. Louis, after all?

No less than 300,000 native Filipinos now speak and write English. America has accomplished more, in an educational way, with the Filipinos in three years than Spain accomplished in 400 years.

Only twelve days until the St. Louis convention, and then we shall know what Charlie Murphy wants.—[Atlanta Constitution.

Move to amend by making last word "wanted."

It is doubtful if even the Courier-Journal can refrain from emitting a "pert paragraph" when it receives the news that the "Prohibitionists have nominated a man by the name of Swallow.

Col. Henry Watterson confesses that he hasn't read the Chicago platform, as it appears long to him. How can Marse Henry blame those who shy at his three-column pert paragraphs?

The brimstone is beginning to burn at St. Louis. Notices of contests among delegates to the convention are pouring in upon the secretary of the national committee.

If Mr. Oxnard, in referring to "my State," means California, he is respectfully reminded that it is never safe to bet on incubator results until the shells have all opened.

The proverbial sincerity of the Sultan is again demonstrated in the recent slaughter of another company of some 6000 Armenians.

The Baltimore American states that the "dog days are now upon us." By the way, have you paid your dog tax yet?

When Mr. Oxnard speaks of "my State," Nebraska and South Dakota promptly prick up their ears.

It will keep the Prohibitionists busy protesting that there's nothing in a name.

Candidate Swallow ought to run pretty well in Kentucky.

Treatment of Animals in Hot Weather.

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Will you kindly grant space for a few suggestions regarding the proper treatment of our animals during the heated term; on which subject the public is so apt to be forgetful?

As to the horses, be merciful with the high check. If the animal has been mutilated for life by docking, see that he is protected from insects by netting, or by rubbing on lightly this lotion: One ounce pennyroyal in one pint olive oil. A little water, given often, is the part of wisdom on long journeys, and if exposed for long periods to the hot sun, wet the head occasionally.

As for dogs, give them plenty of water to drink. Don't make them run, in the sun and dust, after your carriage, bicycle or car. If a dog acts strangely on the street, don't yell "mad dog!" and beat him to death, he is suffering from the heat and needs kind treatment like yourself; rabies is one of the rarest of known diseases. Don't tie up your dog, to fret himself into ugliness—it is the height of cruelty, keep a basin sunk into the ground near your door, full of fresh water for wandering creatures suffering from thirst. This is a beautiful custom, prevalent in Mexico and other countries. Every public fountain should be supplied with a basin for the small animals. This humane provision seems to be very rare in Los Angeles; I have noticed but two fountains of this kind in the city, and one of those is now dry.

Don't be guilty of the inhumanity of deserting your cat to the tender mercies of small boys, savage dogs, swill buckets and vivisecting medical students (taking a "summer course,") while you enjoy yourself for the season at the seaside. The life of such an animal, accustomed to a good home, becomes a hell. If you cannot take it with you, get some one to care for it, or mercifully end its existence by chloroform, gas, drowning in a bag (in warm water,) but never by poison.

As for the little birds—life prisoners in the cage—see that they have plenty of water and fresh air, and don't let the sun shine on them too long. Poor Poll, as he swings on his perch hour after hour, and day after day, would kill time better if he always had a piece of wood, a large spool, for instance, to carve with his bill. The domestication of animals is a cruel system; let us mitigate it so far as we can.

A Fourth of July Note.

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Certain phrases common with Fourth-of-July orators and writers, as to the Americans having thrown off tyrannical British rule, and gained their freedom by the revolution, are so misleading to some thoughtless young people and others that it is worth while to correct them. Our forefathers, who took up arms in that war, had never lost their liberty, and the war proved that they would not surrender it, even at the demand of mighty England. Lord Camden, wisely opposing the stamp tax in the British Parliament, showed a comprehension of their true spirit, in saying: "The colonists when they emigrated, carried their birthright with them; the same spirit of liberty still pervades the new empire." William Pitt, their great champion, speaking in reply to Grenville, the author of the stamp act, said: "The gentleman asks, When were the colonies emancipated? I desire to know when they were made slaves." Our American historian, Bancroft, tells us that "America divided English sympathies by appealing with steadfast confidence to the cherished principles of English liberty in their ideal purity."

The stamp act and the duty on tea were instantly resisted, and could never have been carried into effect. It is true that love and respect for the mother country had been strong, and that the Governors of most of the colonies received their appointments from England; but the will of the people as represented by the popular branches of their legislative bodies, actually prevailed, and if ever an oppressive policy gained any success, this was only partial and temporary. Our school histories ought to make the fact very conspicuous, that the Americans always defended and enjoyed that liberty which is the pervading spirit of the laws of England and of their own laws today.

JAMES B. MITCHELL.

Come, Dove of Peace!

C. L. Varner of Santa Paula writes a letter to The Times in which he lauds the dove as a game bird and table delicacy, declares he is opposed to every form of savagery, is full to overflowing of the milk of human kindness, and yet is convinced that certain persons who have lately severely arraigned dove-shooters are a bit too hasty. Referring to the matter of dove shooting, he says in part:

"It's a case of swallowing the camel. The world is full of men today hunting with a sawed-off gun his fellow-man, not for his essential qualities as food, but because some persons are attempting to advance too rapidly from the inanimate to the sentient. You must remember in the wholesale delivery of your execrations that we are scarcely out of the period of the holy inquisition."

For Good Reads.

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As the work of the Highway Commission is beginning to take definite shape, and the actual inauguration of the road-blocking and house-numbering and naming plan is practically at hand, we wish to ask that all friends of good roads in this county living along the main (through) roads will assist us as much as possible by talking good roads, and road improvement, so that when the commissioners for your district get ready to have your main road measured and blocked, they may have your help and support, which is asking but little of you, as these men are giving of their time, thought and money to this work. The block stones which have been adopted to mark off the divisions on the road are being furnished to the commission at an extremely nominal figure, and it will be an expense so small as not to be felt if the public spirited citizens along these roads will get together and support their respective commissioners in this matter.

There are several main roads to be measured at the earliest opportunity by the commission. They are the Foothill boulevard to the San Bernardino county line via Pasadena, Lamanda, Monrovia, Pomona, etc. Sunset boulevard from here to the Ventura county line, via Sunset boulevard, Cahuenga Pass, Encino, Calabasas, etc. Whittier avenue to Orange county line via East Seventh street, Whittier and La Habra. San Pedro road from this city to San Pedro, via Compton avenue. Also the road to the Orange county line through Downey via Bell avenue, Downey road, Norwalk, Artesia and Dupuy. Part of which is under investigation by a special commission, who are endeavoring to have a certain part of it, about one-half mile in length, near Downey widened. This is of necessity rather slow work because it must be done carefully with proper attention to all details, but its progress can be greatly aided by those interested enough to help their commissioner. If you do not know who your commissioner is write me and find out. C. L. LOWMAN,
Secretary H. C. of L. A. Co.

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am in favor of the Board of Education making it a rule for the teachers in all of the public schools to instruct the pupils not to throw fruit peelings on the public sidewalks. TRAFFIC TIED UP.

Street Car Held Thirty Minutes Because Men Refused to Leave Platform.

[Seattle Post-Intelligencer:] A platform which contained one passenger in excess of the number allowed by the regulations of the company was responsible for a tie-up on a Ballard-street car yesterday afternoon which blocked all traffic for a period of thirty minutes and caused a load of suburban residents to lose all patience with several stubborn men, none of whom would yield his right to occupy the platform. The conductor was equally tenacious, and not until the car was half emptied of its passengers did it proceed on its journey.

Car No. 301 left its downtown terminus at the intersection of Columbia street at 5:35 o'clock. It had proceeded as far as Spring street when the motorman discovered that seven persons were on the front platform, which is one in excess of the number permitted by the regulations. He refused to move his car until one of the passengers left the platform, and the question of who should yield caused the trouble. Two schoolboys were the last to board the car, and one of them was requested to retire inside the car, but this he declined to do. None of the five men was inclined under the circumstances to do so, and the car stood still while the passengers on the inside gave utterance to observations more pointed than polite.

The conductor was appealed to to solve the dilemma, but he pointed out that while the regulations positively forbade him to move with the extra passenger on the platform, neither did they permit him to eject a passenger who had paid his fare. The car stood still until the passengers on the inside began talking of the formation of a regulation committee from among themselves, when one of the youngsters who had boarded the car last concluded to vacate his position, and the car proceeded to its destination.

The average circulation for every day of May, 1903, was	30,831

Showing an average daily loss for May, 1904, of 1,869

NOTE:—The large daily average for May, 1904, was due to the fact that The Times issued during that month a special Fiesta Number of over 100,000 copies; otherwise a substantial gain in the daily average for May, 1904, would have been shown.

MAY ADVERTISING.

During May, 1904, The Times printed a total of 66,751 inches of paid advertising, as against 65,124 inches for the same month of 1903, showing a gain of 1627 inches for the month. The average for each day of the month exceeded 180 columns.

The two other morning newspapers combined printed a total of 56,783 inches—one publishing 32,011 inches and the other 24,772 inches of paid advertising, the latter showing a loss of 12,889 inches in the single month named. It will be seen that The Times published sixty-eight pages more advertising during May than the other two morning Los Angeles papers combined.

EXPLOITATION OF THE PHILIPPINES.

REMARKABLE DISPLAY AT THE ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION.

Cost of Exhibit from the Islands Exceeded One Million Dollars. Largest Display at the Fair—Arrowhead Lake People—Agriculture and Horticulture.

A comprehensive and very interesting folder has just been issued by the Philippine exposition officials at the World's Fair, which not only describes the exhibit, but shows the vast extent of the resources of the islands. The folder is profusely illustrated and is a systematic recital of the progress, development and prospects of the Philippines. The following excerpts from the folder comprise the first of a series which will be printed in The Times as demonstrating the great value of our new Pacific possessions:

"When, with the other foreign countries, the Philippine government was invited to participate in the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, Gov. Taft saw an opportunity to present to the people of the United States a vivid outline picture of the Philippine Islands and their eight million inhabitants.

"For the purpose of securing, organizing and making an exhibit of Philippine products, manufactures, art, ethnology, education and the customs and habits of the Philippine people at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, Gov. Taft induced the Philippine Commission to take up the matter and they, by an act dated November 11, 1903, appointed an exposition board, consisting of the following gentlemen: Dr. W. P. Wilson, director of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum; Dr. Gustavo Niederlein, an expert in World's Fair matters, and Señor Don Pedro A. Paterno, president of the Philippine Senate under Aguinaldo, with Dr. Leon Guerrero as secretary.

"The total appropriation for the purpose of gathering and installing the Philippine exposition at the World's Fair, St. Louis, reaches the sum of $1,000,000, of which all but $300,000 comes from the Philippine insular government. This sum does not include the value of the postal, telegraphic and transportation facilities placed at the disposal of the board by the insular government.

LARGEST EXHIBIT AT FAIR.

"The Philippine exposition consists of nearly one hundred buildings, ranging in size and construction from the 'Taos' nipa casa to the palatial Spanish Administration Building, occupying 47 acres of rolling woodland, in which are housed some 75,000 catalogued exhibits, as well as 1100 representatives of the different peoples, showing clearly all the gradations of the civilization of the islands. The Philippine exposition is the largest single exhibit at the fair, the most interesting, and is the garden spot of the entire exposition.

"The ground, which is situated at the west end of the World's Fair, and is a beautiful tract of rolling woodland, whose sylvan beauty makes a picturesque background for its oriental setting, was ceremoniously delivered to Dr. Wilson, the chairman of the Philippine exposition board, on October 1, 1902, but it was not until his return from the Philippine Islands in June, 1903, that ground was broken and work actively commenced. Early in October, 1903, the first Filipino carpenters and builders began to arrive, and commenced the work of building their native houses and camps. The first building was the Cuartel, an immense two-story building with 27,000 square feet of floor space. This was used for the purpose of storing the exposition material until such time as the other buildings should be ready to receive it. From that time on more exhibits have been received and more laborers have been put to work, until today the Philippine exposition stands a monument to Secretary Taft and his able assistants, the Philippine Exposition Board.

THE WALLED CITY.

"Taking up the exposition in detail, the most striking part of the picture is the Walled City and its approach, the Bridge of Spain, which forms the main entrance to the Philippine exposition grounds. Built in the latter part of the sixteenth century, Manila's walls stand today as perfect as when they enabled the Spanish garrison to repel the attacks of the Chinese and Dutch invaders, three hundred years ago. They were not strong enough, however, to withstand the assault of the English forces under Admiral Draper in 1762, nor of the American forces on August 13, 1898. Manila was restored to Spain by England under the terms of the treaty of peace, made in Paris, February 10, 1763, and was held by Spain until Merritt's forces hauled down the Spanish colors, ending Spain's reign in the Far East.

"In general appearance the Walled City presented to the visitors at the Philippine exposition is the same as that which encircles the city of Manila proper, but instead of enclosing the houses of the different residents of the exhibit it will contain the war relics furnished by the United States army, the Philippine scouts and the constabulary. This exhibit will be one of the most complete of its kind, and will embrace specimens of all the different lethal weapons used by invader and defender since the days of Magellan.

DWELLERS ON ARROWHEAD LAKE.

"Mounting the steps which lead to the top of the walls, one may see the waters of Arrowhead Lake, crossed by the Bridge of Spain, which in Manilla spans the Pasig, and as this lake is really a fac-simile of the Laguna de Bay, the headwater of the Pasig River, the comparison is apt. Along its shores the Moro, the Bagobo and the Visayan villages will be pitched, on its surface will be carried on all the labors and pastimes of these different people. The large cargo cascos will move from point to point, propelled by poles in the hands of stalwart boatmen, who live and die upon their unwieldy craft; the sailing, paddling and rowing banca will be in evidence; the piratical "prao," with its huge lateen sail, will steal from island to island, its picturesque crew reciting their warlike deeds; the fishermen, the pearl divers, and their families, will interest American eyes, and unless some fanatical Moro takes it into his head to run 'Amok,' all will go as merry as a wedding bell.

THE AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT.

"Passing through the Walled City and out the Anda gate, the visitor faces the Magellan monument, a stately column, which stands on the banks of the Pasig River in Manila. This statue was erected in honor of Fernando de Magellanes, first circumnavigator of the globe and discoverer of the Philippine Islands. From the monument, looking toward the east, is the Visayan village, toward the west is the Agricultural building, a large nipa structure, with conservatory front, in which will be shown the work of the Bureau of Agriculture of the Philippine Islands during the past three years.

"Inside are all the exhibits pertaining to agriculture and horticulture. There are several hundred varieties and subvarieties of rice from all the Islands; the exhibits of shrub cotton and tree cotton and processes of manufacture; all grades of sugar, hemp and every variety of fibers in use by the different tribes and natives; all of the oil-producing seeds, including copra; also tobacco in leaf and manufactured; every variety obtainable of fruits cultivated and wild, vegetables and tubers used as food by the natives; distilled spirits from different palm leaf saps, as well as from sugar, rice and corn; the different kinds of cereals, also all kinds of peas, beans and vegetable seeds; a large variety of hat and basket work; models of all kinds representing the different styles of houses and granaries in use in the islands, models of all the implements in use by the different manufacturers. Different styles of hats and baskets will be offered for sale in this building.

THE PLAZA SANTA CRUZ.

"Walking up the inclined path toward the southwest, the visitor will enter upon the Plaza Santa Cruz, upon which front the Ayuntamiento, the Cathedral, the Commerce building and a typical Manila house. These buildings are really fine examples of the better class of Manila construction. Taking the different buildings on the Plaza, the most striking is the Cathedral, which is a miniature reproduction of the Cathedral presided over by his Eminence, Archbishop Harty, former of St. Louis. In this building are installed the education, and a part of the art, exhibits."

LOCAL RAILROAD RECORD.

"SANDWICH" CALLED OFF.

San Francisco Unions Stop Santa Fe Boycott.

Opposition Man Source of Great Amusement.

Yellow Dog Turns Greatest Brakebeam Hobo.

The unions of San Francisco have called off the "sandwich man," who has borne the burden of the "boycott of the Santa Fé."

"The attempt of the unions to boycott us up there has simply furthered our ends," said General Passenger Agent Byrne yesterday, "and the fact that the sandwich man has been called in is conclusive evidence that the strike is considered a lost issue with the unions.

"When the mechanics attempted to tie us up, one of their first moves was to get the rawpers of San Francisco to place a sandwich man in front of our ticket office. He sauntered back and forth all day, smoking a stub pipe and spitting tobacco juice on the sidewalk. His canvas placards gave the information that the Santa Fé was 'unfair,' that all our freight was delayed, and that passenger travel was endangered by the condition of the engines, and ended up with an appeal to the public to go East by some other line.

"The matter being telegraphed down to me, I instructed that a competing sandwich man should be placed beside the boycotter, and this is what his places bore, 'Don't patronize any railroad—All have labor troubles—If you want to go East walk.' The result was most amusing to the public and highly satisfactory to us. We got an increased business.

"In more than one case people who had intended returning over the Southern Pacific bought tickets over the Santa Fé simply because the boycott aroused their indignation against the methods and principles of the unions. The joke of the affair was that the two legend bearers were the best of friends and exchanged tobacco, only our man was told that he must not chew and spit on the sidewalk.

"As the unions have called in their walking delegate I telegraphed yesterday to take in ours. We are well pleased over the result and have certainly beaten them at their own game."

Mr. Byrne would not claim authorship of the answer to the boycott, but admits that the idea of putting a sandwich man in opposition was his.

INTO SAN BERNARDINO.

OPENING TO BE SUNDAY.

It was announced yesterday by officers of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad Company that the official opening of the road into San Bernardino will take place on Sunday, and that a union depot is to be built at once by this company and the Southern Pacific.

The opening of the road will be the signal for a running time between Los Angeles and San Bernardino of one hour and a half, instead of two hours, which is the schedule of the Santa Fé. The Salt Lake has been in a compact with the Atchison people not to exceed their running time to the city of ditches, but it is now understood that the compact is off, and that the Salt Lake is going after the business by cutting off one-fourth of the time.

The so-called union depot—in reality that of the Salt Lake and the Southern Pacific being one and the same—is to be built on the site of the old motor station on E street just below Third. It will be a two-story structure, with a large ticket office and waiting-room. The second floor will be used by telegraph operators and clerks. In the rear of the depot there will be four shed-covered tracks with a big arcade at the end. The building will probably cost $20,000, and will be an important addition to San Bernardino.

It has been asserted by residents of San Bernardino that the Santa Fé is to be in on the union-depot scheme, but this the Salt Lake people deny, and, as the Santa Fé has a large station and acreage buildings at the present location of its depot, the rumor is not credited in railroad circles. However, the Santa Fé already has a Y run in to the location of the union depot from its Third-street station.

A railroad man by the name of Potter has been appointed ticket agent of the Salt Lake at San Bernardino, and will assume his duties today, the temporary office being located in the Stewart Hotel.

GLENDALE BARBECUE.

DEMONSTRATION TOMORROW.

Residents of the Tropico-Glendale country are preparing for a big demonstration tomorrow to celebrate the coming of the trolley road from Los Angeles. A barbecue, with suitable accompaniments and a few speeches, are among the things in anticipation to take place at the Glendale Hotel grounds.

The feast of juicy meats roasted in the pit is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. Lemonade will be served during the day. The preparations contemplate a visitation of 5000 people.

After the noon hour there will be exercises, the programme of which include music by a band, opening remarks by Chairman J. C. Sherer, a history of the road by R. D. Goode, an address by L. C. Brand, an address by Otto F. Snyder, president of the Tropico Improvement Association; an address by Edgar Leavitt, president of the Glendale Improvement Association; an address on "Southern California and Its Future," by Col. Tom C. Thornton; an address on "The Press in the Development of Southern California," by Gen. H. G. Otis, and an address on "Interurban Transportation," by Joseph McMillan, traffic manager of the Pacific Electric Railway Company.

The Salt Lake Railroad Company promises to take care of the overflow traffic and carry from Los Angeles all who wish to go and are unable to find sitting or standing space in the electric cars.

MANY BAD CHECKS.

Man Arrested on the Charge of Fleecing Numerous Saloon Men in the City.

James T. Stewart, a laborer, who is accused of having passed a number of worthless checks on saloon men throughout the city, was arrested by detectives last night, and will be held on the charge of forgery.

Stewart is alleged to have worked a systematic bunco game during the past few weeks, and his victims are said to be numerous among saloon men. The plan pursued was to present a check for $15 or $18, and ask for a portion of the money, after buying drinks for the house. The checks were usually drawn on the Citizens' National Bank, and signed either A. Edwards or Guy Weddington. When Stewart entered a First-street saloon last night and presented a check, he was detained, and the police notified. He tried to destroy a few checks which he had in his possession.

Last Month's Building Permits—Comparison of This Year's Work With that of Last.

The number of permits issued last month by Building Superintendent Krause was 565, for improvements aggregating $1,075,540, as against 464 permits for improvements aggregating $841,023 in June 1903. In January of the present year 516 permits were issued for improvements amounting to $675,744, against 486 permits for improvements aggregating $1,808,455 in the corresponding month of 1903. In February, 482 permits were issued for improvements, amounting to $823,578, against 464 permits for improvements aggregating $780,053 in the corresponding month of 1903. In March, 576 permits were issued for $951,029 worth of improvements, as against 503 permits for $811,617 of improvements in March, 1903. Last April 661 permits were issued for improvements amounting to $986,521, against 449 permits for improvements, amounting to $796,190 in April, 1903. In May last 526 permits for improvements aggregating $901,224, were taken out, as against 423 permits for improvements aggregating $1,081,111 in May, 1903.

It appears, therefore, that for four out of the six months just closed, the improvements authorized in 1904 exceeded in value the improvements authorized in the corresponding months of 1903. An inspection of the figures shows, moreover, that the number of permits issued in each month of 1904, exceeded the number of permits issued in the corresponding month of 1903. For the first six months of 1904, the total number of permits was 3271; the total of improvements authorized was $5,541,464. During the corresponding period of 1903, the total number of permits issued was 2790; the total of improvements authorized was $6,418,925.

The improvements authorized last year are still slightly in excess of those authorized this year, but the very heavy aggregate of improvements undertaken in January, 1903, explains the cause of this excess.

THREE WANT IT.

Towns Struggling for the New National Guard Company Keeping Gen. Wankowski Busy.

Gen. Wankowski is finding that military honors bring a few troubles.

A fierce contest has sprung up between three different towns to get the company that is "for giving away."

The occasion is the mustering out of Co. L, of Santa Ana for insubordination.

Santa Ana wishes to install a new company, promising to leave out the highbinders; the town is loath to be without a militia representation. Without a company, it is in a queer position, being the headquarters of the Seventh Regiment, the latter fact being due to the residence of Col Finley in Santa Ana.

Long Beach, however, is petitioning Wankowski to have the company located there. Santa Paula, which had a company once before and lost it by dwindling to smallness, wants to try again, and has asked permission to be allowed to organize a company.

Gen. Wankowski has warily given no one of the three much satisfaction—but they keep him busy.

Sec. 2. That it is the right to maintain said system outside of the "Conduit District," hereinbefore described, by means of overhead wires to be attached to the poles belonging to other persons or corporations shall be exercised by the grantee of said franchise or by his assigns, only with the consent and authority of the owners of said poles, and such right shall not, nor shall the franchise granted to said grantee or his assigns, in any manner enlarge or extend the rights or privileges of said grantee or his assigns, affecting the poles, or confer upon them any greater or different rights or privileges than those granted to them by the franchise or franchises under which said poles have been, or may be erected and maintained.

That said grantee and his assigns shall, if required by said city, furnish and allow it, during the term of said franchise, the right to use, for city purposes, one pair of wires in each cable, as hereinafter provided, for municipal purposes, such use to be confined to the private use of said city and the use of said system by said grantee and his assigns, and to be exercised in the manner following, to-wit:

Wherever conduits are laid for the wires to be installed under said franchise, the said city shall be entitled, subject to the limitations aforesaid, to use said conduits for its wires free of charge, except the cable wires installed; and where such conduits are occupied by cables instead of separate wires, the said city shall be entitled to the use of ten per cent. of the wires in each cable containing not more than fifty pair, and twenty per cent. of the wires in each cable containing fifty pair or less, whenever required by it for the purposes aforesaid.

Sec. 4. That all lines constructed or operated under said franchise, shall have complete iron or copper circuits, and that the conduit system accepted or constructed under said franchise, shall be of such size and capacity as to accommodate wires, cables, or conductors sufficient to provide accommodations for two thousand subscribers.

That the rent or charge for district messenger call service in the system established or maintained under said franchise, shall not exceed the following monthly rates:

For district messenger service within the city limits, per call, fifty cents.

Sec. 5. That said grantee and his assigns shall, from the receipts of said franchise, pay to the City of Los Angeles, in lawful money of the United States, two per cent. of the gross annual receipts of such grantee and his assigns, arising from the use, operation or possession of said franchise. No percentage shall be paid for the first five years succeeding the date of this franchise, but thereafter said percentage shall be payable annually, and said franchise is to be forfeited by failure to make the payments provided for. The amount of the gross annual receipts of the said grantee and his assigns arising from the use, operation or possession of this franchise, shall be deemed and understood to be, and shall be, the total gross earnings collected or received, in any manner gathered or derived by the grantee or his assigns, from district messenger, call charges or rentals, and from the leasing or letting of lines, or conduits. And it shall be the duty of said grantee and his assigns to file with the City Clerk of the City of Los Angeles, at the expiration of the years from the date of the granting of said franchise, a complete statement, verified by the oath of said grantee or his assigns, or by the oath of the manager or presiding officer of said grantee or his assigns, showing the total gross receipts and gross earnings collected or received, or in any manner gained or derived by the said grantee or his assigns, during the preceding twelve months from district messenger, call charges and rentals, and from the leasing or letting of lines or conduits. And any neglect, confusion or refusal by said grantee or his assigns, to file said verified statement, or to pay the said percentage of the said gross annual receipts, at the time or in the manner hereinbefore provided, shall ipso facto work a forfeiture of the franchise hereby granted, and of all rights thereunder, to the City of Los Angeles.

Sec. 6. That the work of construction shall be commenced in good faith within not more than four months from the date of the granting of said franchise, and shall be continuously prosecuted thereafter in good faith and without unnecessary or avoidable intermission or delay; that said work of construction shall be completed within not more than three years thereafter; that said work of construction shall be commenced and continuously prosecuted so that at least one-third of the work of construction shall be completed within one year from the time of commencement; and that if said work be not so commenced, prosecuted or completed within the time, or in the manner specified, said franchise shall be forfeited.

SAYS SHE'S NO DESERTER.

Wife Defendant Answers Husband's Charges.

Declares She Taught School to Keep from Starving.

Divorce Case to Which Are Two Sides.

Judge Allen let out a savage roast yesterday at married women who get tired of home life and go to school teaching. He said such women ought to lose their jobs.

It was in connection with a divorce suit. Unfortunately for the moral of the tale, testimony will be introduced next week to show that the woman in this case did not leave home to satisfy her desire to get into the whirl of business life, but because she had a drunken husband and had to work or starve.

She is Mrs. Mary A. Ramsdell, principal of the Gates-street school.

The testimony introduced yesterday put her in such a light that the judge while delivering a roast from the bench, ordered that she be brought into court a week from today and given a chance to tell her own story.

HUSBAND CHARGES DESERTION.

She did not put in an appearance yesterday, and her husband tried to get a divorce by default, accusing her of desertion.

The testimony introduced in his behalf showed that they were married in San Francisco in 1882 and moved to Pomona in 1885. In 1895 she moved to Los Angeles and began teaching school.

The story told was that her foster mother remained behind with the husband and Mrs. Ramsdell went home every second week. As time went on, these visitations became less frequent until she went home only once in three or six months.

A year ago last September, Mrs. Ramsdell told her husband that she was not going to live with him any longer. She brought her mother away from their home in Pomona, and her husband was left alone and unprotected to make his way in the cold, unfeeling world.

When Judge Allen heard this testimony he ordered Mrs. Ramsdell sent for.

"You had better have a subpoena issued for her" remarked the court. "The public is interested in all of these divorce cases, and especially one of this kind. If she deliberately and without any cause broke up her home and deserted and abandoned her husband because she preferred to teach school rather than live at home, it is a thing that ought to be known.

"She is drawing public funds and there are plenty of people who are not disposed to violate the marriage obligation and neglect their homes in that way who might draw the money, and the Board of Education ought to know it. For these reasons you will have a subpoena issued for her attendance here."

THE OTHER SIDE.

The story that Mrs. Ramsdell will tell when she is taken into court next week will be a pitiful one.

She is a refined, gentle-voiced woman —pitifully humiliated by being dragged into divorce publicity.

"It is terrible to have one's innermost griefs and heartaches dragged into the courts for everyone to hear. I don't want to say anything about it. I can't talk about it.

"I am sure the judge would not have spoken of me that way had he known the real facts.

"I didn't leave home because I preferred to teach school. I did it because my mother was paralyzed and totally blind, and we were at poverty's door. I had to do something—had to go to work.

"My husband was a sewing machine agent. He was too intemperate and careless to do anything for us. I secured a position and hired a housekeeper to look after the home. I went home whenever I was needed.

"I did not know the case was coming up today. Otherwise I should probably have been there. I feel terribly hurt over these things they said of me."

IMPERIAL.

WILL BE INCORPORATED.

IMPERIAL, June 30.—Out of ninety votes cast today on incorporation all but seven were in favor of city making. The election brought out a vigorous contest between license and no-license factions, the latter winning 66 to 30. The new city will be organized next Monday.

St. Peter and the Reporter.

There is a man at Seelbach's Hotel who has certainly got a most distorted idea of the virtues and the superb habits of newspaper men. He doesn't seem to realise that the crown of immaculat purity, of perfect morals and of superb hours well kept rests upon the brow of the "slingers of the ink," as rude persons will sometimes call them.

"No newspaper work for my son. No, sir—not a bit of it. I'll tell you of a dream I had the other day which most aptly illustrates the fate of all newspaper men. It was something like this:

"'You say you were a reporter on several New York papers?' asked St. Peter of an applicant seeking to pass the pearly gates.

"'Yes, sir,' replied the applicant.

"'All right,' said St. Peter, 'just step into the elevator, please.'

"Applicant (stepping into the elevator)—'How soon does it go up?'

"'It doesn't go up,' said St. Peter, 'it goes down.'"—[Louisville Herald.

San Bernardino, Orange and Riverside Counties.

[NEWS REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.]

RESOLVED TO DIE TOGETHER.

MURDER AND SUICIDE AT PERRIS CAREFULLY PLANNED.

Joint Note Left by Both Victims Disclosed Motives—Boom in Building Operations Throughout Riverside — Bonham-Jenkins Nuptials. County Officials Moving.

RIVERSIDE, June 30.—Coroner Dickson and Attorney M. Estudillo, representing the District-Attorney, returned this afternoon from Perris, after holding the inquest over the victims of the Stein murder and suicide of yesterday afternoon. The verdict of the Coroner's jury was that Mrs. Stein came to her death by pistol shot fired by Stein and that Stein committed suicide.

All the evidence confirms the theory that the unhappy couple had deliberately planned the tragedy, and had agreed between themselves to end life in this manner. They had only recently learned that Stein's disease was incurable, and Mrs. Stein had often said she did not wish to live after he was taken.

When Stein left Perris yesterday afternoon he told friends that he was going to bed and would probably never get up again. A note was found on the bureau, written in German and signed by George Stein and Ada Stein, but evidently penned by Stein, which made good bye to all their friends and contained some reference to property left in Germany.

Stein came to Riverside county last spring from San Francisco, suffering acutely with asthma and Bright's disease. He has been foreman of a bakery in Perris.

He had been in Los Angeles for several days, and returned through Perris yesterday afternoon. On his way through the town he left word with W. R. Morrison for Dr. J. W. Reese to call some time during the afternoon. About 5 o'clock the doctor went to the ranch, but finding everything closed up tight, he went back after Mr. Morrison. They broke open windows and went in, finding the dead bodies lying on the floor, the weapon, a 38-caliber, Smith & Weston, still in the hand of Stein. There was a bullet hole back of the ear in the head of each.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

For what is generally considered a dull time of year, the extent of Riverside's building operations at the present time is good to see. First in importance are the two large business blocks, "The Pennsylvania" and the Tetley. The former, located at the corner of Tenth and Main, will be of pressed brick to match the new Courthouse in the next block, and by September 1, is expected to be ready for occupancy. It is to be a three-story building, the lower store rooms to be occupied by Rockhold Bros.' grocery and by a new drug store; and the upper floors to be fitted up for office rooms and suites. The Tetley Block, going up on Eighth, between Orange and Main, will be completed about August 1. The front is to be of yellow pressed brick, and will be in keeping with the other handsome buildings in the block. A large number of other buildings now being erected is keeping every carpenter in the county busy.

JENKINS-BONHAM.

At 8 o'clock last evening, at the home of the bride's parents, No. 159 East Tenth street, in the presence of about sixty intimate friends and relatives, Miss Mayme E. Jenkins became the bride of Earl L. Bonham. Standing with the young couple beneath a canopy of greens and asparagus plumosum, from which hung a great knot of white carnations, Rev. Benjamin S. Haywood, D.D., of the First Methodist Church, pronounced the solemn words which made them one. Little Doris Bonham, sister of the groom, carried a basket of sweet peas, acting as flower girl. Miss Helen Steadman and Miss Julia Bonham played as a piano duet preceding the ceremony the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. Miss Steadman remaining and playing softly MacDowell's "Romanza" during the ceremony. At its conclusion both young ladies played Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Mrs. Jenkins was assisted in receiving by Miss Julia Bonham and Miss Cory, and in serving by the Misses Mary Fabb, Eunice McLaren, Raytie Brundige and Julia Bonham.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Jenkins, has lived in Riverside for the past six years, and her sweet personality has won for her a large and admiring circle of friends. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bonham, is a painter by trade, in partnership with his father. He is a young man of sterling character, with a host of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Bonham will spend their honeymoon quietly at home, taking their wedding journey later in the summer.

RIVERSIDE PICKINGS.

Dorus R. Limbocker, a Los Angeles commercial man, and Miss Alice Stephenson, also of Los Angeles, were married at the Methodist parsonage this noon today by the Rev. B. S. Haywood, D.D. After the ceremony they left for a honeymoon trip to coast points, after which they will return to take their home in Los Angeles.

NEARLY ALL MOVED.

All the county officers were moving and getting settled today except the County Superintendent of Schools, who is detained by the continued meeting of the County Board of Education. Superintendent Hyatt hopes to move tomorrow, however.

Apricots are ripening fast here and in West Riverside. In the latter place several dryers are already running on a small scale, and extensive preparations are being made to handle the fruit as fast as it ripens in quantities. The crop is light.

The members of the G.A.R., the W.R.C., and all the more temperately inclined citizens not interested in the games and sporting events at the Driving Park, will have a quieter at Fairmount Park on the afternoon of the Fourth. Here an excellent programme of music and addresses will be given, the principal address to be given by Dr. Benjamin S. Haywood, D.D. The ordinance against fireworks and firearms in the city parks will be strictly enforced and a quiet time enjoyed by those who desire to show their patriotism in this manner.

FAST TRAIN OF CANTALOUPES.

EARLY EASTERN SHIPMENT OF COACHELLA MELONS.

Speeding Toward Chicago on Passenger Schedule, Bearing Great Banners Telling of Output of Below-the-Sea Region and Accompanied by Special Messenger.

COACHELLA, June 30.—The first special cantaloupe train to leave California this season started from here yesterday afternoon.

Running on passenger time, the juicy product of a soil a good deal below sea level will go to Chicago over the Southern Pacific and Rock Island lines.

Several weeks ahead of all the rest of the country in the production of the ripened fruit, it is expected that the cantaloupes from Coachella will be in great demand in Chicago, and for the many populous towns of the great Mississippi Valley.

The Coachella Valley Producers' Association has its own messenger accompanying the train, and on the cars are great banners proclaiming the output of this below-the-sea region.

IDYLLWILD.

PARADE IN MEN'S CLOTHES.

IDYLLWILD, June 30.—It would have been shocking had it occurred anywhere save in a mountain camp.

For the ladies—hush—borrowed the clothes of their gentlemen friends and paraded in them; that is, some of them did, and they are all hoping it won't get into the papers.

It was on Saturday night when the big dancing pavilion just finished was opened by a masked ball, in which about thirty masqueraders took part.

Among those who appeared were Mrs. J. A. Graves, Miss Graves of Los Angeles, Mrs. M. C. Miller and Miss Miller, of Butte, Mont., Miss Louise McFarland of Los Angeles, Charles Green of Pasadena, Miss Sanderson of San Francisco; R. A. Lowe, Miss Hortense Pattee of Pasadena, Mrs. A. C. Thorpe of Los Angeles, Mrs. H. L. Percy of Los Angeles, Mrs. Bernard Potter, Los Angeles, Mrs. A. M. Jolly, C. D. Jolly, King Beatty, Miss Lucy Proctor, Miss Elsie Dorn, Mrs. Stone, Harold S. Sims of San Francisco, Miss Sims and Dr. C. A. Shepard of Riverside.

On Friday Mrs. Miller entertained with a tallyho ride to Keen's Camp. Monday evening Mrs. Potter entertained in honor of Mrs. Thorpe, Miss Oldham and Mrs. Percy, who left this week. Mrs. Graves on Wednesday gave a tallyho picnic party to Fern Cañon.

DIED ALONE ON A STONE HEAP.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND IN DECLEZ QUARRIES.

Important Suit Against Irrigation Company to Test Legality of Bonds—Physician on Trial—Surveyors Driven Out of Death Valley by the Heat.

SAN BERNARDINO, June 30.—The body of an unknown man, aged about 40, well dressed, and having the appearance of one who was not accustomed to hard work, was found this morning at the Declez quarries. There was nothing upon his person by which he could be identified, but from marks upon his clothing it is supposed he came from Los Angeles, but for what purpose is not known. The cause of death has not been ascertained, but the appearance of the body and the condition of the place where it was found indicate that death was due to natural causes. It is believed that the man came to Declez last night in search of work, that he either lost his way, or decided to spend the night in the open air, and during the night was seized with a hemorrhage which proved fatal. The Coroner is investigating the case.

ARE THE BONDS VALID?

N. W. Stowell commenced suit this afternoon against the Rialto Irrigation District to recover $25,420 alleged to be due on a bond issue held by him. The bonds were issued a year ago, and the defendant claims the meeting at which they were ordered issued was illegally held, and that the bonds were not properly indorsed.

DOCTOR ON TRIAL.

The trial of Dr. M. L. Ward, charged with practicing osteopathy without a State license, was resumed before Judge C. L. Thomas this morning, the courtroom throughout the day being crowded. A large number of those present were representative women of the town, who have taken treatment of the defendant, and are under subpoena by the prosecution to prove that the doctor really has practiced. It seems certain that the defense will seek to prove that the defendant is the discoverer of a new science of treating disease, and therefore does not come within the range of the law making it necessary for him to procure a license.

WORKING IN DEATH VALLEY.

Civil Engineer Little, with a large number of the members of a surveying party which left here for Death Valley some time ago, has returned, unable to stand the intense heat of that section. They were in charge of Civil Engineer Razor of this city and Eugene Valjean of Santa Ana, and were to assist in locating corners for the Pacific Coast Borax Co. Razor and Valjean are still at work, getting up before light and working until the sun is well up, when they retire for the day, setting forth again after sundown. The company has gone to great expense to provide every comfort and even luxury for the men.

AGAINST MORE SALOONS.

All the clergymen of Colton have decided to preach Sunday morning against the saloon evil, which is threatening that community. Some of the more ardent temperance leaders advocate making good out of their own purses the amount of money which the city would gain by issuing another license, and in that way tide over the financial stress without throwing down the bars to the liquor element.

SAN BERNARDINO NOTES.

James Van Norman, the young man who gave himself up to Marshal Shay, confessing to an alleged embezzlement committed at Syracuse, N. Y., two years ago, will be discharged from custody tomorrow morning, unless word to hold him is received from the East. Since the Syracuse authorities have not answered the Marshal's telegram announcing Norman's arrest, there is a growing belief that the prisoner's story is a fake.

Jacob Wold, formerly employed as a strike breaker by the Santa Fé, who has been before the Police Court for ten successive days charged with intoxication, will probably be examined before a lunacy commission. He has on several occasions fought desperately at imaginary foes.

The funeral of Mrs. J. D. Faris, first cousin of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy, took place from the family residence this afternoon, Rev. Mark B. Shaw officiating.

A warrant for the arrest of a man named Baldwin was issued this afternoon for brutally killing a neighbor's dog. His act was exceptionally aggravating, and caused considerable feeling about town.

ONTARIO.

CALDWELL-HEWITT.

ONTARIO, June 30.—A beautiful wedding took place today in the Presbyterian Church when Miss Florence Hewitt pledged her troth to E. V. Caldwell, a popular young business man of this place. The church was decorated in green and white, potted palms, ferns and magnolias being used. The bride was gowned in white lace over chiffon, and white silk. She wore a long white veil caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of maidenhair ferns. Miss Mabel Gray of Ontario was maid of honor, and wore a gown of green silk, and carried a big bouquet.

The two bridesmaids were Miss Clara Heidewiche of Pasadena and Miss Mabel Jessow of Ontario. Their gowns were white over green and both carried large bouquets of white flowers. No hats were worn. Little Ruth Phillips was flower girl and Master Thatcher acted as ring bearer. The best man was Tom Williams, formerly Mr. Caldwell's partner, and Mr. Freidendall and Clarence Williams acted as ushers.

A handsome bungalow has been prepared for the young couple on J street next to Mrs. Hewitt's residence. After the ceremony the guests repaired there to a reception. The bride's colors, white and green were used throughout in the decorations. The bride and groom left on the afternoon train for their honeymoon, but have kept their destination a secret.

SANTA ANA.

ALUMNI REUNION.

SANTA ANA, June 30.—The annual reunion of the Santa Ana High School alumni was held yesterday evening at Elks Hall, with representatives of nearly every class present. After a social hour a business session was held, at which E. J. Marks was elected president; Burns Chaffee, vice-president; Walter Collins, secretary; George W. Dryer, treasurer; Ralph Jones, historian; Misses Ada Elliott and Elizabeth Yoch, Executive Committee. An address of welcome to the new officers was given by Dr. Patton, the retiring president, to which Burns Chaffee responded. E. J. Marks, the new president, responded to a call for reminiscences of the old alumni. Dancing concluded the entertainment.

BUSINESS GRADUATES.

Commencement exercises of the Orange County Business College were held last evening at the Grand Opera-house. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. J. H. Garnett of the First Baptist Church, following which the salutatory and valedictory addresses were given by Lee McDowell and Lela Jaqueth, respectively. Following are the graduates: Lee McDowell, J. B. Fox, J. E. Holbrook, Clara Pettet, Grace Abbott, Minnie M. Williams, Minnie M. Wild, L. Pearl Smith, Lela P. Jaqueth, Raymond M. Morrill, H. A. Reuter, J. Vivian Vance, Nora M. Skinner, Howard E. Lowe, Grace Harper, Asa Hoffman, Eva M. Bissett, Charlotte Thurston, Geraldine Daniel, Consie Botilier, Jay Cutler, Gertrude Harter, Gertrude Pedelty.

SANTA ANA JOTS.

James Burrows, the Anaheim bully who attacked and beat defenseless Mrs. Eaton, was brought to jail yesterday evening in default of paying a fine of $100 to serve a fifty days term on the chain gang.

The young people of the First Baptist Church gave a Japanese social last night at the home of Mrs. C. E. French on Spurgeon street.

A rumor is current that the Pacific Electric road from Huntington Beach to this city is to be built on a direct line, instead of coming by way of Newport Beach, as originally planned. The reason assigned for the change in plan is that the Newport Gun Club is "holding up" the company for right-of-way indemnities over their property, which the company refuses to pay.

Roger Newcomer was thrown from a wagon at the Southern Pacific depot yesterday morning while attempting to stop a runaway horse. His hand was badly lacerated by the fall.

VENTURA.

BOTH MAY DIE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, June 30.—Charles Donlon and wife, who were injured yesterday at Hueneme by being thrown form their buggy, are still in a critical condition. Mrs. Donlon was injured internally, and Mr. Donlon suffered a fracture of the skull. The doctors are still hopeful of their recovery, but say that it will be several days yet before the outcome can be determined.

The accident happened in a very quiet part of the town, and was without witnesses, excepting a little boy, who said that a dog ran out when Mr. Donlon was driving by and frightened the horses, which immediately started them. At the same time Mrs. Donlon fainted. Mr. Donlon passed his arm about her to support her, and with the other hand he attempted to guide the maddened team, which suddenly swerved around the corner, throwing both occupants from the buggy, and to the graveled roadway. When reached Mr. and Mrs. Donlon were lying side by side and face downward, both bleeding and unconscious.

OXNARD.

INSURANCE RETALIATION.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

OXNARD, June 30.—Something of a commotion has been raised here by a retaliative measure taken by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific, the preamble of which reads as follows:

"Whereas, the municipal authorities of Oxnard, Ventura county, Cal., have increased the expense of doing business, by imposing a license tax of $4 per year upon each company represented in the city and of $12 for every person, firm or corporation in the city engaged in soliciting for or representing any insurance company, thereby making necessary an increase of rates to offset the additional expense."

Then follows a resolution increasing tariff and special rates of 10 per cent.

A strong feeling is expressed among the people here to the effect that insurance rates are already too high. Many are only carrying what they consider absolutely necessary. The agents complain that they are handicapped by such measures, and, say that if the rates were lower, they could do a volume of business that would be more profitable to themselves as well as to the companies they represent.

If the American Beet Sugar Company, the Colonia Improvement Company, the banks and some of the heavier local dealers should take to carrying their own insurance, as they are abundantly able to do, it is believed that it would make a reaction that would hurt the insurance companies more than a petty $4 annual license.

OXNARD BRIEFS.

Paul Lehmann who was badly kicked by his saddle horse last Sunday, is still confined to his bed.

Miss Jessie Burnett, who has been teaching at the High School for the past two terms, left for the north Tuesday. She will spend her vacation with her family in San Francisco.

CHILD PATHOS.

Clinging Affection of Little Irene Stoll, Who Wove Wreath for Father's Bier.

A child's affection for her father was pathetically illustrated yesterday forenoon at the funeral service over Frederick U. Stoll, at the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Stoll was a flower lover, and he especially admired the pansies in his grounds.

Little Irene, with the sturdy independance of 10 years, set about making her own flower-piece to go with those massed about the casket. She found a piece of wire and some string gathered pansies and asparagus fern, and went to work. But the family's pet parrot had been insistently calling for "Fred," and in the bottom of its cage lay a brilliant red, blue and green feather. The child conceived that the parrot wanted to represented as one of the family, and that it had purposely pulled out this beautiful wing-feather to be used. So she wove it into her wreath, and tied it securely with one of her white hair ribbons.

And this wreath it was that lay nearest of all to him, finally.

It is the little girl who was to have organized a Junior league of the Audubon society, at her school, on the day that her father's illness kept her away. She was the first on the Heights to wear "the bird button," and through her efforts over forty children are now wearing it, some of them being boys that were formerly bird collectors.

POSTAL CLERKS MEET.

The June meeting of Branch 57, United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin E. Martin, No. 535 Sai Julian street, R. A. Chase presiding. This is the Los Angeles branch of the national organization, which now numbers nearly fifteen thousand postoffice clerks. The organization is bending its efforts toward securing the passage of a bill through Congress granting postoffice clerks an eight-hour day. Their schedule of hours is dependent, to a large degree, upon the amount of work accumulated. Leon F Umsted was elected president; C. H. St. Martin, vice-president; F. J. Meyer, secretary; William Porter, treasurer; Executive Committee, Messrs. Overholtzer, Purdy, Griffin, Streshy. Refreshments were enjoyed before adjournment.

The Alamitos Bay Tract gives you all the advantages of Catalina—without the sea voyage. It is without question an ideal spot to pass the heated term—being situated about four miles from Long Beach on a spur of fine soft sand, which divides Alamitos Bay from the Pacific, affording the safest surf and still water bathing, good fishing, rowing, sailing, launching, clamming, etc. The tract is being improved as fast as it is possible to do the work. Gas, Electricity, Water, Sewers, Broad Walks and all other improvements are included in the price of the lots, at $450 and upwards. Take the Pacific Electric car at Sixth and Main and go direct to the tract—50c for the round trip. Several launches will be waiting to take our friends for a ride on the bay and river. SCHOOL BONDS FAIL TO CARRY.

RESULT OF THE SPECIAL ELECTION IN PASADENA.

Dissatisfied Residents of Northeast Section and Disgruntled Mechanics Combined Against Them—Annual Picnic of Farmers Club at Grand Oak Ranch.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 26 South Raymond avenue, July 1.—The bond issue asked by the Board of Education was lost by 63 votes at the special election held yesterday. A total of 584 votes were cast, 327, of which were in the affirmative and 257 in the negative. On a total vote of 584, it required 390 affirmative votes to authorize the bond issue, a two-thirds majority.

The defeat of the bonds may be attributed to three principal reasons, namely: The centralization of the school buildings, the opposition of the northeast section who felt that their request for a building had been ignored by the board, and the antagonism of carpenters and mechanics generally who claim to have been shabbily treated by the men who have secured contracts for the erection of not only school buildings but public structures and private residences.

Dr. F. A. Wier said last evening that he worked against the bonds and voted against them because the northeast section of the city has been ignored. "We need a school building in the vicinity of Villa street and Los Robles avenue, it being the center of the school population. The map prepared by Superintendent Graham and others was the most misleading of anything I ever saw, showing as it did the center of the school population within the half-mile circle of the Walnut-street site. The fact is that pupils were taken from the overlapping territory and accredited to the half-mile circle of the Walnut-street site that live far out of that territory. Another fact that defeated the bonds is the opposition of business men, who condemned as unbusinesslike the centralization of the buildings according to the scheme of the board. While their opposition was of the quiet kind that found expression in their ballots, it was an effective agency in the defeat of the bonds."

Josiah Hill, a carpenter, engaged Superintendent Graham in a wordy war in front of the Wilson school building after the result of the vote had been announced. Mr. Hill was much elated over the defeat of the bonds, and said that so long as contractors refused to give employment to Pasadena mechanics just so long would all proposed bond issues be voted down. He condemned the City Hall and the High School building as to workmanship, characterizing them as monuments to mechanical blunderers. "The mechanics of Pasadena defeated the bonds," he said. Superintendent Graham asked how it would benefit the mechanics of the city to put a quietus on building operations, but that was too hard for Mr. Hill.

D. W. Herlihy, president of the Board of Trade, said that the Board of Education should at once call a special election, proposing a bond issue sufficient to build two new buildings, one on the Walnut-street site and one in the northeast section. "Such a proposition would carry unanimously." Secretary D. W. Coolidge of the Board of Trade said that if the tax-payers desired that their children be housed in tents and shacks and basements, it was the proper thing to defeat the bonds. "We can not expect to have the prettiest city in the world without high taxes." I heard a number express themselves yesterday as being opposed to the bond issue on account of the high rate of taxation now prevailing. Our taxes are not high as compared with other cities that have such improvements as we have."

A. E. Walker, clerk, Prof. D. W. Lewis, member of the Board of Education, and Superintendent of Schools J. D. Graham held a little consolation meeting on the steps of the Wilson school building, after the counting of the ballots. They were not talking individually or collectively for publication, but, of course, regret exceedingly the defeat of the bonds. Mr. Graham said that the children would be taken care of somehow, by the use of the lower floor of the Wilson building and transferring some to the McKinley school. "The board will hold a meeting Friday morning, at which plans for the future will be determined."

FARMERS' CLUB PICNIC.

The Pasadena Farmer's Club held its annual picnic yesterday afternoon at Grand Oak Ranch, San aPsqual street and Craig avenue. A basketdinner preceded an interesting programme of short talks and addresses. Mrs. Harriett M. Scott, president of the Outdoor Art Association, gave an outline of the work of the children in relation to the work of the Outdoor Art Association. A paper was read by Prof. Sumner of Pomona College on Coöperation, treating of the advantages of coöperation with civic improvement societies to secure needed work. Prof. Cook talked of cell-structure and bacteria.

MRS. LINCOLN NOT CRUEL.

Dr. Medici de Biron of the Humane Society has investigated the allegations of inhumane treatment by Mrs. Leora R. Lincoln of No. 283 North Lincoln avenue, of her infant child. President E. L. Conger has reported for the society that while the leaving of a child so long without attention, cannot be commended, yet in this case there were extenuating circumstances that make harsh criticism unwarranted.

DELIGHTFUL GARDEN PARTY.

Never was there a more ideal day for a garden party than yesterday afternoon, and never a more ideal spot than the beautiful gardens of "The Hermitage," where Mrs. Craig, assisted by her daughters, Miss Martha, Miss Eleanor and Miss Marian, received her friends between the hours of 4 and 6. Rugs and chairs were placed under the spreading branches of the grand old pepper tree, one of the oldest and finest of its kind in this vicinity. The old homestead with its adobe wing whitened of romance, and the flaunting red geranium hedge which forms one side of the court added a touch of color, while brilliant sunflowers, the only cut flowers used, were artistically arranged among the trees and on the porch, where Miss Marian McGilvray served punch. Mrs. A. S. Halsted and Mrs. Edward Groenendyke took turns in presiding at the table under the trees, where ices and cake were served, and they were assisted by Miss Markham, Miss Alice Markham, Miss Delia Masters and Miss Cloud. Among those present were Mrs. H. K. Macomber, Mrs. Masters, Miss Delia Masters, Mrs. C. B. Scoville, Mrs. Fred E. Wilcox, Mrs. Edward Groenendyke, Mrs. Theo. Coleman, Mrs. Charles Coleman, Miss Alice Coleman, Mrs. Allen, Miss Allen, Miss Meache, Mrs. Brigdon, Miss Brigdon, Mrs. Fox of Los Angeles, Mrs. Vandevort, Miss Bradshaw, Miss Edith Rowland, Miss Dreer, Mrs. H. M. Wotkyns, Mrs. Walter Wotkyns, Mrs. Ward Rowland, Miss Ludovici, Miss Alice Ludovici, Miss Horton, Mrs. C. C. Braggdon, Miss Ransom, Miss Guyer, Miss Ethel Randall, Mrs. Root, Dr. Bell Reynolds, Mrs. James Swan, Miss Angie Holmes, Mrs. Edward Frye, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. George Senter, Miss Helen Senter, Miss Cloud, Mrs. Thad. Lowe, Mrs. Trobridge, Mrs. Little, Mrs. T. M. Livingston, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Allen, Miss Echo Allen of Los Angeles, Miss Markham, Miss Alice Markham, Miss McGilvray and Mrs. A. S. Halsted.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

Capt. William Waterhouse has gone to Terminal Island in company with his son, Paul. The latter will take a short cruise on the Aloha.

David Blankenhorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Blankenhorn, has returned from Cornell University, where he has completed his freshman year.

Postmaster J. W. Wood will leave Saturday on a fishing trip to the Puget Sound. He will be accompanied as far as Seattle by his niece, Mrs. H. Earle West, who will visit relatives there.

Mrs. Isaac Bailey is expected home this week from an extended eastern trip.

Mrs. Margaret L. Cary, wife of a prominent Chicago attorney, died at an early hour yesterday, at her temporary home on San Pasqual street. Funeral arrangements are deferred pending the arrival of friends and relatives from the East.

The funeral of Parker S. Richardson was held yesterday afternoon. The floral tributes were numerous. The remains were cremated.

Members of the G.A.R. are invited, as well as the general public, to a campfire to be given the evening of July 4 in the basement of the North Pasadena Methodist Church.

The Mayor and the City Fathers went on a quiet drive yesterday, presumably to the sewer farm, and, perhaps, on a still hunt for water-bearing lands. Only members of the party know, and they won't tell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Holmes and Miss Angie Holmes have returned from Mt. Wilson, where they have been spending a very enjoyable two weeks.

Charles Basore, a lad 14 years old, confessed yesterday to having wheels, but they belonged to a bicycle and the bicycle belonged to a brakeman on the Southern Pacific. The bicycle was left near the railroad station, and Basore and two companions looked at it one day, and again the next day, and so on for several days, until they really thought they had a claim on it. Basore took the wheels, another boy the chain and the third boy what he wanted. Basore's companions have not yet been arrested, though they are known to the police. Owing to the youth of the lad and the entreaties of his father, he was given a suspended sentence by the judge. Jacob Basore, the father of the boy, is a gardener, and says that this daughter, Miss Margaret, leave for the East next week.

The benefit concert at the Hotel Maryland tonight (Friday) will include some of Pasadena's best local talent. The programme will consist of vocal numbers by Miss Florence Bland, Revel Lindsy English, Miss Gertrude Roberts and Mrs. Gibbs. Instrumental numbers will be given by Miss Alice Coleman and by an orchestra selected from the Pasadena orchestra.

The money raised by contribution at this concert is to be used for the temporary support of seven motherless children. Hospital expenses and physician's services have been contributed.

OCEAN PARK.

FIGURES OF BUILDING.

OCEAN PARK, June 30.—Since the municipality of Ocean Park began to require the issuance of building permits on May 9 twenty-three licenses to build have been granted, representing an aggregate expenditure of $34,500. Since April 26 thirty-three plumbing permits have been issued. Among the residences are the following: J. Caress, No. 5 Paloma, cottage, $1500; Mrs. Felice Farrand, No. 24 Brooks avenue, two $700-cottages, and a $2100 residence; Mrs. A. S. Stotts, No. 6 Brooks avenue, $400 cottage; D. Richie, No. 12 Breeze avenue, two-story residence, $2300; F. A. Marvin, No. 80 Brooks, $1000 cottage; Abbot Kinney, $50 real estate office near "Venice."

C. I. Goucher has transferred men and teams from Long Beach to South Ocean Park, where the excavation of the canal in "Venice" is in progress. The same grading outfit is being employed as was used in grading on the electric road to Wilmington.

PREPARING TO CELEBRATE.

If there is anything which has been forgotten in the programme of the celebration of the Fourth of July here it has been thought of by the Santa Monica people. The result will be that there will be all kinds of "things doin'" along the beach next Monday. The fun will begin at sunrise and continue until midnight or later and into the day will be crowded all the fun that could be desired by any person, however patriotic. Preparations are being made for an immense crowd, for the double celebration here and at Santa Monica is something that has not occurred before, and it is expected that the attendance will be larger than in former years. Cars will be run on the electric and steam roads at intervals sufficiently frequent to accommodate all who desire to participate in the celebration, and, what is of equal importance, the electric road will be able to promptly handle the home-going crowd after the celebration has been finished. The cars will be operated as late as is necessary to carry the people.

CATALINA ISLAND.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

AVALON, June 30.—C. A. Bryant, owner of the Catalina stage line, took L. J. Rose, Jr., of Oxnard and his family through to the Isthmus yesterday by stage. Mr. Rose is one of the largest farmers of Ventura county. He raises beans, lemons and walnuts, having a solid grove of 160 acres of the latter.

The transfer of the O. P. Gutterson lots on Whitley avenue to A. J. Levy of New York was completed yesterday. The new owner is expected here next week.

Col. and Mrs. C. P. Morehous of Pasadena arrived today. They have taken rooms at the Metropole for the season.

H. E. Smith of New York tallied two more big black sea bass yesterday, making a total of seven of these big fish he has taken in the three weeks he has been here. His catch yesterday consisted of a 290-pound and a 145-pound fish.

Miss Constance Thacher and Miss Bess Griswold of Chicago, chaperoned by Mrs. Tarbell, are visitors to the island, guests at the Grand View.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Warnock of Los Angeles have taken possession of their cottage on Clarissa avenue, to remain during the summer.

R. J. Cope, wife and daughter, Miss Lucile Cope, and Charles H. Richards came across yesterday in the launch Iona.

Seven-room furnished house with bath, for rent. Manning, Avalon.

FIVE-CENT FARE GRANTED.

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.—There has been considerable complaint recently from residents of the eastern and western sections of the city because they are requirel to pay double fare on the street cars if they cross Vine street. The attention of Mr. Gabel of the Los Angeles-Pacific Railroad Company was called to the matter, and an order was promptly issued giving a 5-cent rate from one extreme of the city to the other. The same ruling applies from all points in the city to Santa Monica.

Humane Officer Webb visited the destitute family, which was brought into public notice recently by the death of the oldest boy, with a view to placing the children in more desirable homes. That night the family moved, and has not been seen since.

It is reported on what seems reliable authority that Hollywood is soon to intersect the present system at right angles and cross over into San Fernando Valley. The surveyors who have been in this vicinity, of course, "know nothing" about the object of their work.

Miss Higman of the Pueblo, Colo., High School was a Hollywood visitor yesterday.

Miss Elizabeth Lodwick and Miss Eleanor Hammock chaperones for the "Jolly Six" High School girls, who have been spending two weeks at Ocean Park, entertained last evening a number of the High School boys at their cottage on Navy street.

Miss Willo Pierce, sister of Mrs. Dr. Harper, left last night for the East. She will visit St. Louis and from there go to her home at Milan, Tenn.

The delay in the transfer of the High School bonds causes great disappointment. A special meeting of the new board of trustees has been called for Saturday, when it is hoped some action may be taken to bring about a speedy settlement of the difficulty.

TROPICO.

STRAWBERRY LAND ITEMS.

TROPICO, June 30.—Rev. Henry Goodsell of La Crosse, Wis., has purchased two lots in the Collins tract and contemplates building a fine residence soon.

F. D. Learned of Los Angeles recently purchased the Vine cottage in Cypress stret, with three lots adjacent, which he will remodel and improve.

The plans and specifications of the Tropico Presbyterian Church, as prepared by the architect, have been accepted by the board of trustees, and work is beginning on the edifice which will be situated at the corner of Central avenue and Laurel street.

Miss Mattie Hicks of Knoxville, Tenn., has purchased two lots in the Collins tract, on Palmer avenue, and will begin improving by erecting a pretty villa.

BELL.

PIPE LINE COMPLETED.

BELL, June 30.—Somewhat tardily the Bell pipe line is at last completed. Starting at pump No. 1, near the Salt Lake Depot, the line runs down Salt Lake avenue to Bell avenue from Bell to Otis, and connects with pump No. 2 at Otis and Baker avenues, with a spur to Bernal avenue. From pump No. 2 the line runs down Baker to Otis avenue and down Bell to Flora. Additional spurs run from Bell to Bear, southeast on California avenue. Nearly ten thousand feet of steel pipe has been laid, at a cost of about $6000, the work being done by Harper & Reynolds Company. The time formerly taken in irrigating the 375 acres forming the settlement, has been greatly reduced. At the tank supplying domestic water, a supplementary well has been sunk, fitted with gasoline engine and pump, so that while irrigating there will be no interruption to the domestic water supply.

SANTA MONICA.

FIRE IN PAVILION.

SANTA MONICA, June 30.—The pavilion on Ocean avenue had a narrow escape from destruction by fire last evening. Possibly by reason of a defect in the flue the roof was set on fire, and when it was discovered the flames had eaten their way into the attic and were making rapid progress when the fire engine arrived in response to an alarm. The damage was nominal. It was only the evening before that the Pier-avenue Casino had a like experience. In that case flying sparks ignited the awnings that covered the Japanese roof gardens.

PICNICS NUMEROUS.

A big budget of events is scheduled for the summer season here. The beach and the sea breezes will tomorrow attract the Grandview Presbyterian Sunday-school from Los Angeles, for an all-day picnic on the beach.

On July 9 the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Stationary Engineers' Association is coming in force with the children for a day by the breakers.

Los Angeles will send a Sunday-school picnic on July 12, and again on the 14th, to be followed a few days later by the newsboys.

But the greatest event of them all is to be the excursion on July 23 of the Los Angeles and near-by camps of the Modern Woodmen of America. The promoters of this picnic party are now busy with their arrangements, and have every assurance that there will be no less than 4000 picnickers, including the wives of the Woodmen.

SEASHORE BRIEFS.

Santa Monica Democrats are already beginning to make arrangements for the accommodations of the county convention here on August 18, so certain do they feel that the call will be for Santa Monica.

John J. Peneler and Miss Teresa A. O'Laughlin were married in the presence of a few friends and relatives at the Catholic Church this morning, Rev. James A. O'Callaghan officiating. A wedding breakfast for a party of a baker's dozen was served following the ceremony, and the couple started to begin the new life in their new cottage on Nineteenth street.

A Junior Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church is to be formed at a meeting to be held in the Church Friday afternoon, Mrs. Swinney of Los Angeles being the organizer in charge.

Jerome Marshall of Boston has purchased the Hannah Williams cottage on South Fifth street, and will make his home here.

Santa Monica's corps of public school teachers has scattered for the summer. Those who will spend the vacation in Los Angeles are Josephine Hodgkin's, Pauline Leach, Ella C. Dawson, Elsie M. Holway, Belle Banks, Alma E. Gunning, Mrs. E. W. Fellows and Florence M. Clute. The others will be scattered as follows: Guenevere Metkiff, Pomona; Anna G. Fraser, San José; Eunice Reid, Iamosa; Bertha R. Hunt, Greenville; Nellie Barnhart, Berkeley; Josephine DeBerry, Santa Cruz; Elisabeth Hamlin, Warsaw, Ind.; Nettie R. Rice, Somis. The others will summer at Santa Monica.

Revs. J. D. H. Browne, A. Mooser and Roy Jones have been appointed a committee to act for the Municipal League in securing the Pasadena Board of Trade's annual picnic for this beach.

In the indoor baseball contest the Dales team last night defeated the Chambers organization, and the Tompkins team won from the Y.M.C.A.'s.

CLAREMONT.

TAKING OUT MORE ROCK.

CLAREMONT, June 30.—A gang of men from Pasadena has been at work here for several days hauling rocks to box cars run up on the switch. Fifty carloads have already been shipped to Pasadena, and fifty more will follow. The rocks are to be crushed and used as foundation for the new concrete roads under construction in Pasadena. C. C. Johnson and others made arrangements with the men and succeeded in bringing them here to clear certain lots and streets. It means good roads for Claremont as well as for Pasadena.

Marieima F. Phelps, B.A., for the past year acting principal for women and assistant in Latin and Greek, left for the East this morning. She will spend some time in Minnesota, and visit Grinnell, Iowa, reaching her home in Chicago about the first of September.

GLENDORA.

W.C.T.U. INSTITUTE.

GLENDORA, June 30.—The W.C.T.U. of the Upper San Gabriel Valley has just closed a two days' institute here. The sessions have been held at the Methodist Episcopal Church. The address of yesterday evening was by Rev. Edith J. Booker, and was entitled "The Sovereignty of a Thorn." Mrs. S. G. Cleiland and Mrs. J. L. Matthews were among this morning's speakers, and this afternoon Mrs. I. T. Burt addressed the children in the interests of the Loyal Temperance Legion.

Jacob Zimmerman has sold his home to R. W. Hamlin; consideration named, $3000.

LONG BEACH.

MELODY EVENTS DRAW.

LONG BEACH, June 30.—The four days' musical festival is bringing in hundreds of people from the neighboring country. At the morning session today papers were read by Dr. L. M. Walters and H. H. Barnhardt on the scope of music, and the value of choral societies. This afternoon a change was made in the programme, in connection with Mrs. Fairweather's lecture on the "Philosophy of Song." Harry Barnhardt, basso, gave the Erikonig and a group of Hungarian songs; Spencer Robinson, tenor, a group of Scotch and Irish songs, and Mrs. Spencer-Robinson, contralto, a collection of ballads.

The night programme consisted of selection by a children's chorus of 100 voices, an octette from Corona under the direction of Mrs. Juliet Powell Rice, and solos by Mrs. Carrie Brown Dexter, soprano; John Douglas Walker, tenor, and the blind musician, Rosendo Uruchurtu, on an instrument of his own invention, the rosendolin.

Friday morning Mrs. Fairweather will lecture on "The Orchestra from Egypt to Los Angeles," and in the afternoon Charles F. Lummis will tell about Indian music, illustrated with native songs by Indians and native Spanish songs, closing with Longfellow's "Hiawatha's Wooing," by Miss Pearl Herndon, reader, assisted by Miss Blanche Williams, pianist. The evening event will be the "Passion Play" by Miss Ada Marie Crow, illustrated with a chorus of eighteen people in costume and stereopticon views.

The old hedge fence at the corner of Ocean Park and Pine avenues, which has long been an eyesore, has been cut away, and the cottage behind it will be transformed into neat offices.

The trustees of the Presbyterian Church have purchased 100x150 feet on the corner of Pacific and Sixth streets, two blocks from their present location, and one block west, and plans will be at once drawn for a modern church edifice, much larger than the present building, which will be removed to the new site and used as a Sunday-school room. The parsonage will be moved to a lot near the new location.

A jury this morning acquitted W. W. Melvin, one of the homestead claimants on the beach, of the charge of erecting a tent within the fire limits, there being no evidence to connect him with the act.

A committee from the Board of Trade, City Trustees, Knights of Pythias and Sons of Veterans went to Los Angeles today to present the claims of Long Beach for the vacancy in the Seventh Regiment, N.G.C.

The projectors of the commercial pier at the foot of Alamitos avenue, have had the Duque house and tropical trees and plants removed from their property on the bluff, and expect to begin work on the pier within the next month. The material has been purchased and only a few minor details remain to be settled.

FULLERTON.

NEW ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER.

FULLERTON, June 30.—Fullerton Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, has just been formed here with about twenty charter members, and has elected the following officers, who will be installed next Tuesday night by J. P. Greeley, District Inspector: Dr. Clark, High Priest; A. S. Bradford, King; M. M. Good, Scribe; Rev. Corbin, Captain of Host; Arthur Staley, Royal Arch Captain; Dr. Chilton, P.S.; E. R. Amerige, Secretary; William St. Clair, E. K. Benchley and George Miles, Masters of the Vails; P. H. Kelck, Treasurer; H. Whittaker, Guard. In addition to the charter list about thirty Masons of Fullerton, Anaheim and Buena Park have signified their willingness to join.

FULLERTON JOTTINGS.

Mrs. Charles Stone has returned from Elizabeth Lake, where she has been visiting friends.

Assemblyman Amerige stated this morning that he would be a candidate for reelection.

Mr. Page and family, recently from Oregon, have located in Fullerton.

G. L. Seward, a newcomer from Oregon, has purchased property here. He will erect a new residence and make Fullerton his future home.

In the case in which Ed Kraemer is trying to recover possession of his children from Mrs. Kraemer, who obtained a divorce from him some time ago, Mrs. Kraemer has been allowed $60 attorney fees to defend herself. The money must be paid over by Kraemer.

COVINA.

WAS NOT SUICIDE.

COVINA, June 30.—John W. Gauldin, who was found dead in his bed by his wife, with a cloth saturated with chloroform over his face, did not commit suicide. The circumstances surrounding the man's death pointed at first to suicide, but the evidence produced before the Coroner's jury this morning showed that he had been in the habit of using that anesthetic to induce sleep when afflicted with rheumatism, from which he suffered acutely at times. The jury returned a verdict of "accidental death by overdose of chloroform, self-administered." The deceased, who was an Odd Fellow, will be buried by the local lodge. The funeral will be at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow at the residence. He leaves a widow and one child, a boy. He was 34 years old and had lived in the community for twelve years. He carried an insurance in the Woodmen of America.

PAY WHEN CURED

IF YOU COME TO ME AND I tell you that I can cure you I've the confidence enough in my treatment to take all the chances. I am curing hundreds of weak men and women every day, and I know what I can cure and what I can't. If you will secure me you need not pay until cured.

WEAK, PUNY MEN

I know that no man remains a weakling because he wants to. I am sure that you want to overcome every indication of early decay that has shown itself on you. I don't think the man lives who would not like to feel as big and strong as a Sandow, and I know that if you have a reasonable foundation to build upon I can make you a bigger man than you ever hoped to be. I want you to know that, you who can't believe it, and I want you to have my book in which I describe how I learned that strength was only electricity, and how I learned to restore it; also I want to tell you the names of some men who will tell you that when they came to me they were physical wrecks, and are now among the finest specimens of physical manhood.

Dear Sir: Having used your famous electric belt for thirty days, I have received the greatest benefit that a man could gain—that is, health and strength. The old despondent feeling has gone. I feel the beginning of a new life, and am ever your debtor. P. O. box 492, Tucson, Ariz. W. E. CLARK.

I want you to read my book and learn the truth about my arguments. If you are not as vigorous as you would like to be, if you have rheumatic pains, weak kidneys, loss of vitality, prostatic troubles, nervous spells, varicocele, or any ailment of that kind that weakens you, it would assure you future happiness if you would look into this method of mine. Don't delay it, your best days are slipping by. If you want this book I send it closely sealed free. If you send this ad. Call for free consultation.
